PERMIT VOTED IN PHONE ISSUE OF $7,000,000

Utilities Body Approves Stock Increase to $20,000,000.

COMMISSION REPLIES TO CLAYTON PROTEST

Notice of Gas Rate Hearing Will Be Drafted and Sent to Companies.

The proposed issuance of $7,000,000 worth of common stock by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. was approved late yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission to increase the utility's capital stock from $13,000,000 to $20,000,000.

This action was taken over the protest of William McK. Clayton, chairman of the public utilities committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations, who last week filed a lengthy objection to the issue. A letter was sent to Mr. Clayton by Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, explaining that his protest had been considered.

The letter also declared that consideration was being given to Mr. Clayton's request that a valuation be made of the telephone company's properties, but it is not expected that any definite action will be taken in this direction for several months at least. It is understood that a valuation will, however, be ordered eventually.

Issue Is Unfettered.

While there are apparently no strings to the approval of the stock issue, the commission will keep an alert eye on the disposal of the authorized stock. If it is sold to the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., parent company of the local concern, as was the invalid issue of $2,000,000 last fall, the commission will undoubtedly move to block the sale on the ground that it is a violation of the La Follette antimerger law.

Though there was no official comment as to why the utilities body overruled Mr. Clayton's objections to the stock issue it is understood that the opinion prevailed that his argument in favor of bonds rather than stock was unsound.

A utility is considered in a more stabilized condition with no bonded indebtedness, or at least a small bonded indebtedness, in comparison with its stock issuance. Payments on stock vary according to the excess profits of the utility, while the interest on bonds must be paid regardless of the company's financial state.

Issue Is to Meet Notes.

The $7,000,000 stock issue, according to the Chesapeake & Potomac company's petition, is to be issued to meet demand notes held by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. The local company holds a New York charter.

The commission yesterday instructed Earl V. Fisher, its executive secretary, to draft a notice of a proposed gas rate and pressure hearing to be sent to the Washington Gas Light Co. and the Georgetown Gas Co. The notice will be dispatched probably the middle of this week.

This hearing has been under consideration for some time by the utilities body, although it is not expected that it will be held until late summer or early fall. Notice has already been given to the gas companies of intention to hold a hearing relative to the ownership of the local companies. The date of this hearing, which is scheduled to be set late this week, is likewise not expected to be until after the warm weather.

Gas Pits Approved.

The commission likewise yesterday approved an application of the gas companies to establish eleven pits for the housing of governors to control pressures throughout the city. This work is a part of the improvements under way now by the gas concerns.

One of the matters to be considered by the commission at the hearing will be the application of the gas companies to increase the maximum and the range of gas pressures. The present temporary range is from 2 to 8 inches, while the utilities have asked for a 3-to-10-inch range.

The commission is not contemplating any general reduction in gas rates, it is understood, but intends to adjust pressures and rates so that consumers will not have to pay any additional charges when pressures rise above the maximum permitted by the utilities body.

Although the Federation of Citizens Associations at its last meeting urged the commission to prosecute the gas companies for alleged past violations of the utilities act and to compel the gas companies to reimburse consumers for alleged overcharging last winter, it is not expected that the commission will do either.

The hearing is intended to prevent any further variations of gas pressures beyond the range allowed by the commission, and some system to enforce this will probably ensue.

Cuban Students Seek Aid at U. S. Consulate

Havana, Cuba, June 22 (U.P.).—Students who had engaged in a fight with police sought protection at the American consulate at Matanzas late today. The students fled to the consulate after the police, aided by soldiers, had broken up an antigovernment demonstration.

The embassy here said no word of the incident had been received.

Ruth Nichols Injured In Plane-Landing Jolt

St. Johns, New Brunswick, June 22 (A.P.).—Blinded by the rays of a sinking sun, Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y., society aviatrix, crashed tonight at the municipal airport and was taken to a hospital suffering from a wrenched back and other bruises and shock.

While preparations were being made tonight to have an X-ray to determine fully the extent of her injuries, the Associated Press was informed she may be severely hurt. The principal trouble was said to be an injury at the base of the spine caused when she was thrown against the gasoline container. Her plane was badly damaged.

As she was being taken to the hospital her first thoughts were for her mother.

"Send my mother a telegram saying: 'All I did was to get my back wrenched and wreck my ship. All o. k. mother. Awfully sorry about crashing, but will do it next time.'"

The message was dispatched immediately.

She smiled momentarily after dictating it, then remarked: "I'm going to take it easy for a few days. I'm planning to get"—again she stopped obviously from pain in her back—"another ship."

St. John, New Brunswick, June 22 (A.P.).—Virtually all the facilities of the western section of one of the most important ports in Canada, and other property were left in ruins today when fire swept the St. John waterfront.

No official estimate of the damage was available, but it was believed to exceed $10,000,000, the largest in Canada since the Halifax fire in 1917 took a toll of 1,300 lives and destroyed $25,000,000 property.

Property both on shore and in the harbor was destroyed by the conflagration which raged unchecked for several hours after it was discovered at 11 o'clock a. m. in a shed on one of the wharves. An offshore wind prevented the flames spreading through the city of 60,000 population.

The Canadian Pacific coastal steamer Empress, which formerly plied between Boston and St. John, was caught at its dock by the flames and destroyed, and several other craft in the harbor met the same fate.

Wooden sheds and grain elevators along the waterfront served as tinder for the fire, which made rapid progress despite efforts of the entire city fire fighting force. Finally after about four hours the fire appeared to have spent its force and firemen concentrated on confining it to its original area.

Cause of the blaze was not determined. One theory was that it might have been started by a careless smoker. Another was that it originated in a freight car loaded with bananas.

It was the city's worst fire since June 20, 1877, when two-thirds of the town's property was wiped out with a loss of $27,000,000.

Day turned into night as great billowy clouds of smoke curtained the sky and added to confusion among residents.

The harbor commission, a Federal body in charge of harbor property and business for the Federal government, was the biggest loser. Alex Graf, chief engineer and manager of the commission, placed the government's loss at $3,500,000.

Fire ran the entire length of the series of wharves that comprise the western section of the port, but the eastern section was not affected. A summary of the property destroyed in addition to the steamer includes eleven sheds, the Canadian Pacific elevator, the immigration waterfront building, a $500,000 fertilizer shed, an old wooden elevator, a harbor boat, the Glooscap, a motor launch, several fishing schooners, a score of loaded freight cars, and wharves, conveyors and houses, the exact number of which is not known.

Two firemen were severely burned.

VIVIAN GORDON SLAIN AS FAVOR TO 'FRIEND'

State's Star Witness Says Former Convict Killed to Aid 'Radeloff.'

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—A jury in a crowded Bronx courtroom heard today that Vivian Gordon, Broadway vice figure, was killed with a rope noose because of a former convict's desire to aid a friend to whom he was indebted.

From the State's star witness, Harry Schlitten, self-labelled driver of a car in which Vivian was strangled, came the sinister story of underworld intrigue.

Harry Stein, who with Samuel Greenberg is on trial for the murder, directed Schlitten, the latter testified to obtain and drive the car, saying, "If I don't put a certain party out of the way, a friend of mine is going to end up in jail."

Subsequently, Schlitten related, Stein pointed to a newspaper photograph and said, "There's the party we done it for, Radeloff. * * * I owe him $1,500. * * * He defended me in a case."

The witness did not further identify "Radeloff" and gave no indication whether he was John A. Radeloff, Brooklyn lawyer, referred to in Miss Gordon's diaries."

Schlitten fixed his gaze on the floor as he told in low tones of getting a sedan from a rental agency last February and acting as chauffeur, while Stein and Greenberg assertedly throttled the life from Miss Gordon and tossed her body into Van Cortlandt Park.

"That awful cackle she made" and a mental picture of the death struggle which gave him sleepless nights partly impelled his confession to the police, Schlitten said.

For nearly four hours Schlitten was subjected to a blistering cross-examination by the defense, which was unfinished when court recessed. He said he had been promised $1,000 to

Senator Barkley Hurt When Car Strikes Pole

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 22 (A.P.).—Senator A. W. Barkley, of Kentucky, suffered a broken right knee and a fractured rib when his automobile skidded on a gravel road near Rockland, Ohio, today and hit a pole. He was brought to a Parkersburg hospital from Rockland, two miles from here.

Senator Barkley, whose home is at Paducah, Ky., had addressed a meeting of Spanish War veterans at Danville, Ohio, and was on the way to Washington, D. C., to take a train for Boston. There he was scheduled to address a meeting of the National Association of Credit Men. The senator was alone in the car.

Tale of Man's Hoax Victims Lists Hoover, Ford, Herrick

Hungarian Says He Quit Harvard to Become Baron Von Krupp; Names of Dupes Include Governors; Claims Engagement to Eleanor du Pont.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—A recital of the strange hoaxes confessedly perpetrated by George Robert Gabor, 25-year-old Hungarian who says he once was engaged to Eleanor du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., caused a Federal judge today to mutter "what saps we humans are."

Gabor, who in 1928 received suspension of a five-year sentence for entering the Port of New York on a fraudulent passport, was arraigned before Judge John C. Knox for alleged violation of parole.

His signed confession of his adventures was read. In it he said he left Harvard Law School to assume the role of Baron Von Krupp on a wager.

As a member of the famous German family, he tourned the country from coast to coast in an automobile given him by Henry Ford, he said.

He admitted serving nine months in the Wilmington, Del., workhouse, and seventeen months in McNeil Island Penitentiary, Washington, for fraudulent impersonation. He passed a bad $100 check in Wilmington.

Later, he said, he was shanghaied from this country for his engagement to Miss du Pont.

As far as it has been possible for the government to check the man's story, United States Attorney T. J. Todarelli said, it is true.

In Paris, assuming the name "Taft Thew," Gabor telephoned Myron T. Herrick, American Ambassador, using the name of W. C. Widener, well known in Philadelphia social circles.

As "Widener" he asked Mr. Herrick to befriend "Thew," son of "a former American Ambassador." Herrick gave

JOSEPH HOWAR SUBPENAED TO RHEEM INQUIRY

HARRY M. BRALOVE ALSO WILL APPEAR

Referee Told That Former Owes Bankrupt Large Unsecured Sum.

A. Joseph Howar, Washington builder, whose business relations with Edmund D. Rheem, vice president of bankrupt Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. have been under inquiry at creditors' hearings, was subpenaed yesterday to appear before the referee in bankruptcy at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Howar was ordered to bring with him all bank and personal records showing his dealings with the defunct company from January 1, 1926, to the present day.

Two additional subpenas were issued, naming Rheem and Harry M. Bralove, who had dealings with the company in the Broadmoor and Shoreham Hotel transactions. They were issued at the behest of George E. Sullivan, attorney for the note holding interests.

Rheem Told to Bring Stubs.

All three of the subpenas are returnable at the company offices this morning, when creditors' hearings before Referee Fred J. Eden are scheduled to be resumed.

Rheem is required to bring check stubs, bank deposit slips and all other records throwing light not only on his business dealings as vice president of the defunct firm, but covering private transactions as well.

No explanation was given for the Bralove subpena, although his name has been often mentioned at the hearings in connection with company deals. The subpena asks information bearing on his personal relations with the firm, or relations he may have had with the company "in conjunction with others."

The referee has yet to rule on whether creditors have a right to examine personal bank records of Howar that were produced last Friday in response to petitions sworn out by Marcus Borchardt, another attorney figuring prominently in the examination.

Unsecured Debt Charged.

Objections were raised by counsel for Howar at the last hearing. Referee Eden took the point under advisement, but indicated he would announce his decision today. Last night he told The Post he would make no ruling until he has heard Howar.

Earlier in the hearings attorneys charged that Howar owes "several hundred thousand dollars" to the defunct company. Rheem testified on the stand that the company has no collateral for the debt "except Howar's ability to pay."

In the interim since Rheem's personal bank records were produced, attorneys have been poring over them. Additional evidence, which bank officials said they did not have time to get together for the last hearing, will be produced today. Attorneys indicated that they may cross-examine Rheem this morning on some of the records already examined.

Nugent Dodds, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the criminal investigation against Rheem, who is now under $25,000 bond on embezzlement charges, said last night that no date has been fixed for the trial. He characterized as ridiculous reports that the charges might be nolle prossed.

STOCKS SOAR AS AFTERMATH OF HOOVER DEBT DELAY PLAN; REPLY OF FRANCE IS AWAITED

Paris Government Takes U. S. Proposal Under Advisement.

MAY OPPOSE WAIVING CERTAIN OBLIGATIONS

"Unconditional Annuities" of Germany Are Likely to Be Insisted Upon.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Paris, June 22 (A.P.).—The French government, upon whose attitude world-wide interest centers, today took under advisement President Hoover's plan for a year's suspension of all war debts and reparations payments.

Until late this evening Premier Laval, Foreign Minister Briand and Finance Minister Flandin conferred with other members of the ministry, and later M. Flandin called upon President Doumer. Tomorrow the proposal will be examined in detail by a full cabinet meeting.

Officials were careful tonight not to make any predictions regarding France's attitude on the question.

An official spokesman for the foreign office said that France considers President Hoover's move a "great and generous act." It was added that this act was particularly large in spirit because of the United States' own financial difficulties.

May Find Stumbling Block.

It was apparent in talks with officials that France does not wish to raise insurmountable obstacles to the American initiative nor does she wish to be put before the world as blocking it.

However, whatever attitude the government may take there were rumblings from political quarters today that any attempt of the government to renounce even temporarily payment of those German reparations which are devoted to reimbursement of actual war damages, known as the unconditional annuities under the Young plan, will encounter strong opposition in the Chamber of Deputies.

Several Deputies, speaking in the lobbies, declared it was just as important to maintain the principle of war damage reparations as it was to oppose the recent German attempt to bring about a customs union with Austria.

France May Delay Reply.

Political circles also displayed much interest in whether the American Government had discussed the suspension proposal with France before making it public. This took concrete form in the announcement by Louis Marin, right leader and foe of Briand's policies, that he would interpellate the government on whether Briand had been consulted by the United States, and if so what Briand had told Washington.

In any event, it is not regarded as likely that France would reply immediately to the American offer in view of the fact that the proposal is likely to have such far-reaching effects on the future, and she must scrutinize it from every political, economic, legal and financial standpoint as well as with regard to its effect on the Young plan.

Such an outstanding financial newspaper as L'Information, while it describes Mr. Hoover's proposal as comparable to President Wilson's announcement of his "fourteen points," and an instrument "opening new and favorable horizons," sees enormous difficulties in abandoning the unconditional annuities, which it asserts

All English Parties Support Hoover Plan

Proposal Finds Favor in Other European Capitals With Exception of Paris and Brussels; Britain Seeks Application.

London, June 22 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, speaking in the House of Commons today, announced the government of Great Britain cordially welcomed President Hoover's "striking declaration" offering a one-year moratorium on intergovernmental debts.

"His majesty's government cordially welcomes the striking declaration made by President Hoover," he said, "for their part they desire at once to state that they subscribe wholeheartedly to the principle of the President's proposal and are prepared to cooperate in the elaboration of details with a view to giving it practical effect without delay."

Dispatches from most of the capitals of Europe announced that the offer had been received there in much the same spirit.

In France and Belgium, however, there was marked concern as to how the national budgets will be balanced without the money which would be coming in under the reparations agreements. These two countries, next to the United States, stand to lose the most by a moratorium.

The markets of the world responded to the prospect of diversion of millions in European gold from the payment of debts to purchases and national development.

ITALY WOULD LIMIT GERMAN FUNDS USE

Insists That Money Saved by Moratorium Be Spent on Rehabilitation.

Rome, June 12 (A.P.).—A high government official tonight said that Italy accepts gladly America's "magnificent gesture" in the form of President Hoover's proposal, but insists that Germany must be obliged to utilize this relief for economic rehabilitation and "not for any political purpose such as an Austro-German union."

In announcing this policy he made it plain that Italy must sacrifice between $9,000,000 and $9,500,000 and that her cooperation therefore is something more than "platonic."

This sacrifice is the excess of the German reparations payment over the debt payments to the United States and to Great Britain. This normally goes into sinking fund for the future when reparations are diminished and the debt payments increase.

Italy already has exchanged ideas with London and Paris and it is believed here her policy reflects the general allied attitude.

The help of the United States in the world crisis is treated not only as a splendid and magnanimous act, but as a wise one. Italy is reported as being particularly pleased because Premier Mussolini has long felt there should be a scaling down of war debts and reparations.

The constructive effort if properly utilized, it is felt, is certain to constitute a step toward moral disarmament and that in turn ought to help the physical disarmament which is described as one of Italy's political ideals. Therefore President Hoover's initiative is called not only economic relief, but an act that should create a disarmament spirit.

Therefore there is great insistence that Germany must realize the full significance of this world "gesture to solidarity," and to remember that "when the load is lifted from her shoulders she must remember why it was done."

Fire at Atlantic City Causes $500,000 Loss

Atlantic City, N. J., June 23 (A.P.).—Fire in the heart of the business section of the boardwalk tonight caused damage estimated by fire officials at $500,000 and sent four firemen to the city hospital. Twelve buildings, mostly one-story shops, were destroyed.

Berlin, June 22 (A.P.).—A tidal wave of optimism swept over Germany today, washing the accumulated gloom of years into the gutter.

This was the reaction to President Hoover's proposal of a year's respite in the payment of war debts and reparations—a proposal that was characterized as "an historic event of the very greatest significance" by Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, who thanked America in his first public statement since Mr. Hoover made his pronouncement Saturday.

The boerse reflected the nation's relief with an upswing that sent leading shares 10 to 30 points skyward.

Even the die-hard Nationalist and the Monarchist press headlined the Hoover move as "the American silver lining" and "without doubt the most important event in the postwar world."

In contrast to the general reaction was that portion of the press which reflects the views of Adolf Hitler's National Socialists. It signaled distress under the banner, "Germany Victim of New American Bluff."

Neither in the press nor in official circles was the fact overlooked that France is yet to be considered. Her reply is anxiously awaited.

At the core of the new German optimism over America's entry as the rescuer is the all-important fact that, regardless of any difficulties ahead, the heroic task of restoring hope and confidence already has been started—and the restoration of confidence is more important than gold.

In his first public pronouncement Chancellor Bruening indicated he realized fully the importance of the part France will play.

"I have the conviction and hope that France will not let slip by this very great moment for the pacification of the world, of which rapprochement between France and Germany is an important integral part," he said.

The chancellor made that statement to a small group of American newspapermen, whom he asked to tell the United States of his and Germany's gratitude.

"We accepted the extraordinarily significant plan of the President of the United States joyfully and with heartfelt gratitude," he said.

"The step comes at a moment when distress and difficulties have reached

BRITAIN AND AUSTRIA DISPLAY ENTHUSIASM

(Associated Press.)

The immediate effect of President Hoover's pronouncement for a one-year war debt moratorium was to send stock and commodity markets booming from New York to Bombay.

In Berlin, where Chancellor Bruening described the offer as a "historic event of the greatest significance," the market rose 10 to 30 points on the strength of Germany's formal acceptance of the proposal, and despite assertions in the opposition press that Germany is "the victim of American bluff."

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, in London, told the House of Commons that the British government accepted the offer and he was joined by Stanley Baldwin, the Conservative leader, and David Lloyd George, head of the Liberal party. England is turning its attention now to the details which would make the moratorium effective.

France Intends No Obstacle.

The French cabinet received the text of the President's offer and the government let it be known France wants to raise no obstacle to acceptance. Political opposition rallies, however, about the contention that Germany's unconditional reparations payments must not be postponed. The opposition wants to know also whether France was consulted before Mr. Hoover's proposal was made public.

Rome has accepted the offers informally with the stipulation that Germany must utilize the relief accorded her for economic rehabilitation only. Other governments throughout the world have received the President's suggestion in much the same spirit.

In Washington Mr. Hoover is giving all his attention to the situation which his offer of a moratorium has created. Secretary Stimson has reiterated the warning that there must be no bargaining and that prompt action by all the nations is imperative. Washington is optimistic that all the nations concerned, France included, will accept the proposal as it stands.

It was said on the highest authority last night that President Hoover's proposal for one year's suspension of war debts and reparations payments was designed to include the unconditional annuities paid by Germany.

Cover Rebuilding of Territories.

The unconditional annuities are paid to France and Belgium to cover their cash payments in reconstruction of the areas devastated by the war. The amounts are over and above payments made by Belgium and France on their own war debts.

The question whether the unconditional annuities were included in the proposed debt suspension was raised unofficially in France, which has not yet approved the moratorium.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Official eyes were focused last night on hesitating France as a warning went forward that an immediate decision by the European nations was vital if the debt suspension plan was to be effective.

Great Britain, Italy and Austria joined Germany in informal approval during the day while stock and commodity markets moved upward to evidence public indorsement in almost every part of the globe.

President Hoover kept close contact with Secretary Stimson throughout a veritable parade of diplomats, bringing to the State Department the reactions of the governments.

Distinct Optimism Prevails.

Distinct optimism prevailed in official Washington last night on the basis of the day's developments. Confidence that the world's response would have a tremendous effect on France's ultimate decision was manifested.

Secretary Stimson, meanwhile, gave notice there would be no bargaining on the moratorium proposal, ruling

Emergency Hospital Service Investigated

Complaint Made to Officials That Four Calls for Ambulance Failed to Bring Assistance to Man Suffering From Hemorrhage.

The ambulance system at Emergency Hospital was under investigation by officials of the institution last night following complaints that the ambulance failed to respond to care for a man who was seriously ill, although at least four calls were sent to the hospital between 5:20 p. m. yesterday afternoon and 7:45 o'clock last night.

Up to midnight last night the patient, who was suffering from a hemorrhage, had failed to receive any attention from members of the Emergency staff.

Benjamin A. Burleson, 34 years old, of 1824 California street northwest, stopped in front of his home shortly after 5 o'clock and, staggering from his car, asked neighbors to call a physician as he was desperately ill. He was assisted into his home by Edwin L. Knarr, of 1826 California street, and John Knox, of Baltimore, an official of the Corkran-Hill Co., for which Mr. Burleson is salesman.

Mr. Knarr said he called seven physicians, but was unable to get any one of them to treat his neighbor, as they were all out of their offices or attending patients. Then Mr. Knarr called the Eighth Precinct Station, which in turn relayed the call to headquarters.

At 5:20 p. m. police at headquarters put in a call for the Emergency Hospital ambulance.

Shortly after 5:20 o'clock Dr. Francis A. St. Clair, of 1458 Clifton street northwest, who had left two patients in his office, arrived at the Burleson residence and began first aid treatment. Private D. A. Davis, of the Eighth Precinct, who was detailed to investigate Mr. Knarr's call to the station, also arrived at the home.

At 5:40 p. m., according to Private Davis and members of Mr. Burleson's lance had failed to make its appearance and a second call was made to the hospital. The operator told Private Davis that the ambulance was on its way to the house, it was stated.

At 6 p. m. the ambulance still had failed to appear, and another call was made to the hospital, and Private Davis was again told that the ambulance was on its way to 1824 California street.

At 6:40 p. m., hospital attention was still lacking for Mr. Burleson and Mr. Knarr called this time to ask for the ambulance. He was also told that the ambulance was on its way, and when he protested against the service, was told that the ambulance would be sent.

The ambulance never arrived.

Meantime the patient appeared to have passed the crisis and Dr. St.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Appears on Pages 3, 5 and 22 Today

out of the question a French suggestion that a conference on war debts be called.

In their discussions with foreign diplomats, American officials emphasize their view that prompt action is imperative if the beneficial economic effects already noted are to be sustained.

It was learned last night that Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, and Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, the ranking Democrat on the finance committee, are coming to the Capital at once.

It was believed they would confer with the President on the moratorium proposal. However, each has already approved it and there was some speculation on whether any new economic proposals are in the making. Chairman Smoot, of the Senate finance committee, is here with some suggestions on the silver problem.

At the White House it was emphasized that the President is giving all his attention just now to the moratorium and that he does not want this to become involved in debate over other questions.

With France holding the final answer to the moratorium scheme, a call by Ambassador Claudel at the State Department late in the day attracted considerable notice. It was understood, however, that he merely reported receipt of America's proposal by his government and that he was without knowledge of France's policy.

France's Acceptance Likely.

The consensus among French diplomatic representatives, nevertheless, was that France would accept.

While the moratorium proposal developed at the White House with startling suddenness last week, it became known yesterday it has been under consideration since June 5. It was entrusted to Secretary Mellon upon his departure for London a few days later and it was after Mr. Mellon conferred with British officials that the President called in the congressional leaders for their approval.

Because of the support pledged by both Republicans and Democrats in Congress, there is little doubt in administration minds of the necessary congressional approval.

The President is emphasizing that he regards the proposal as nonpolitical. He has asked callers to consider it nonpartisan.

Officials here intend giving early consideration to means of keeping the Treasury balanced. To this year's deficit of $850,000,000 the moratorium will add a loss of $245,000,000 next year in war debt payments which otherwise would have been collected.

Britain, Austria Enthusiastic.

The official representatives of Great Britain and Austria were enthusiastic in informing Secretary Stimson of their governments' favorable attitude. Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador, had a lengthy conference.

Minister Prochnik, of Austria, reported his government's "wholehearted acceptance."

"We have always felt," he said, "that things in Europe would not take a turn for the better unless the United States agreed to help in Europe's economic recovery."

Undersecretary Mills, of the Treasury, conferred with the financial attache of the French Embassy, Emmanuel Monick, over the loss to France from a holiday in debt payments.

Mr. Mills presented computations representing the difference between a suspension of all conditional payments permitted under the Young plan and a suspension of both conditional and unconditional payments as contemplated in President Hoover's proposal. He asked that the computations be compared with those of the French treasury.

France Would Make Sacrifice.

Total payments due France during the next fiscal year approximate $199,800,000. In the same time she would pay the United States approximately $50,000,000.

Many members of Congress who have given their indorsement to the debt suspension were emphatic today in declaring they would not consider the moratorium as an entering wedge for a revision or cancellation of debts.

In this regard, they considered the statement of President Hoover against cancelaition as final. Chairman Smoot, who has been dubious that the war debts ever would be paid in full, emphasized yesterday that he would oppose any effort at the end of the year's moratorium to revise or cancel the war obligations due the United States.

Expect Some Disarmament.

The congressional leaders also are expecting some disarmament in Europe on the basis of the moratorium. Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, has declared the moratorium will merely postpone "the evil day," unless there is an accompanying reduction in arms.

Senator Fletcher (Democrat), Florida, who indorsed the moratorium proposal, joined in an expression of hope that it would lead to affirmative action at the land armaments conference to be held in Geneva next February.

Representative Evans (Democrat), Montana, issued a statement saying: "I shall probably vote for this suspension, but not until some steps are taken to care for our own unemployed."

Violates Pledges, Says Steagall.

President Hoover's proposal was described yesterday by Representative Steagall as a "step in a program looking toward cancellation of the debts of our allies."

The Alabama Democrat, who is a member of the House banking committee, contended in a statement it was a violation of campaign pledges and said, "No man could have been elected President on such a program."

Contending the President's action emphasized the wisdom of Congress being called in session to deal with the Nation's problems, Mr. Steagall said, "The indefensible rates of the administration's tariff law have throttled world trade and seriously curtailed the ability of the European nations to meet their obligations.

New Argentine Envoy On Way to Post Here

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—Dr. Felipe Espil, recently appointed Argentine Ambassador, arriving here today en route to Washington to assume his post, gave assurances that the Argentine government would continue to welcome and encourage foreign capital and investments.

He said the provisional government was extremely anxious to restore the country to its normal constitutional regime and that general elections would be held November 8.

Humphrey O'Sullivan, 77, Dies.

Lowell, Mass., June 22 (A.P.).—Humphrey O'Sullivan, 77, who with his brother James established the O'Sullivan rubber heel business, died today. He was widely known in political circles and on several occasions had been a member of the Democratic national committee.

HOOVER PLAN BOOMS MARKETS OF WORLD

Millions Are Added to Security and Commodity Values as Exchanges React.

New York June 22 (A.P.).—A financial and business world weary and dejected from the seemingly endless ordeal of hard times was revitalized today.

Billions were added to security and commodity values in the great exchanges of the world as President Hoover's proposal for dropping the heavy burden of war debts for one year was seized as the meatiest piece of good news in a long time.

Leaders in finance ackowledged that the news may not be digested as joyfully as it was devoured but held high hopes that it might mark a turning point in a slow change from lean to fatter years.

In Wall Street, in Berlin, London, Rome, Tokyo, Shanghai, security and commodity prices leapt upward, and even in Paris, although that capital was somewhat cool toward the debt proposal.

Heavy Gains in Wall Street.

Equity share values in Wall street gained $1 to $9, cotton advanced more than $3 a bale. Silver, still a monetary base for a large portion of the world's population, was marked up 2 cents an ounce. Offerings of copper at 8 cents a pound, its low point of modern times, quickly disappeared, as millions of pounds were bought for export. There was a rush of buyers in Worth Street Textile Market as prices stiffened.

The psychological reaction of world markets was one of the most dramatic in recent times, if, as bankers explained, it was largely a "psychological" reaction, it was accompanied by a profound feeling that economic history was being made.

Both here and abroad, observers compared the turn of affairs with such momentous developments as the entrance of the United States into the World War, and the signing of the peace treaties.

Stiff Bracer Needed.

After all, as one of Wall Street's foremost bankers explained informally, what financial sentiment needed most was a stiff bracer. As the depression has apparently dragged along bottom for some months, he added, pessimism and fear have been carried to illogical and often absurd extremes.

The advance in share prices in the New York market was not as violent as that of Saturday, as some of the surprise element wore off, the retreat of die-hard bears was completed and traders took profits. The Standard Statistics Co. weighted average of 90 leading shares indicated an average advance of $4.70 a share, compared to $6.30 in Saturday's brief session.

It was indicated, however, that nearly $4,000,000,000 had been added in two sessions to the aggregate quoted value of shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange alone, to say nothing of the advance in security and commodity values on other world exchanges.

ANSWER OF FRANCE ON DEBTS IS AWAITED

would be equivalent to abandoning the Young plan itself.

Many others express the belief that acceptance of the "Hoover plan" would mean eventual scrapping of the Young plan, and the extreme Nationalist journal Des Debats goes so far as to say "President Hoover has torpedoed the Young plan," and expresses astonishment that he did not consult France before announcing details of his proposal.

It was said, however, that Ambassador Claudel, French representative at Washington, had been informed of the President's intentions before the suspension offer was made known to the world.

In general, the reliable opinion in Paris is that while Mr. Hoover has sponsored a broad principle calculated to benefit the whole world, incorporation of that principle into an actual working agreement will require much time and probably will involve counter suggestions, perhaps an international conference, before the problem can be settled satisfactorily.

The text of the President's offer was delivered to the foreign office today by Ambassador Edge and a meeting of financial experts, several of whom were active in formulation of the Young plan, immediately took it under consideration.

Bachelor Wales' Birthday To Be Marked Over Empire

37-Year-Old Prince Will Be Busy Today On Official Duties.

London, June 22 (A.P.).—Flags will fly throughout the British empire to the loneliest outpost tomorrow for the 37-year-old bachelor Prince of Wales, whose birthday it will be.

In London's Hyde Park, within earshot of Edward's plainly furnished study in St. James Palace, guns will boom out a royal salute, but it will be just another busy day for the traveling prince and his daily routine will go on undisturbed.

In the morning, as prior of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, he will be present at the king's investiture at Buckingham Palace on the occasion of the centepary of the order.

The rest of the day he will be busy at his home in York House (part of St. James Palace), where he will receive visitors dealing with official business.

The prince probably will have lunch with his parents at Buckingham Palace.

The birthday, incidentally, will mean a lot of extra work for Edward's staff, which must answer some 300 official congratulations in addition to messages from Ambassadors and private friends.

Wednesday the prince will take up his travels again—this time, however, only as far as Scotland, where he will attend the Highland agricultural show in Edinburgh and the British Legion conference at Inverness.

In the last twelve years Prince Edward has visited some 40 countries, not including those of Europe, and has traveled approximately 200,000 miles around the world.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

Expenses of these extensive trips were paid out of his own purse, except those specifically suggested by the government.

Friends of the British heir say he is the most thoroughly "organized" man in London. His days are carefully planned, even to the exact minute he can stay on the golf course, a game which he plays "by the clock."

NEW CASH PROBLEM FACED BY TREASURY

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's proposal of a debt moratorium presented a new financial problem for the Treasury yesterday, despite a declining Federal deficit.

With the end of the fiscal year close at hand and indications that the deficit will be nearer $850,000,000 than the $950,000,000 forecast a month ago, the Treasury faced the possible elimination of $246,566,806 in foreign payments next year. Due to the proposed moratorium, however, Undersecretary Mills said, the Hoover debt holiday would be "a very good investment for the Treasury if it turns the tide of business."

"Judging by the action of the principal markets of the world today it is regarded as a favorable factor," he said. "If it does turn the tide, it will be a very good investment for the Treasury."

Trade Gain Would Repay.

Mills believes an upturn in business would repay by increased tax collections the losses through foreign debts.

A 1932 deficit of about a billion dollars already has been forecast unless additional taxes are levied.

Interest payments on the war debt contributed $184,474,000 toward reduction of the 1931 deficit.

A moratorium agreement would add to the prospective 1932 deficit $184,222,000 in foreign interest payments due next year and this amount would eventually be added to the public debt.

Meanwhile, a direct $62,344,600 retirement in the public debt through principal payments by foreign nations in 1932 also would be eliminated by the proposed suspension. Principal payments in 1932 made a $51,588,000 dent in the $16,500,000,000 total.

Comparison of Expenditures.

At the close of business June 19, fiscal year expenditures of the Government had reached $4,116,605,000 as compared with earlier estimates of a June 30 total of $4,435,000,000. Revenue had totaled $3,237,437,100 as against $4,076,316,100 over the same period last year.

The difference between actual expenditures and the earlier estimates has cut the deficit below the estimated $950,000,000 total. If June income tax collections reach the estimated $290,000,000 and expenditures show no unexpected increase, the year-end deficit will fall below $850,000,000.

Airplane Pilot Killed In Mishap at Detroit

Detroit, June 22 (A.P.).—Robert Langhan, a pilot for the Cain Aircraft Corporation, was killed today when his plane crashed from an altitude of about 1,000 feet at the Wayne County Airport.

Langhan was testing a monoplane for Department of Commerce approval. The ship crashed when it failed to come out of a spin.

FARM AID EXPECTED FROM MORATORIUM

(United Press.)

Solution of one of the most vexatious problems of the Hoover administration, the distressed condition of American agriculture, may result if there is an international acceptance of the President's proposed one year moratorium on reparations and war debts payments.

Hope for such a solution, in part at least, was held out yesterday by Carl Williams, acting chairman of the Federal Farm Board.

Cotton and wheat, particularly cotton, are the commodities which Williams believes will benefit if the moratorium is adopted. He cited yesterday's rising wheat and cotton prices on the exchanges as evidence that some benefits have accrued, already even though the moratorium is still in the tentative stage.

Economic Pressure Cuts Use.

Decreased consumption of American cotton in practically all European countries except France, is the reason assigned by Williams for the present depressed condition of that American industry.

He is convinced the decreased consumption is a result of economic pressure rather than any more fundamental change in market conditions. To sustain this opinion, he pointed out that consumption of cotton in France, which has not been so hard hit as other nations, has actually increased while it was declining in other countries.

If the millions now earmarked for war debts and reparations payments are released for other purposes, he believes, there will be an increase in purchasing power which will tend to absorb the American cotton crop with a consequent increase in cotton prices for American producers.

Cotton Fluctuation Is Wide.

Illustrating the effect of the European depression on cotton, Williams cited a decline of 37 per cent in British consumption from the end of the 1928-1929 season and a drop of more than 30 per cent in the combined consumption of Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia since the end of the 1927-1928 season.

Cotton consumption fluctuates widely in response to economic factors, Williams said.

Because of this characteristic there is more optimism about cotton than about wheat in sources close to the Farm Board. It is felt there is a serious world overproduction of wheat, and that whereas such elements as fashion and the economic position of the purchaser may result in a sharp stimulation of the cotton market, these same factors do not enter so largely in the case of wheat.

Market May Take Surpluses.

At present the stabilization corporations financed through Farm Board loans have on hand about 1,300,000 bales of cotton and approximately 200,000,000 bushels of wheat. A decided improvement in market conditions would make it possible for the board to dispose of some of these surpluses and thus get back part of its advances. However, the board's policy has been to refrain from attempts to dispose of its holdings until it can be done without injury to domestic producers.

As to wheat, however, the board so far has refrained from any definite pledge to abstain from selling its surplus. There was a denial from Williams yesterday of a market rumor to the effect the board was considering an announcement it would not sell any of the wheat surplus for one year. Williams said the policy announced about two months ago, to refrain from stabilization purchases of the 1931 crop and to dispose of present holdings when that can be done with a minimum of inconvenience to domestic producers, still stands as the board's attitude.

There is some feeling that an improvement in European economic conditions would redound to the benefit of American agriculture in another direction through a possible increase in European consumption of meat. Formerly American exports of meat and meat animals amounted to a considerable figure. At present, however, imports and exports about balance, and some economists believe this is due to the decreased purchasing power of European consumers.

Capone's Nemesis Deplores Glorifying of Gang Crimes

U. S. Attorney in Radio Talk Tells Children of Nation That Organized Racketeering Is Ugly and Sordid; New Ideals Are Urged.

Chicago, June 22 (A.P.).—The false glamor of organized crime was torn aside in a message directed to the boys and girls of America over a national radio hook-up tonight by George E. Q. Johnson, United States attorney, who brought about the indictment of Alphonse Capone, who pleaded guilty to 5,000 charges and now faces sentence after a long career.

"When you deal with organized crime at first hand," said Johnson, "you learn that it is ugly and sordid. The persons who profit by it and give expression to their illicit profits in gaudy clothing and flashy cars exist only as butterflies. Their life ends in disaster."

Transfer of the glamor and romance of the Wild West, which thrilled the youth of his generation, Johnson said, to gangs and gang leaders, was a "regrettable" condition that had grown up in the last ten years. Its effect, he indicated, might be felt still more keenly when today's younger generation, 25 years from now, held the responsibility of government.

Gigantic enterprises, great inventions and scientific achievements, which inspired and dazzled, were recommended by Johnson to take the place of the false inspiration of glorified crime and criminals.

He traced the history of one typical gang of 47 men, the eldest 26 years old when it formed soon after the World War.

In ten years, he said, five were killed by police, four were killed by their own gang on suspicion of treachery, twelve were in penitentiaries, three were maimed by police bullets and reduced to beggary, six were moral and physical derelicts, six were still "moderately successful" crime executives and three were engaged in crimes of violence. Only four had reformed. The other four were unaccounted for.

The end of the era of heroized crime exponents was at hand with the imminent sentencing of Capone, Johnson predicted.

"Capone will be the last well-advertised gang leader in Chicago, and I hope in the United States," he said. "Every large American city has its local Capone. For all of them, we can read the handwriting on the wall."

NORTHWEST TO GET RELIEF IN DROUGHT

Hyde Moves to Extend Aid Through Credit Firms; $9,000,000 Available.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Hyde moved yesterday to extend financial assistance to Northwest drought States through credit corporations.

He dispatched a special representative, John G. Brown, to outline to North Dakota and Montana county representatives facilities available under the $10,000,000 emergency fund voted by the last Congress.

More than $9,000,000 of this fund remains. The Agriculture Department will make loans to individuals for purchasing stock in agricultural credit corporations and live stock loan companies, where the local community subscribes 30 per cent of the capital stock.

Mr. Hyde has received a number of appeals from North Dakota, Montana and Idaho for crop production and farm rehabilitation loans, which were closed April 30. He replied there appeared to be no authority for reopening these funds, which totaled $57,000,000.

The credit corporation loans were extended for another year to permit greater participation. The department said the most serious damage from drought in the Northwest is confined to northwestern North Dakota and northeastern Montana. Some relief was afforded over the week-end by generous rains.

Former French Leader Dead at Age of 90 Years

Mezin, France, June 22 (A.P.).—Armand Fallieres, former president of France, died suddenly today.

M. Fallieres was 90 years old. He was president of the third French Republic from 1906 until 1913. Previously, he was president of the Senate and a minister in several cabinets.

He was a confidante of the late King Edward of England, the Prince of Wales, now Kingg George V, King Haakon, of Norway, and most of the crowned heads of Europe.

Berlin Revolt Fear Seen Back of Aid

Moscow, June 22 (A.P.).—The official organ Izvestia declares today that President Hoover's war debt proposal is "dictated by fear of German revolution."

"According to present agreements German is to share only two-thirds of the advantages granted by the United States to her debtors," the newspaper says. "This wil hardly constitute hal of the payments by Germany, according to the Young plan.

"Germany's payments, according to the Young plan, considerably exceed those of the allies to the United States, which will play an important part in determining the attitude toward the Hoover proposal of France, which is receiving from Germany more than she pays America.

"English payments are almost equal to those which Germany pays England, a fact that explains London's generosity."

German Meddling Charged in Austria

Newspaper Claims Envoy Tried to Influence Cabinet Crisis.

Vienna, Austria, June 22 (A.P.).—A minor sensation was caused today by a story printed in the Wiener Montagblatt, Christian Socialist party organ, charging that Germany had interferred with formation of an Austrian cabinet. The German Legation has issued a blanket denial of all the charges.

The newspaper, which credits the story to its Budapest correspondent, says Dr. Cluisius, charge d'affaires at the German Legation, attended a meeting of politicians seeking a solution for the cabinet crisis.

The envoy told the meeting it was the wish of the Berlin government that Dr. Johann Sober at least be given a place in the cabinet, in event he was unable to form a government, in order that he would continue to maintain the Austro-German foreign policy. Mittag Zeitung replied to the article by charging that the Austrian clerical press had fabricated the story in order to call France's attention to what was purported to be the German influence at Vienna.

Philippine Liberty Urged by Publisher

F. E. Murphy, Minneapolis, Says Islands Compete With U. S. Farmers.

(Associated Press.)

F. E. Murphy, publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune, said at the White House yesterday that in his opinion Philippine independence is "almost an economic necessity." The publisher made his statement shortly after having lunch with President Hoover.

He cited as one of the reasons for giving the Philippines independence the fact that at present the islands are able to ship into this country, duty free, a great mass of products in direct competition with the American farmers. Chief among these products he listed coconut oil and copra, extensively used in the manufacture of oleomargarine and soaps.

This coconut oil, he said, is in direct competition with lard and dairy products of farmers in the United States. Mr. Murphy said that he believed the movement to give the Philippines independence would gain momentum enough to make it one of the principal subjects at the next session of Congress.

Marilyn Miller Rallies After Nasal Operation

HOOVER DEBT PLAN FAVORED BY EUROPE

boomed upward with German bonds rising from four to nearly eight points and other stocks from two to three points. Commodity markets also improved and the Liverpool cotton exchange saw a rise of 41 points in a day of sensational trading.

In British official circles it was learned that although some sort of action had been expected of the President this week, his sudden announcement on Saturday evening came as a surprise. It was learned, too, that the Government was acquainted with reports that the cabinet in Berlin was in danger of being overthrown and Great Britain would not have been surprised if the overthrow had been accompanied by violence.

The President's debt proposals are regarded here as comparable in importance to the entry of the United States into the World War and it is emphasized that American intervention in European affairs during the past two decades always has been a decisive influence.

The most important consideration now, it is felt, is how the Hoover plan may be made effective, and there is a belief that international conversations, perhaps at long range, may be necessary. It is thought also that legal complications may prevent immediate acceptance of the proposal, except in principle, by some of the governments.

Word of Secretary Stimson's statement that the value of the President's proposals involves their immediate acceptance reached here too late for official comment, but earlier in the day it was said authoritatively that the British government does not believe immediate acceptance by all the countries concerned is possible.

There is some doubt also as to whether Mr. Hoover meant that both conditional and unconditional reparations annuities be postponed, or whether his moratorium would apply only to the conditional annuities.

The unconditional payments amount to about $153,000,000 of the $425,000,000 which Germany must pay during the coming year. Out of the total, about $225,0000,000 would go to France, about $81,000,000 to Great Britain and the rest to the other allied nations.

Germany probably would be the first to feel the immediate effects of the Hoover plan, since the burdensome reparations payments would be suspended and the money turned into more useful channels.

All Europe might be expected to benefit from an increased German market, and the United States particularly might expect to find buying power increased in her markets.

France and Belgium, however, are both facing heavy budgetary allowances for restoration of their devastated areas, and would have to make up the money lost by suspension of reparations.

a culminating point. The emergency decrees had pushed us to the very limit of what was bearable economically, socially and politically. We expect a quieting effect on the world's economy and, in fact, pacification of our continent from this American action, and we are grateful."

Displaying a copy of the President's declaration, Herr Bruening said he wished to identify himself completely with Mr. Hoover's statement that "kindly measures are therefore needed to contribute toward the reestablishment of confidence and thereby to advance the political peace and economic stabilization of the world."

"That sentence," said Herr Bruening, "voices the most fervent wish of the government of the Reich."

Despite the Hoover proposal, however, he saw a long hard road ahead for Germany.

"Money saved by the year's moratorium," he explained, "must be used to overcome grave difficulties lying outside the emergency decrees."

The chancellor declared those decrees can be altered in only minor points. The so-called Hauszinssteuer—house rent tax—which has yielded 1,000,000,000 marks (about $250,000,000) will practically discontinue in another year, he pointed out, because rents will then be so far down, larger houses will be so empty and incomes of workers so low that only a negligible sum will be available from this source.

"If the economic situation doesn't improve large sections of our people will be reduced to the state of alms-receiving paupers," the chancellor declared. He pointed out that the average monthly doles to the unemployed and aged is now down to about $13.

"This," he said, "necessarily reduces our imports of raw materials to the minimum, for our purchasing power is so low that, for instance, no dole recipient can buy a new shirt. Hence the import of cotton is down to the minimum at present.

The People's party, which precipitated a crisis scarcely ten days ago by demanding the removal of Foreign Minister Curtius and several other members of the cabinet, assured the chancellor today that the feud was off. This was another indication of the government's increased strength as a result of the Hoover declaration.

Hoover Aids Metal Prices.

London, June 22 (A.P.).—Copper and tin prices spurted today as the result of President Hoover's proposal to postpone war debt payments. Tin improved $18.24 a ton, to a price of $526.44 a ton. Copper was up $12.99, to a price of $174.89 per ton.

Warsaw, Poland, June 22 (A.P.).—One Communist was killed and ten critically wounded during a riot today in the Jewish quarter. Police opened fire when they were pelted with rocks.

MINE STRIKER DIES IN PITCHED BATTLE

Pittsburgh, June 22 (A.P.).—Strife in the bituminous coal fields of western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Eastern Ohio flared to a higher pitch and claimed the life of one man, the first to die in the current mine strikes, today.

If there was hope that the strike would not continue beyond the incipient stages of orderly demonstration and minor clashes, that hope seemed dissipated as strikers and sympathizers at Wildwood, near here, and county officers engaged in open battle. Pete Zigarac, a miner, formerly employed by the Butler Consolidated Coal Co., operating at Wildwood, was slain and nine were wounded. A deputy sheriff was hurt slightly.

Officials of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, operating eight mines in the district, announced this afternoon that a temporary agreement had been signed with the United Mine Workers of America, looking to a settlement of the strike in that company's plants. Other elements in the situation, however, made it seem there was little likelihood of peace soon in the troubled areas.

The National Miners' Union, denounced by the United Mine Workers as communistic, asserts the U. M. W. has only a small following among the strikers, and that any settlement the United Mine Workers may effect will have no weight with 98 per cent of the men on strike.

There was a disposition on the part of operators in eastern Ohio and northern Panhandle of West Virginia to attempt to break the strike with men imported to replace the strikers. The National Miners Union held meetings at which plans to extend the strike were discussed, and at the same time operators in Ohio announced, and others in West Virginia put into effect, plans to bring replacements into the fields. One more mine in Brooke County, W. Va., employing 250 men, was closed when the miners quit work today.

Forty-one persons were arrested in connection with the riot at Wildwood. Two of them are women. They were accused of violating an injunction granted in common pleas court here restraining strikers from interfering with the company's operations.

Soldiers on Motorcycle Hurt in Motor Crash

Two soldiers stationed at Fort Hoyle, Md., were slightly injured yesterday when their motorcycle and side car struck an automobile at Ninth street and Rhode Island avenue northwest.

The automobile was operated by Dennis Livingstone, 22 years old, of 5245 Karl place northeast. Private Chesetr O'Laughlin, 29 years old, and Sergt. Joseph Brown, 42 years old, were treated at Freedmen's Hospital for injuries to the legs. Sergt. Brown also received a cut over the eyes. They were later removed to Walter Reed Hospital.

Carr Will Testify In Faithfull Case

Surgeon Says He Has No Theory on Death of Beauty.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—Dr. G. Jameson Carr, Cunard Line surgeon, returned to New York today with three letters Starr Faithful wrote to him a short time before she died, but without a theory, he said, as to whether she was killed or committed suicide.

He is scheduled to take the notes before the Nassau County grand jury tomorrow morning and, as a voluntary witness, tell all he knows of the girl whose body was washed up on the sands of Long Island beach two weeks ago.

On those notes and that testimony authorities frequently intimated last week they were basing their hope of solving the international enigma of what happened to Starr Faithfull.

CAPITAL PURCHASES HIT HIGH AVERAGE

Retail Buying in Washington for Year Is Put at $681.65 Per Capita.

The average Washington resident spends $681.85 at retail stores in a year, just $274.12 more than the average for the country as a whole, according to a retail distribution summary made public yesterday by the Bureau of the Census.

The compilation, which lists the District along with the 48 States, disclosed that sales estimated at $331,873,844 were made here in 1929, when the census was taken.

Not long ago data on Washington was announced in a compilation of leading cities, with which, Census Bureau officials point out, it is more appropriately comparable.

The bureau announced that the District had 5,917 stores in 1929, or 12.1 stores for every 1,000 inhabitants. In the 48 States and the District there are 1,548,000 retail stores, or 12.6 for every 1,000 inhabitants. The average retail store the country over does a business of $32,297, and the average per capita retail purchase amounts to $407.52 for the country.

The District has more stores within its boundaries than a number of States—Arizona, Delaware, Idaho and Nevada included.

Amelia Earhart Denies Getting U. S. Reprimand

Newark, N. J., June 22 (A.P.).—Amelia Earhart, who arrived at Newark Airport this afternoon in her autogiro, completing a flight to the West Coast and return, denied she had received a letter from the Department of Commerce reprimanding her for alleged carelessness when her ship fell in Texas.

"Not only have I not received such a letter," she said, "but I'm sure I did nothing to deserve one. Just exactly what happened, I don't know. I had ample space to take off, but something happened shortly after we left the ground. I think the motor slowed up, or perhaps we were caught in one of those miniature windstorms they have out West."

Charges of Cruelty Win Divorce for Stage Star

Reno, Nev., June 22 (A.P.).—Patti Harrold, popular musical comedy star and daughter of Orville Harrold, tenor of the Metropolitan Oper Company for many years, obtained a divorce from Alfred L. Meeker here today on grounds of cruelty.

Miss Harroid starred with the original "Irene" company on the Broadway stage and also in San Francisco and later was Al Jolson's leading lady in "Big Boy." Her husband and his family also are prominently connected with the theater. The Meekers married in New York in 1929. Miss Harrold had a previous marriage annuled when she was only 15.

DOUTHITT EXPECTED TO BE GIVEN DELAY

Former Editor of 'Bluecoat' Convalescing From Attack in Philadelphia.

A further extension of time in which he is directed to appear before Justice Peyton Gordon and show why he should not be held in contempt for his original failure to answer a summons to appear before the District grand jury is expected to be given Harry N. Douthitt today.

The former editor of the semiofficial police organ, the Bluecoat, is still convalescing in Philadelphia. He was beaten over the head by two men who used an iron bar on him. While he was in Casualty Hospital, in what physicians said was a serious condition, he gave out an interview, which he later repudiated, that there was some connection between police and vice here and that an "ice bill" was a regular feature of some policemen.

The "ice bill," he said, was paid to "keep things cool." Douthitt quietly left the hospital and went to Philadelphia and when he failed to answer a grand jury summons he was cited to appear in court and tell his reasons for not appearing.

At that time Douthitt sent down here a statement which said that he was too ill to come here now. Another postponement of the time for his appearance, which was set for today, will probably be granted because of his weakened condition.

AMBULANCE DELAY IS UNDER INQUIRY

Clair left the house to attend the two patients he had left in his office when he received the emergency call. Members of Mr. Burleson's family said that they had not put in a call for an ambulance of another hospital because they expected the Emergency Hospital ambulance to appear momentarily.

Records Show Call Answered.

Officials of Emergency Hospital, informed of the case last night by The Post, immediately started a preliminary investigation.

Records found by the night superintendent were made out to show that the call to Mr. Burleson's residence had been answered, and that treatment had been given the man at his home.

The night superintendent explained that records of ambulance calls were handled by three persons, the ambulance driver, the interne on ambulance duty at the time the call is made, and the telephone operator.

When the ambulance driver and the interne return from a call, hospital officials said, they report with their slips to the telephone operator, who makes a record of the calls and their disposition. A mistake could have been made in this case, he said, as the hospital had received several calls at about the same time the California street appeal was made. It is possible, he said, that the driver reported back to the operator on another call and in some manner the California street call was marked as answered.

Driver and Interne Off Duty.

Both the interne and the ambulance driver who were on duty at the time the California street call was made were off duty last night and officials said it was impossible to get a statement from them.

B. B. Sandidge, superintendent of the hospital, was at his home when informed of the case by hospital officials. He promised a thorough investigation of the case this morning.

"In an instance of this kind, if such a thing really happened," he said, "I can see where a hospital would be open for criticism. But from the reports I have received the confusion was probably caused by an error in handling the slips by either the interne, ambulance driver or the telephone operator."

Mr. Sandidge pointed out that the hospital has only one ambulance to answer calls, but that every effort was made to answer calls as rapidly as possible with the limited facilities at hand.

Friends of Mr. Burleson were incensed over the incident and Mr. Knarr and Mr. Knox last night said they would go before District Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby this morning and demand an investigation of the system at Emergency Hospital.

Woman Judge Accused Of Coercing Defendant

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—The trial of Mrs. Jean Norris, New York City's first woman magistrate, opened with sensational testimony today as Samuel Seabury, the magistrate's accuser and prosecutor, pressed charges on which he is asking the appellate division to remove her as unfit.

When the hearing was adjourned for the day he had presented testimony that Mrs. Norris had ordered a reluctant defendant to testify, had permitted a court attendant to drag her to the stand, and then altered the record to conceal the fact.

Trial of Policeman In Hit-Run Case Is Set

Arranged before Judge Gus A. Schuldt in Police Court yesterday on a charge of hit-and-run, Policeman J. W. Casey, of the Fourth Precinct, was released on his personal bond pending a trial by jury June 25.

Casey is alleged to have collided with an automobile owned by Kirk Roth, of Harvey, Ill., at Seventh street and Florida avenue northeast several days ago. He is said to have left the scene of the accident without giving his name. Witnesses are said to have brought Casey back to the scene of the accident.

The Governor of Illinois presented him to the Legislature. Gov. Kohler of Wisconsin also was duped by Gabor. The governor showed him around the City of Madison in person and presented him to the Wisconsin Senate, Gabor related.

"But I never heard of Taft Thew," interrupted Judge Knox.

"You're right, your honor," spoke up Gabor, "of course you haven't. There never was any such man."

PARK PLAN FAVORED IN PRINCE GEORGES

Hyattsville Chamber Wants County to Take U. S. Loan for Buying Lands.

The Hyattsville Chamber of Commerce last night went on record as favoring Prince Georges County's participation in the extension of the park system as outlined in the Cramton act.

The chamber passed a resolution recommending that the board of county commissioners take advantage of the law authorizing them to borrow $800,000 for the purchase of park lands. Under this arrangement the Federal Government will contribute an additional $400,000. The original $800,000 may be borrowed from the Federal Government for eight years, and the loan would bear no interest.

The law authorizing borrowing of money for park lands passed the recent Legislature as a part of a similar measure for Montgomery County. At the end of eight years, the Federal loan would be retired by the proceeds of county bonds, which are also authorized. The commissioners are given authority either to get money from the Federal Government or to issue the county bonds at once. The resolution was introduced by Daniel Cox Fahey, jr., chairman of the committee on roads, parks and lights.

The chamber at its meeting last night also agreed to cooperate with the Exchange Club in an effort to have the Baltimore boulevard from the Peace Cross to the District line widened to 50 feet. Work of making the road 40 feet wide has already begun. The chamber is satisfied with the proposed width of 30 feet between the Peace Cross and Hyattsville.

The commerce group voted to turn over to the Hyattsville High School athletic field fund any money left over from its Rhode Island avenue celebration held some time ago. The school has raised $1,700 of the necessary $2,000 for grading and clearing the field to make it fit for use. The chamber also indorsed the drive being made by the school.

Heat Wave Keeps South Sweltering

Richmond and New Orleans Areas Alone Get Showers.

Atlanta, Ga., June 22 (A.P.).—The South tonight saw no immediate relief from heat that kept officials watching thermometers for new records.

Richmond, Va., and New Orleans, La., had a cooling spell when rain brought the mercury to more comfortable figures. The Gulf Coast city at noon had a reading of 77, ten degrees cooler than the morning high.

Other points in the South had readings in the 90's. St. Petersburg, Fla., watched the mercury climb to 92, only four degrees below the highest mark on record there, while Birmingham was one degree hotter. Atlanta, Charlotte, N. C., and Little Rock, Ark., each had official 95's.

In central Georgia Macon reported the highest temperature of the year when the official reading showed 97.8. Montgomery, Ala., after a low of 71 early today, saw the mercury climb to 98.

Durham and Greensboro, in North Carolina, where yesterday the 100-degree mark was reached, reported 98s today.

St. Peter Called in Court, Fails to Make Answer

Charles Driscoll, clerk in Police Court, loudly called the name of St. Peter three times in Traffic Court yesterday, much to the wonderment of a courtroom filled with spectators.

Upon the third calling, Driscoll reported to Judge Gus A. Schuldt that St. Peter was not among those present and orders were issued that a warrant be sworn out for Lier W. St. Peter. He overstayed the time limit on June 10 and was given a ticket by Policeman W. H. Bell, of the Traffic Bureau, for violating the parking regulations.

Annapolis Officials Say Matter Is Now Closed Incident; Mother Gets Threats.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 22.—No further cognizance will be taken of the case of Mrs. Dorothy Tardy Perry, wife of Lieut. Roger Perry, of the Navy, who caused her 4-year-old son, Roger, jr., to be locked up over night at police headquarters in Annapolis last Wednesday as a means of curing him of "wanderlust and misbehavior," it was indicated today. Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt, who planned to make a thorough inquiry until he realized that the matter was entirely up to Police Commissioner R. Lee Waller, under the provisions of a new law that took power over the police department out of the hands of the mayor and city council, said today it was a closed incident as far as he is concerned. Commissioner Waller said the same thing. It is not unlikely, however, that a reprimand for Police Chief Richard B. Holliday, who acceded to the behest of the young mother in placing the boy in a cell over night, will be forthcoming from the police commissioner. Mr. Waller passed up without comment the statement made by Mrs. Perry attacking him and defending her action, which brought widespread criticism throughout Annapolis and elsewhere.

In finally commenting upon the case, Mayor Quenstedt had the following to say:

"It looks very much to me like a case of wholesale indiscretion. I have made my own private investigation. I can only arrive at the conclusion that Mrs. Perry, the chief of police, Richard Holliday, and Police Commissioner R. Lee Waller have been indiscreet. Mr. Holliday is under Mr. Waller and Mr. Waller is responsible to Gov. Ritchie. I shall not act in the matter."

However, many persons uphold Commissioner Waller. Mrs. Perry ridiculed the show that the newspapers made of her case. She expressed gratitude over the sympathy that some newspapermen gave her side and stood by her recently written explanation of the affair as a proper defense of herself against the political scruples of the police commissioner.

Many persons however, including the police, feel that the mother's statement was unfair to the child.

Mrs. Perry exhibited a stack of letters today consisting of rebukes, suggestions and threats of all kinds. Today's mail contained a leter from a fortune teller in Washington who predicted that her actions would cause the ruin of the child and her own death within a few years. One kindly couple offered to adopt Roger for the sum of $12 a week, or free, if necessary. Among the more serious communications was one from the Character Education Institution, of Chevy Chase, Md.

Leland Chandler Funeral Set Today

Leland W. Chandler, 24-year old distance swimmer and Boy Scout leader, who drowned in the Potomac River above Chain Bridge on Saturday, will be buried this afternoon in Columbia Gardens, Clarendon.

The body was recovered yesterday by harbor police, who found it floating near Chain Bridge, a quarter of a mile from where he disappeared in the rapids after the canoe he was paddling overturned. Services will be conducted this afternoon in the Clarendon Baptist Church. He is survived by his parents, a sister, Lois, and a brother, Irving.

Mr. Chandler, who was a swimming instructor at the Y. M. C. A., was accompanied by Payne Potter, 24 years old, a friend, on the canoeing expedition. When the canoe capsized, Mr. Potter swam to safety confident that Chandler would make shore. It is believed that Chandler was seized with a cramp.

Sampson Chosen Brentwood Mayor

Is Reelected by Majority of Seven Votes; Salary Plan Approved.

James E. Sampson was reelected mayor of Brentwood yesterday by a majority of 7 votes, and a measure to pay salaries to town officers was passed by only 1 ballot.

Mr. Sampson scored 213 votes against 206 for Everett H. Roberts, a former mayor. Two council and the town treasurer were reelected without opposition. They were Lawrence G. Whalen, jr., of the First Ward; Roscoe Brinson, of the Second, and Elmer C. Helm, treasurer.

The vote on the salary measure was 164 against to 165 in favor. The bill will amend the town charter to provide that the mayor be paid $10 or less for every meeting he attends and that the councilmen be paid not more than $5 for every meeting. The amendment, which was passed by the recent Legislature and sent to the voters in a referendum, also provides that no salaries shall be paid if it increases the tax rate.

Liquor Net Takes Man And Car Near Berwyn

Robert W. Swisher, Kenyon street northwest near Thirteenth street, was charged with transportation and possession of liquor last night after being arrested on Baltimore boulevard near Berwyn. Constable Ralph Brown, who made the arrest, said he found eighteen cases of alleged contraband in Swisher's automobile.

Swisher was placed in the Bladensburg Jail until he could arrange bond, which was not set when he was charged.

RUTH NICHOLS HURT IN PLANE LANDING

She was just completing the first leg of her flight, intending to remain in St. John for an early start tomorrow to the Newfoundland airport.

It was about 6 p. m. (E. S. T.) when her big plane hove in sight. A great crowd had gathered at the airfield to meet her.

The plane took a graceful slant downward to alight, and when it was straightening out to be grounded the sun's rays glinted full into the eyes of the nervy girl pilot. For just one second she was blinded, and in the flash overshot the airfield runways and tipped, nose forward.

Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, June 22 (A.P.).—With the second leg of their projected flight to Denmark safely behind them, Otto Hillig and Holger Hoiriis groomed their monoplane Liberty at the airport here tonight in preparation for the transatlantic jump.

Hillig, a Liberty (N. Y.) photographer, and Hoiriis, his pilot, landed at the Harbor Grace Field at 4:25 p. m., local daylight saving time, today, after a hop from St. John, New Brunswick, where they landed Friday night. They made the 800-mile flight to St. John from the Teterboro (N. J.) Airport without mishap Friday. They planned to take off on the jump across the Atlantic as soon as weather conditions are favorable.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—The Weather Bureau today forecast "bad flying weather, but good winds" over the routes to be taken by transatlantic fliers.

At Roosevelt Field, however, Wiley Post, of Oklahoma City, and Harold Getty, of Los Angeles, announced they would take off at 3 a. m. tomorrow, if visibility permitted, for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, on the first leg of their 'round-the-world flight. Should local showers make visibility poor at that hour, they said, they would defer their take-off until daylight.

MAN TAKES STAND IN DEATH OF NURSE

Newport, R. I., June 22 (A.P.).—Elliott R. Hathaway, 28, son of a Massachusetts legislator, today denied from the witness stand that he strangled pretty Verna Russell, 20, on the night of March 23. He said the nurse died in his arms during a petting and gin-drinking party on a lonely lane in Tiverton.

The girl suddenly choked, there was a "gurgling" sound in her throat, her face turned blue and her body became limp in his arms, Hathaway testified.

The defense holds the girl was killed by a fragment of tooth which was found in her throat at an exhumation a month after her death. The prosecution charges Hathaway strangled her with his right hand and expects to send him to prison for life.

Hathaway was under cross-examination as the day's session ended.

Under examination by his own chief of counsel, George Hurley, Hathaway told in detail how arrangements were made for Verna Russell's last "date." He saw her for the first time, he said, two months before, at the hospital, and they exchanged smiles. Later, one of his friends who worked in the hospital kitchen brought him word Verna would "like to see the fellow in the fur coat," he continued. There was a telephone call to the Truesdale Hospital Nurses' Home and an appointment made.

He called for her in his twin brother's automobile and it was she, he insisted, who suggested the purchase of gin and a ride to Windward lane. Hathaway said the girl told him she had been out there before. He testified he and the girl had "never spoken to each other before except during the telephone conversation."

En route to the fatal trysting place, Hathaway testified they stopped to drink some gin. At the desolate lane there was more gin drinking, Hathaway said, and they moved to the rear seat of the automobile.

Hathaway said he was stooping over to pick up the bottle of gin when he heard a bottle of ginger ale he had just handed her, fall to the floor of the car.

"I heard a gag and a choking sound," he said, "as she fell over I put my arms around her and lifted her up. I didn't know what had happened. I couldn't understand it at all. Her hands were at her throat.

"I tried to open her mouth. I thought she had passed out from drinking alcohol. She was pretty heavy and I tried to hold her up."

Hathaway demonstrated with his hand under his own throat, how he said he supported the girl.

Drug Stores Visited in Hunt for Purchaser of Poison.

Greenfield, Ind., June 22 (A.P.).—Drug stores in this city and nearby communities were visited today by authorities seeking to trace the purchaser of a poison believed to have caused the deaths yesterday of the Simmons sisters, Jean, 10, and Virginia, 14. The girls died at Lebanon, Ind., soon after partaking of pressed chicken sandwiches served at a family reunion picnic.

Attending physicians expressed belief that poison had been placed in the food. In support of this theory, Coroner G. A. Owsley said persons attending the reunion had given him capsules containing a white powder. The capsules, the corpner was informed, had been found in the sandwiches.

Mrs. Carrie Simmons, mother of the victims, was questioned this morning. She told of preparing the sandwiches and placing them in a tin box. She said she knew of no poison being placed in the food. John W. Simmons, father of the two girls, became ill after eating one of the sandwiches, but he was recovering today.

Tourist to Washington Is Killed Under Train

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., June 22.—Badly crushed beneath the wheels of a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train at Harpers Ferry yesterday, Vernon Lamb, about 25 years of age, of Greensboro, Iowa, died today in the Charles Town, W. Va., hospital.

Lamb, with a number of other excursionists, was on his way to Washington and when the train stopped at Harpers Ferry he left the train and went to a nearby store. In the meantime the train started and in attempting to board it he fell beneath the wheels. His arm was cut off and his skull was fractured.

Touring American Mayors Return With Explanations

19 City Heads Who Were Guests of France Land in New York and Give Their Versions of Incidents That Received Wide Notice.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—Nineteen American mayors, some of them with circles of weariness under their eyes and a lot more avoirdupois around the waistband, came home from a good-will tour of France today and did some explaining.

Fresh from a country of wines, fine food and jollification, they had something to say about the economic situation, but a lot more on their views about prohibition.

"It's not true, sir," said James L. Key, of Atlanta, whose alleged utterances on the drinking problem abroad led to reputed threats to assassinate him and proposals to nominate him for Vice President. "It's not true that I said prohibition was an abomination. Prohibition is a fine piece of idealism. The trouble is that, like a good many examples of idealism, its practical effect is not so good."

Tonight Mayor Key spoke at a dinner given in his honor by the Georgia Society of New York.

"I am a man who believes in temperance," Mayor Key said. "If we could have temperance by law enforcement I would be for it. I was one of the most hopeful when the eighteenth amendment was passed.

"I believe now we have made a mistake. There is a general disposition to disobey the prohibition law and a spirit of adventure in disobeying it, which breeds contempt for all law and destroys the character of our people. I don't know of any remedy, but I do know prohibition is wrong."

Mayor John Porter, of Los Angeles, who became front page copy when cables told of his walking out of a banquet room where a toast was being drunk in champagne to the President of France, said this was a "gross error."

"It was all a misunderstanding," he said. "I had listened to all the speeches, and the food was all eaten. Apparently there was nothing left to do but drink. I don't drink, so I left. Later I was dismayed to learn I had walked out on the toast."

"If the French people want to drink, that's their business, and if I don't that's my business," he said, after indicating his policy was to observe the laws of the United States at all times.

"The delegates toured France in a very serious mood," said Mayor Richard L. Metcalfe of Omaha, chairman of the group. "The truth is we were all so busy from day to day that there was no time for any of the night life of Paris.

"What really interested us most of all was not the French wine, but the amazing things France is doing to prevent unemployment. Out of a nation of 40,000,000 people there are only 45,000 unemployed."

The mayors represented cities at which Coste and Bellonte stopped on their good-will flight in the United States. The mayors issued a formal statement thanking the French government, which played host to them, and expressing the opinion their visit had promoted good will between the two nations.

Atlanta, June 22 (A.P.).—Plans for welcoming ceremonies and a parade here tomorrow in honor of Mayor James L. Key upon his arrival from France, where he is alleged to have issued a statement in criticism of prohibition, drew protests today from two ministerial associations of Atlanta.

The Methodist Ministers Association adopted a resolution that protested what it called "the exaggerated welcome," and said it would be "trumpeted abroad as proof that Atlanta is wet."

2 Detroit Police Plead Not Guilty to Charges

Detroit, June 22 (A.P.).—Arraigned today before Judge Lester S. Moll in Circuit Court on indictments returned Saturday by the Wayne County Grand Jury charging perjury, neglect of duty, and obstruction of justice, Inspector Robert A. McPherson and Detective Lieut. Max Waldfogel stood mute, and pleas of not guilty were entered for them. Bond of $3,000 was set for each pending trial in Recorder's Court.

Charges against McPherson involved testimony he offered before the grand jury regarding dealings with an allegedly gangster-owned coal company and with investigations into crimes which he directed. Waldfogel was accused of aiding accused persons and obstructing inquiries into crimes.

Four Otis Partners Resign From Company

Cleveland, Ohio, June 22 (A.P.).—Otis & Co., widely known financial house, tonight announced the resignation of four of its partners, including Charles A. Otis, veteran broker, who founded the firm in 1899. The others who resigned were M. C. Harvey, Richard Inglis and J. O. Eaton.

Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, continues as the dominant figure in the company. Otis and Harvey will become associated with E. A. Pierce & Co., to whom the Otis brokerage business was transferred several weeks ago. Resignations of the four partners was another step in the readjustment of the company following the complete segregation of its brokerage from its investment departments.

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Consider the Garden of Eden. When that old serpent put Eve up to the idea of handing Adam an apple, he may have been doing them both a good turn—for where would we be today, ladies and gentlemen, without our Adam's Apple. If we didn't have our Adam's Apple, we couldn't sing, we couldn't even speak. For your Adam's Apple is your larynx—your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. So—Consider your Adam's Apple. Be careful in your choice of cigarettes. Remember—the serpent in the smoker's Garden of Eden—harsh irritants are present in all raw tobaccos. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Reach for a LUCKY instead. Remember, LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette in America that through its exclusive "TOASTING" Process expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. And so we say, "Consider your Adam's Apple."

Virginia State College—Rosa E. Neale.

General school committee for the Takoma-Silver Spring area will meet tonight at Montgomery County Building in Silver Spring at call of Chairman Ralph Lee. Definite recommendation on the site for the proposed Takoma-Silver Spring Senior High School is expected to be made at the meeting.

A special fact finding subcommittee has completed its survey of the situation and will report at the meeting tonight. The subcommittee made no definite recommendation, but contented itself with gathering information as to the population center, probable movement of population in the area and other important information affecting location of the school.

Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county administration leader; Lacy Shaw, president of the Montgomery County board of commissioners; Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools, and other officials will be present to discuss the project. The school is to be built in sections, the first accommodating 600 children, later additions being planned as school population warrants.

Funeral service for Mrs. Mary P. Richter, 88 years old, of Germantown, Md., will be tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at Neelsville Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in the church cemetery. Mrs. Richter, who was the widow of Ernest Hartman Richter, died Sunday at her home in Germantown after an illness of ten days.

Mrs. Richter, whose maiden name was Nicholls, was a native of Frederick, but moved to Germantown at the time of her marriage 68 years ago and had resided there since.

Surviving are five children, Miss Ida Richter, Hurshey Richter and Mrs. David Murphy, of Germantown; William T. Richter, of Washington, and Mrs. Mamie Keefer, of Gaithersburg, and a brother, John H. Nicholls, of Germantown.

Funeral service for Mrs. Sarah Grubb, 60 years old, of Poolesville, Md., who died at Reading, Pa., will be tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Poolesville Methodist Church. Burial will be in Monocacy Cemetery, Beallsville, Md. Mrs. Grubb was the wife of Carroll E. Grubb, of Poolesville and had lived in that neighborhood 18 years.

Mrs. Grubb, whose maiden name was Ludwig, was a native of Reading. Surviving are her husband and three daughters, Mrs. Acosta Valardie, of Porto Rico; Mrs. Thawley Holmes, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. McLean, of Reading.

Huntington Asks Veterans' Session

Spanish War Men Place Officers in Nomination at Piedmont.

Piedmont, Va., June 22.—Huntington will get the encampment next year, it was indicated at the session this afternoon of the eighth annual encampment, Department of West Virginia, United Spanish War Veterans. The Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce and Business Men's Club wired asking that Huntington be selected.

Officers for the ensuing year were placed in nomination today, but names were withheld until the election tomorrow. Delegates will be elected to the national convention to be held in New Orleans in September.

The commander in chief, under a special order, authorized the camps to remit dues of or grant extension of time to any delinquent member unable to pay dues on account of sickness or unemployment. By reason of lack of membership and interest, Houston-Henrietta Camp, No. 9, Mountsville, and Jim Dolan Camp, No. 15, Hinton, were disbanded during the year, but a majority of the camps made substantial gains.

Mrs. Jones' Counsel Would Postpone Trial

Amelia, Va., June 22 (A.P.).—Attorneys for Mrs. Jeston Allen Jones, charged with the murder of her husband, J. Will Jones, said tonight a continuance would be asked tomorrow when her case is called up for trial in Amelia County Circuit Court.

The indictment of Mrs. Jones and her son, W. Oscar Jones, on charges of "murder, inciting to murder, and for aiding and abetting in the commission of murder," followed the trial of Richard Lee, Negro farm hand, who testified he was offered $25 by them to kill the elder Jones, a well-to-do dairyman. Lee was convicted of murder and sentenced to 20 years.

SCENE FROM CURRENT PLAY

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

"STRANGE INTERLUDE." S. E. Cochran and Clifford Brooke present the National Theater Players in a play in nine acts by Eugene O'Neill, featuring Nancy Sheridan and Stanley Ridges, in association with Forrest Orr, Raymond Bramley, Adelaide Hibbard, Burke Clarke, Jack Grattan, Lois Benson and D. Edward Austin. Directed by Clifford Brooke; settings by Charles Squires. Reviewed (second week) by W. A. Whitney, at the National Theater.

Extending their season an extra week, the National Theater Players continue the grand finale, Eugene O'Neill's psychological drama of heroic proportions, in a more magnificent manner than even the most sanguine had even dared to hope prior to a week ago.

To review the gigantic reaches of this searching drama adequately, with its profound ramifications and penetrating analysis of human activity, would require considerably more space than can be alloted to a second week's review.

Even by those who witnessed the two previous presentations of the play here, headed by no less renowned artistes than Pauline Lord and Elisabeth Risdon, it can be safely said that those companies presented no more finished or telling interpretations than that of our own National Theater Players.

Clifford Brooke, in directing the production, and the players—individually and collectively—in the acting of it, have done a magnificent job with this most ambitious and exacting work. To single out any member of the cast for special mention would be flagrantly unfair, so perfectly coordinated and inseparably blended are the characterizations.

For those desiring to cogitate upon the magnitude of the present task, basing their judgment on previous knowledge, it may be stated that to Nancy Sheridan falls the gigantic role of Nina; to Stanley Ridges, the part of Sam; to Raymond Bramley, that of the doctor and to Forrest Orr, that of "good old Charlie." In the less lengthy parts, and all the heavier for their relative brevity, are Burke Clarke as the professor, Adelaide Hibbard as Mrs. Evans, Jack Grattan as Gordon at the age of 12, D. Edward Austin as the mature Gordon, and Lois Benson as Gordon's fiancee.

To miss this masterpice of American dramaturgy would be to miss the Players' finest work not to mention one of those infrequent theatrical bargains as rare as snow in a summer like this!

"Strange Interlude" * * * Eugene O'Neill * * * National Theater Players—a trilogy that conjures up rare promises of a dramatic treat. And how they are realized! Washington owes the players and the management of the National a debt of gratitude it will be difficult to repay.

GAYETY

The longest season the Gayety Theater has enjoyed in recent years is being brought to an end in a blaze of glory this week by one of the most engaging exhibits of the cutaneous and comic extravagances of burlesque ever assembled by Impressario Jimmy Lake, the Beau Brummel of the varieties and the sports arenas.

The Hollywood Honeys get off to a flying start by the mere inclusion of the platinum and pulchritudinous Hinda Wassau—and it is an open season for the spelling of her name—among the principals of the production. Miss Wassau—or is it Wausau?—has a following in the Capital second to no expositioniste on the wheel. Her songs and dances this week are irresistible and an added specialty, the ne plus ultra among acts of its kind.

Miss Wausau—or is it Wassau?—however, is not alone the distinguished personality of this talented aggregation. Gertie Reed, a bronze-haired beauty, and Wanda De Von, with an electric battery up each figurative sleeve, are further adornments of the distaff side of the cast and those two serviceable comedians, Billy Fields and "Bimbo" Davis, lead the male. Lou Petel and Ray Parsons are also entertainingly among those present.

Not the least attractive feature of the show is the chorus work of Mr. Lake's sixteen youthful steppers who, when not stepping, are otherwise enjoyably engaged!

Coastal Highway Group Election Called Illegal

Norfolk, Va., June 22 (A.P.).—J. O. Stahlin, Jacksonville Beach, Fla., former president of the Atlantic Coastal Highway Association, today telegraphed association officials here that the recent election of officers conducted by the highway organization was illegal.

Mr. Stahlin said the election was ruled to be illegal by F. O. Miller, chairman of the executive board of the association, and the situation will be clarified at an early meeting of the board. Wilmington, N. C., withdrew its support of the association at the recent meeting here on the grounds that it was not featured in maps and literature.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., June 22.—Resolutions protesting against the "growing tendency on the part of the press and motion pictures in portraying features of crime in the news and on the screen," were before the ninth annual convention of the Virginia Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, today.

Russell L. Stultz, of Newmarket, committee chairman, said the resolutions doubtless will be adopted at the final session tomorrow along with many other resolutions. A protest against the sale of "crime magazines" also is pending, it being claimed that "all three are harmful and menacing to the government and create a general disrespect for law and order in the minds of the younger generation."

The resolutions will ask the State Board of Motion Picture Censors to place more stringent censorship on all motion pictures, while the press is asked to place less stress on darker aspects of life and more on the happy phases thereof.

Membership increases for the fiscal year ended March 30 aggregated about 1,000 in Virginia, Commander C. A. Lynch, of Norfolk, reported at the first business session. New posts were established at Winchester, Staunton, Bedford and Shenandoah. Blue Ridge Post, Roanoke, won State honors for greatest numerical increase, gaining 254 new members. Rion-Bowman Post, Harrisonburg, won recognition for the greatest percentage increase, advancing from 79 to 208 members.

Steady increases were reported in the ladies' auxiliary membership by Mrs. Marie J. Nerren, of Roanoke.

Welcoming speeches were made by Mayor F. A. Shyrock and Commander George H. Grimm, of Winchester Post, with responses by Commander Lynch and Mrs. Nerren. Approximately 600 former foreign service men from 30 Virginia posts, some headed by drum and bugle corps, paraded this afternoon. Other marchers included Boy Scouts carrying massed colors, National Guard companies, firemen and bands, ladies' auxiliaries of the State organization, Red Cross and district nurse association representatives, while departmental officials and members of the Winchester city council rode in cars.

The annual banquet tonight at George Washington Hotel was followed by dancing. Banquet speakers included Col. Fred Stover, Butler, Pa., past national commander; Mrs. Bessie Hanken, Revere, Mass., past national auxiliary president; James Vanzandt, Altoona, Pa., national chief of staff; Edwin S. Bettelheim, Washington, national legislative chairman, and Mrs. Dora E. Raffensburg, Harrisburg, Pa., national auxiliary service vice president.

Danville Man Loses Hand in Dynamite Blast

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., June 22.—F. Lewis Doughat, prominent Danville business man and part owner of the Doughat Riddle Brick Works, lost his right hand in a dynamite explosion today at the plant. He was instructing a Negro worker how to handle dynamite, a stick of which was in his right hand. Suddenly it went off with a violent explosion.

Mr. Doughat was picked up a short distance away, his right hand missing from the wrist. The Negro was jarred by concussion but otherwise unhurt. How the dynamite, used to pulverize claybanks, exploded could not be explained.

Wife of Dead Diplomat Will Rest Before Trip

Copenhagen, Denmark, June 22 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ralph H. Booth, widow of the American Minister to Denmark, who died in Bad Gastein, Austria, Saturday, plans to go to Baden-Baden, Germany, for a rest until next Monday, when she will accompany the body of her husband to Hamburg. The body will be taken to America on the steamer America, sailing from Hamburg July 2.

Memorial services for the minister were conducted last night at Bad Gastein.

Miss Anna Keating, Store Buyer, Dies

Service at Former Home, Winchester, Will Be Held Tomorrow.

Miss Anna M. Keating, 45 years old, a buyer for Goldensberg's department store, died yesterday at Emergency Hospital following an operation for appendicitis. She was well known in mercantile circles here, and previous to her connection with the Washington firm she was buyer for Eisenberg's department store in Baltimore.

She was born in Winchester, Va., where she received her elementary education, coming to Washington to attend a school here following her graduation from the school at Winchester. She was the daughter of Thomas and Catherine Reardon Keating, natives of Virginia.

Miss Keating made her home with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frances O'Connor Keating, 1204 Kennedy street northwest. The body will be taken from there to Winchester this afternoon, where mass will be said at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, followed by interment.

Heat Affecting Tobacco Crop.—Danville, Va., June 22 (Special)—While temperatures today failed to reach the official reading of 101 recorded yesterday, the first day of summer was onerous because of high humidity. Tobacco, according to farmers, is beginning to suffer from the high temperatures of the past three days.

FRANCE IN DOUBT.

Great Britain accepts the Hoover proposal "in principle," and of course Germany accepts it without qualification. The French cabinet will consider the subject today. French comment foreshadows strong opposition in the Chamber of Deputies against the plan if it includes a proposal to postpone for one year the unconditional reparations installment. It is insisted by practically all French newspapers that postponement of the unconditional portion of the annuity would be tantamount to revision of the Young plan. France under this plan is entitled to receive from Germany about $100,000,000 more than French debt payments to the United States.

Unless President Hoover obtained assurances from the French government before he broached his proposal it is quite possible that a radical amendment will be proposed by Paris. French opinion has very little sympathy for Germany, and is fearful that if Germany's economic condition should be too much improved the consequence would be utter repudiation of the Young plan whenever Germany became strong enough to defy France. If, however, the French government should conclude that it is wise to cooperate with other nations for the sake of world betterment of conditions, it seems likely that it will offer to postpone as much of the German payments as would cover France's debt payment to the United States. This would leave the Young plan intact, and France would retain a powerful grip on Germany.

The world's markets moved forward briskly yesterday, taking it for granted that the Hoover proposal would be accepted. In view of French opinion this optimism seems to be premature. The acceptance of the proposal by Great Britain means nothing in France. A large body of French opinion looks suspiciously upon Anglo-German cooperation of any kind, believing that England always follows the policy of combining with others to clip the wings of any power that becomes too strong.

That France does not always respond to cooperative proposals for the general good was shown at the London naval conference. The most persistent efforts of American and British delegates failed to budge France on naval matters. Before the conference was held, the Americans and Britons freely predicted that France would cooperate. Ramsay MacDonald bubbled over with optimism on this point when he was in Washington. He ran against a stone wall, however, in the persons of Premier Tardieu and Foreign Minister Briand.

Undoubtedly efforts will be made to refer the Hoover proposal to an international conference if France replies with qualifications or proposes important modifications. Secretary Stimson has already thrown out an intimation that an international conference would be looked upon with disfavor. A conference would not only consume time and prolong the crisis that called forth the Hoover proposal, but would render any successful outcome doubtful, and might greatly impair international relations. Certainly Americans would be resentful if a conference should insist upon thrusting cancellation of the war debts into the equation. Several months would be required for formulation of the precise nature and scope of the questions to be discussed at the conference. In the meantime business in all countries would be subjected to disappointment and painful doubts.

At best, with cordial cooperation of all interested countries, the Hoover proposal presents difficult problems of detail before it can be made effective. It has greatly heartened business men everywhere; but recent experience gives warning that it is not wise to place too much confidence upon the willingness of European powers to cooperate, even for their common good.

DETROIT'S DOLE SPREE.

While numerous agencies are investigating the operation of "doles" Detroit thrusts a pertinent example of municipal beneficence under the limelight. Detroit is perhaps the only city in the country that has not been discriminating in regard to promiscuous charity during the depression. With tender compassion the municipal authorities opened their arms to the hungry, the unsheltered and the unclothed from all parts of the country. There was to be no end to the city's benevolence so long as men and women complained of want. But unfortunately the necessity of replenishing the city's coffers has brought Detroit's jamboree of charity to a sudden and jarring halt.

Citizens who have gloated over the bountifulness of their municipal government have now come to realize that Mayor Murphy's unemployment committee has passed out more than $15,000,000 in the form of doles, and the city is dangerously near bankruptcy. Detroit has been so lavish in feeding the unemployed that nothing is now left to meet the municipal pay rolls. The city finds it necessary to increase its debt of $50,000,000 to keep its own employes from the ranks of jobless men.

Detroit offers an excellent example of charity running wild. Mayor Murphy was elected on a pledge that no one should go hungry in Detroit. In a frantic effort to keep his word he has allowed the distributing agency of the dole system to run far ahead of the investigating agency. Chronic idlers as well as the worthy unemployed have flocked from many other cities to partake of Detroit's mercy. Few questions have been asked the applicants, and many frauds have been perpetrated. One young clerk with a criminal record is charged with peculations amounting to $207,000 from the unemployment fund. Yet the prodigal distribution of "charity" has gone on.

Mayor Murphy made a tour recently to tell the country how Detroit had solved the depression. But he is not saying much about the headache which the automobile manufacturing metropolis is now beginning to feel. The people are beginning to awake from the narcotic effect of the dole. Taxpayers see the necessity of scraping deeper into their pockets. Of what advantage is an era of "dew and sunshine" if it brings in its wake a disastrous storm of debts, higher taxes, deficits, and a shattered morale on the part of thousands of people who have been recklessly converted into public charges? Cities that are tempted to embark upon a charity spree will do well to remember Detroit and the dole.

THE FARMER'S TABLE.

Last year's drought brought home to thousands of farmers the advantages of supplying the home table more generally by farm products. It is remarkable in how many instances this important factor in the independence and profit of farm life is neglected.

This improvidence is by no means limited to sections of this country, or to the country itself. Throughout the tropics, where nature yields great return so quickly and bountifully, the same shortsightedness is seen. In Porto Rico the cane fields usually begrudge the few acres needed for gardens, notwithstanding the low price of sugar, with the result that foreign canned vegetables are imported by the shipload, as well as milk and butter and meats. It is the same in Cuba and many South American countries. Aside from tropical products that grow with little or no attention, no effort is made to provide any variety. Significant proof of this in one instance is the fact that in many of these Spanish-speaking countries peas are only known as "petits-pois," a name clearly indicated on the French cans that have been imported for centuries.

In the drought districts of the United States, so hard hit last summer, every effort was made by the Red Cross workers, aided by the Department of Agriculture, to disseminate information, not only as to the primary advantage of gardens, but urging variety in production. Farmers were told of the possibilities of extending cultivation right up to freezing weather. Supplementing this was information dealing with canning and preserving vegetables and fruits for winter use.

Hundreds of thousands of assortments of seed were distributed, together with bulletins on proper canning methods in like number.

The commissioner of agriculture for Arkansas reports that thousands of farm families that have not been accustomed to making good gardens and keeping vegetables for winter are now providing a store of their own products that will see them through the next winter. The low prices for staple field crops have made many farmers realize that they can well afford to devote a large proportion of time to making themselves to a greater degree independent of the village store. With the products of his garden and orchard, properly conserved, with milk, eggs, chickens and his own pork for winter use, the farmer can avoid some worries which the salaried worker can not escape.

NO PRICE FIXING.

Price-fixing has never been popular in the United States. Under ordinary circumstances a scheme to give manufacturers control over the prices at which their goods might be sold in retail trade would have no support. But during the last session of Congress the House passed such a bill under the pretext of doing something to aid business. The Senate prevented its enactment and the matter was postponed for further study.

Since that time the Federal Trade Commission has completed an exhaustive report on the subject, from which it concludes that price-fixing by manufacturers is impractical. At the present time manufacturers may control the prices at which their products are sold by retaining ownership of them until they reach the consumer. When such products pass into the hands of independent retailers and the original owner assumes no risk in their merchandising it is unfair to allow him to retain control over prices. The arrangement would be unsatisfactory from the standpoint of both retailers and consumers. Even the manufacturers are not enthusiastic about it. Only 29 per cent of those interrogated on the subject were favorable to price maintenance, and the great majority were indifferent.

The people do not look with favor upon any plan to stifle competition and aid monopolistic enterprise. Free play of economic forces tends to keep prices down to a reasonable level. Such a drastic disruption of those forces as the Kelly-Capper bill proposed would only enhance the waste of the distribution system.

But the changed relationship between manufacturers and retailers which is involved in this proposed legislation is not its most important aspect. The commission concluded that "in order to protect the public from the consequences of such apparent simplification of business conditions for the manufacturer and his distributors elaborate governmental administrative machinery would need to be provided to prevent numerous abuses injurious to the consumer and to the retailer from developing under the condition thus created, and such governmental participation in the control of prices is a dangerous departure from the existing policies with respect to price-making in the ordinary course of commerce."

The Government would take upon itself the responsibility of forcing merchants to sell goods at prices stipulated by the manufacturers. From this situation it would be only a step to Federal regulation of all prices and the profits of industry. Such a departure from American business principles is unthinkable. Even the sponsors of the Kelly-Capper bill must feel cold chills run down their spines when they contemplate a price-fixing bureau supervising the sale of every spool of thread and every paper of pins. If they are wise they will heed the warning of the Trade Commission and proceed no further with plans to revive this nostrum at the next session of Congress.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., June 22.—It is long since we have heard much agitation for a movement back to the land. But now when there is distress in industrial centers a home on a farm begins to look attractive.

One reason the appeal subsided was because recently the wage earner was supposed to be better off than the farmer. This conclusion resulted from the constant demand for farm relief. Some have thought that our experience would parallel the English, where agriculture greatly declined and the people gathering around the factories imported food. The late James J. Hill thought we would become a food-importing nation.

It is likely to grow more and more apparent that there is no safer place of existence than the moderate-sized farm home. It may turn out that it is not often practical to employ a large amount of machinery and a large area of land in attempting to turn agriculture into the manufacture of some great staple. But the family that makes the farm an old-fashioned home with diversified crops, fruits and domestic animals sufficient to meet the household needs will still find agriculture one of the most satisfactory forms of existence. CALVIN COOLIDGE.

INDUSTRIALIZING RUSSIA

From the Christian Science Monitor.

Russia today is usually thought of as a completely new country where all the accepted social and economic relations have changed and where the outlines of a fresh and untested order are being shaped. There is much to support this conception. But at the same time there are amazing parallels between the Soviet Union and the Russia which Peter the Great remolded 200 years ago; and these parallels suggest that the observer in Russia, as in any country, makes a great mistake if he overlooks or ignores the historical background.

Peter's basic idea of introducing in Russia the trades and industries which flourished in western Europe had many obvious points of similarity to the Soviet five-year plan; and his success, measured by the number of factories and other enterprises which he started, was not inconsiderable, if one takes into account the almost universal illiteracy in Russia and the lower technical resources of that period. The parallel with the five-year plan is further strengthened if one recalls that Peter's changes were accompanied by severe deprivations for the population and by ruthless smashing of many old beliefs and habits.

If one refers to Russia's classical economic history, M. Tugan-Baranovsky's "The Russian Factory in Past and Present," he is surprised to find how many concrete problems of economic development in the time of Peter the Great and his successors were similar to those which confront Stalin and his associates today. "Throughout the whole first half of the eighteenth century complaints of factory owners about the lack of workers do not cease."

This sentence is taken from Tugan-Baranovsky's history, written long before the revolution; but it has a strangely familiar sound when managers of Soviet state factories are continually voicing the same complaint. The remedies which were found for the situation are also similar: In Peter's time workers were attached to factories for a ten-year period; now they are "self-attached" until the end of the five-year plan. Heavy penalties were prescribed in Peter's time for factory directors who lured workers from one place of employment to another, a measure which only last winter was duplicated in Soviet legislation.

We read in Tugan-Baronovsky that "the goods produced in Russian factories (of the eighteenth century) were distinguished by extreme expensiveness and low quality," and that this state of affairs persisted, despite the action of the state in fining the administrative department or guild which looked after the factories—all of which seems to forecast the present largely futile efforts of the Soviet authorities to raise quality by adopting punitive measures against individuals and organizations which put out inferior goods.

You noticed, of course, that Mercury went right up to par the very day of the President's debt statement.

Only Old Man Simile himself could have as many kinds of trouble as a modern Washington hotel.

The stock market seemed to consider the Hoover idea the right dope—it acted like a shot in the arm.

The test of Spain's democracy will come after the election of 470 members of the Cortes next month. Already there are nearly 10,000 candidates. What will the 9,500 do—sell apples or start a revolution?

Germany hails the moratorium thankfully and will endeavor to refrain from asking for three years of grace for the present.

The mean temperature of the last few days was not as spiteful a demonstration of caloric disposition as last year's visitation.

Thirty to one is a new ratio proposed for silver. Make it 60 to 1; that would indicate the place that silver production in the United States holds when compared with the products of the little American hen.

How would it do for the 500 run-of-the-mine Congressmen to hold a mass meeting and support the 40 "leaders" who are supporting the debt moratorium?

Some legion posts can almost taste that other 50 per cent, served with cancellation of bonus interest for a piquant sauce.

As there is no longer any novelty in revolutions, Peruvians are now threatening to boycott elections.

The aftermath of the debt proposal again demonstrates that Europe can't ask for things as fast as Senator Borah would hand them out.

PAPER MATCH FOLDERS.

An advertising medium long in use but limited in extent, and then largely by manufacturers of nationally advertised products, is now coming into more general acceptance, according to the Wall Street Journal. It is an article carried in a pocket of almost every trousered suit and, nowadays, in a considerable number of ladies' handbags—the paper match cover.

Hotels are large users of this small printed square, with the distribution of their match covers by no means limited to local areas. For instance, a hotel in an Indiana town features its rates on folders distributed by a New York cigar chain; a Pacific Coast hostelry makes known its parking accommodations to Chicago smokers. Musical comedies and night clubs, among others, now stress their attractions in this manner.

Advertising in this medium is not limited to the English language, for covers have appeared here in Dutch and Swedish, as well as in other tongues. These foreign folders call attention not only to commercial subjects, but even to charitable institutions.

IN THE CAR.

What is there in a motor car
Among the levers and the wheels
That makes us different than we are
At meals?

Why should the driver's seat inspire
So much of anger and of hate
Elsewhere for men I don't admire
I wait.

What is there in the horn I blow
Or pedal foot must press upon
That seems to make a mortal foe
Of every one?

Elsewhere to be polite I strive,
My manners always courteous are;
Why must I then so rudely drive
The car?

Why do such bitter things I speak
At men who show more haste than I Merely because I know they seek To hurry by?

Why all the anger and the rage
Which every time I drive I show?
Is it the madness of the age?
Praps so.

If You Must Give a Dollar, What Does It Matter Which Pocket It Comes From?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SOME time ago the Red Cross assembled twelve destitute families, all Swiss, gave them tools and stock, and established them on a large farm.

All of these people were hard workers and all were given an equal start, but one family had a natural advantage. Its members were more intelligent than the others. And within a year this family of superior intelligence had everything and the others had nothing.

That is the story of civilization.

For many thousands of years, good and wise men have tried to invent some plan that would insure a more equal division of the world's wealth, but the plan has not yet been found.

If the wealth of America should be divided equally among the adult citizens tomorrow, the end of another year would find the few with much and the many with little.

So long as the mating of men and women is left to chance and choice, some children will be born with mental and physical handicaps.

So long as poverty exists, some children will be denied a fair chance.

And so long as the world stands, misfortune will befall the fit and the unfit.

Society can't make men equal, but it can lessen the harm that results from their inequalities.

The cynic will say: "Let the unfit starve. If the weak are preserved, we shall become a race of weaklings."

But mankind has progressed too far to be content with a dog-eat-dog system. Those who have much no longer are content to watch others starve. And the hungry no longer are content to accept their lot as a dispensation of Providence.

What is more, the fit now realize that the poverty, disease and crime of the unfit burden and handicap everybody.

The poor we have with us always, and charity cannot solve their problems.

We shall see the time when society will provide a job for every man willing to work or provide an allowance for those temporarily idle, and grant a pension to those who are no longer able to earn the bread they eat.

A dollar tax to provide pensions is no more burdensome than a dollar contribution given to charity.

Mr. Babson's Prophecy.
St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

When Roger W. Babson came up for air out of the tangled depths of his charts and statistics three years ago to remark that the pretty bubble was sure to burst, everybody more or less "spat upon his gabardine." A world gone Coue was smugly chanting, "Day by day, down the paper way, we are getting richer and richer." Anyone who doubted the crock of gold at the end of the rainbow was a communist, or a dumbbell, or both. Now Mr. Babson appears again as a prophet, this time, however, as the herald of good tidings. The charts and statistics that unerringly pointed to the depression, he says, now unmistakably point to an industrial revival. They declare that "within a reasonable time this country will again enter a period of marked prosperity." Mr. Babson insists the omens that were gloomily right in the spring of 1929 are as gladsomely right now, and he stakes his reputation as a business diagnostician on the accuracy of his forecast. It is a comforting mesage, and whether accepted or rejected, Mr. Babson, as a specialist, speaks with some authority.

Bishop Cannon warns the Democratic party that to nominate Franklin Roosevelt, or any other man noncertified as "pure milk and water" by the Antisaloon League, will mean inevitable defeat, while Dr. Clarence True Wilson, the Methodist mentor of the Republican party, warns it that, if it throws Charlie Curtis, idol of the drys, off its ticket, millions of the arid army will desert it in 1932. Thus both the big parties are threatened with defeat by the vainceurs who fly the Volstead flag!

All to the good; so be it. The logical and longed-for thing now is for the "never-say-die" dervishes to get together in some central city early next year, and before the Republican and Democratic conventions are held, nominate a "Cannon and Wilson" Presidential ticket on a platform so extremely dry that it will need to be tent-shaded to prevent it from taking fire by spontaneous combustion.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Discoveries in Alaska Indicate First Americans Came From Asia.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The excavations now being conducted near Bering Strait by the Smithsonian scientists have already revealed important discoveries. Henry B. Collins, jr., who recently returned from Alaska, tells of findings that have shed light on the origin of man on the American continent. At the narrowest points of the strait it is possible to look across and plainly discern the Asiatic shore. It is probable that between 10,000 and 20,000 years ago the Indians came by this route to America. Not until about 5,000 years ago, however, the excavations indicate, did the Eskimos arrive the same way.

On the St. Lawrence Island five distinct villages have been discovered within the radius of three-quarters of a mile. These villages had been successively abandoned as the shore line gradually advanced into the strait. The Eskimos, being dependent on the sea for their food and livelihood, followed the shore. In this way a record of five different periods was represented in the villages unearthed. After these had been studied it was almost by chance that the scientists discovered nearby another village, so long buried that the Eskimos living in the vicinity had never suspected its existence. It was in this settlement that traces of the much earlier migration were found.

The ancient buried town turned out to be a pure site of the old Bering Sea culture, every decorated object being of that type of art. All previous examples of this period had been found deep in the ruins of later Eskimo habitations and were scattered pieces. This epoch shows more skullful workmanship and artistic ability than the Eskimo of later years. The origin of the Bering Sea culture is in Northeastern Siberia, and that on the Alaska coast reached up to Point Barrow. It is here that the scientists have gone to make further investigations.

Among the interesting side discoveries encountered in the excavations are fossils of the leaves and wood of sequoia, or giant redwoods of California, on this now barren Arctic Island. These findings further support the theory that the two continents were at one time joined by a land bridge. Over this narrow strip of land are found to have passed horses, bison, mammoths, mastodons and camels, millions of years ago. It is improbable that man traversed this section until comparatively recent times. Most of the migrations back and forth by the mammals took place before the glacial period. Man is believed to have come over some time after the Pleistocene age. C. J. BALL.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The death of Hon. Frederick Lincoln Siddons, associate justice of the District Supreme Court, on June 19, was a shock not only to his family, relatives and friends, but also to the many organizations in which he actively identified himself. The students of the National University knew him as the learned professor, a master of the subjects he taught. We knew him as the efficient lecturer, ever ready to explain to the satisfaction of the students, the complex problems of constitutional law. We knew him as a great lawyer who made the study of the law of evidence as simple and interesting as it could possibly be. We shall never forget how he encouraged down-hearted youth to go on when they were about to give up.

When he presided at the sixty-second annual convocation of the university at the Memorial Continental Hall on June 12, we never thought he was doing it for the last time. But such is life. Prof. Siddons has passed away. We like to think of him as a distinguished jurist, a real educator, an able lawyer, a loyal citizen with a great heart, a beloved professor and a man whose motto was to do right and to live for others.

SMOOT TO SUGGEST NEW SILVER REMEDY

(Associated Press.)

A new plan for dealing with the silver problem will be laid before President Hoover today by Chairman Smoot, of the Senate finance committee.

In advance of his discussion with the Chief Executive, Smoot would not reveal the nature of his proposal. The senator will be accompanied to the conference by W. Mont Ferry, J. O. Elton, E. J. Raddits and George Snyder, of Salt Lake City, all of whom are connected with the silver industry.

The President's action on war debts and reparations yesterday brought from those who have been seeking an international silver conference renewed demands for steps to solve the silver problem.

Senator King (Democrat), of Utah, voiced this view in a formal statement. He said:

Maldistribution of Gold.

"If it was important for the President of the United States to cast the influence of this great republic into the scales to avert impending political and economic distress in Europe (the calamitous effects of which would have appeared in all countries), I submit it is of greater importance that the United States should take the lead in bringing the nations together for the purpose of dealing in a fundamental way with the money and credit system of the world."

King contended that much of the world's economic trouble is due to the demonetization of silver.

"There will be further political disturbances throughout the world, acute financial troubles and continued economic distress," he said, "unless important modifications shall be made in the fiscal policies of nations."

"Gold has not been handled wisely. There is a maldistribution of it, and its inadequacy to meet financial and economic conditions is becoming apparent to the most dogmatic and hidebound monometalist."

Warns of New "Yellow Peril."

King warned of an "industrial yellow peril" unless the gold standard policy in the Orient is abandoned.

"Great Britain's economic calamities are accentuated because of her Indian silver policy," he said. "If the gold standard policy is persisted in, the Occident will lose its markets in the Orient, and the Oriental nations will be driven to set up their own industrial and economic life.

"Then there will be a real 'yellow peril,' not political, as indicated by many Chauvinistic writers and some who are hostile to the people of the Orient, but an industrial peril."

King said he was informed Great Britain would participate in a silver conference if it was called by some other nation.

He suggested, however, that if no nation would take the lead in calling an international conference, the problem should be taken up by the League of Nations.

Tour City Viewing Buildings of Interest Will Mark Last Day.

The fifth national 4-H camp will close here tonight with a campfire and "Taps" at 9 o'clock, after an educational tour of the White House, the Corcoran Gallery of Art, the Pan-American Building, the Lincoln Memorial and the Library of Congress.

Games and folk dancing were held at the camp last night under the direction of A. S. Bussey, assistant State club leader of Georgia. "Taps" at 10 o'clock was preceded by a program of stunts by the Southern State representatives.

An educational tour of the natural history building of the Smithsonian Institution was held yesterday morning. Mrs. Jane Deeter Rippin, director of research of the Westchester County Publishers, White Plains, N. Y., addressed the assembly at the National Museum auditorium yesterday morning. Mrs. Rippin is a former director of the Girl Scouts. The 4-H Clubs have been in camp here for the past week.

Brussels Considering Eastman Dental Offer

Brussels, Belgium, June 22 (A.P.).—The City of Brussels is considering the offer of a fund of $1,000,000 by George Eastman, of Rochester, N. Y., for erection of a great dental institution.

One of the conditions of the offer is that the city supply an equal amount toward the project. Mr. Eastman has made similar donations to Paris, Berlin and London.

2 Cakes for Birthdays Grace Lindbergh Table

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—There were two birthday cakes in the home of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today—a tiny one with a single candle on it and a larger one with 25 candles.

Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was just 1 year old. His mother, the former Anne Morrow, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, was 25.

Joint celebration was safeguarded from the curious to the extent that where it was observed was unknown, even at the home of the little "Eaglet's" grandfather.

The baby will stay with his grandparents when his parents start their flight to China and Japan soon.

D. S. C. to Be Given Capt. Scott Friday

Colorful Ft. Myer Fete to Mark Recognition of War Deed.

Capt. John E. Scott, of the Reserve Corps, will receive the Distinguished Service Cross at a colorful ceremony at Fort Myer at 10 o'clock Friday morning for saving the lives of a regiment of men in France October 11, 1918.

Capt. Scott is credited with having inspired his men to hold their ground in the face of a German counter attack, resulting in prevention of a break through the lines that might have been fatal to his regiment. Capt. Scott is a member of the Metropolitan Police Force, attached to the Second Precinct. He has been active in organization of schoolboy patrols.

Distinguished Service Cross will be presented to Capt. Scott by Brig. Gen. Edgar T. Collins, commander of the Sixteenth Infantry Brigade. A squadron of the Third Calvary and the mounted band of this unit will take part in the ceremony. A review, with regimental colors taking part, will follow presentation.

YOUNG SCHALL FILES SUIT ASKING $90,000

Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey Is Defendant in Action Over Accident.

An automobile accident at Edmonston road and Jefferson avenue, near Bladensburg, Md., September 30 resulted in the filing of a $90,000 suit against the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey yesterday by Thomas Douglas Schall, jr., son of the blind senator from Minnesota.

A truck of the Standard Oil Co. struck an automobile in which young Schall, then a student at the Naval Academy, was riding and seriously inured him, it is claimed. The suit charges that he has received permanent injuries. Among the hurts cited were concussion of the brain, internal injuries and fractures of the right leg, left elbow, left wrist and cuts and bruises.

The suit reveals that Schall was forced to give up his hopes for a naval career. He has been confined to bed ever since the accident and has been unable to recover sufficiently to return to the Naval Academy, it is set forth. He charges that the truck was being driven recklessly and at a high rate of speed while making a sharp left-hand turn.

At the time Schall was en route to this city with a young lady companion to have dinner.

Philadelphia Society Leader Seeks Divorce

Reno, Nev., June 22 (A.P.).—Mrs. Alison G. Harrison filed suit for divorce here today from W. Frazier Harrison, member of a socially prominent Philadelphia family. Before her marriage she was Alison R. Gowen.

The Harrisons were married April 22, 1908, and have two children.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

IT is adorably smart and wearable in printed shantung.

The neckline is especially becoming with the surplice vestee that lends a smart softness to the bodice.

Style No. 926 is easily copied. The saving will amaze you. It comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 39-inch material with ⅜ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Men Who Know Pictured Against Those Who Seek Publicity.

Chicago, June 22 (A.P.).—Efforts of the National Bureau of Standards to establish definite qualifications for ballastics evidence were described today before a meeting of the American Society for testing materials.

There are two types of ballastics "experts," said a paper prepared by Dr. W. Souder, head of the ballastics department of the bureau, and presented by James L. Endicott, assistant superintendent of the heat and power section of the bureau.

One type, said the paper, included "marksman, gunsmith, range attendant, popular writer—all recognizing no difficulties or limitations."

In contrast, Dr. Souder described another "expert" who was a graduate and experienced in optics, metallurgy, metrology and photography, and acquainted with the problems of manufacture of arms and ammunition.

The Bureau of Standards, said its executive, proposed to cooperate with local governments to obtain expert and unbiased testimony regarding bullets, weapons and their relationship.

WISCONSIN AVENUE IMPROVING PLANNED

Suburban District Group Asks Early Action by County Board.

Early improvement of Wisconsin avenue from the District line to Old Georgetown road is contemplated by the Montgomery County commissioners, County Commissioner Robert D. Hagner, in charge of the Western Suburban District, told a committee from the Wisconsin Avenue Suburban Commission last night.

The committee, headed by Aubrey B. Carter, met with Mr. Hagner and James C. Christopher, deputy clerk to the county commissioners for the Western Suburban District, with regard to plans for the improvement. Mr. Carter told the commissioner that the thirteen constituent organizations of the commission are anxious that the improvement be completed before the George Washington Bicentennial celebration.

Mr. Hagner replied that the county commissioners are also anxious to complete the improvement and that it is planned to commence work this summer or early in fall. He said that Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, former county commissioner, and president of the Bethesda branch of the Montgomery Government Club, Harry Shaw, county engineer, and himself had made a survey of the situation and that Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners, had advised him to attempt to have the landowners dedicate the property needed before instituting condemnation proceedings.

It is planned to widen the avenue and to ask the Washington Railway and Electric Co. to remove the trolley poles to the sidewalk as well as to attempt to pave the right of way.

The members of the committee agreed that a sidewalk should be built on the east side as well as the west at the time the improvements are made. The east side traverses the property of the Chevy Chase Club and it is understood that the club is planning to subdivide the property and move its golf course farther out to less expensive land.

Electric League Outing Is Scheduled for Today

A motorcade of 50 automobiles is expected to leave Twelfth and Pennsylvania avenue southeast this morning at 9 o'clock, bearing members of the Electric League of Washington on their annual outing. The picnic will be held this year at Chapel Point, Md.

Members of the organization asked aid of the police department in negotiating the morning traffic out of the city.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ACCORDING to late word from South Norwalk, Conn., Eva La Gallienne and Josephine Hutchinson will not suffer such permanent injuries from the explosion of a gasoline stove recently as had at first been feared.

Dr. William W. Tracey, who is attending Miss La Gallienne, is reported as stating that while his patient's injuries are sufficiently serious to confine her to bed for several weeks longer, her face will not be permanently marred.

The same is said to be true in the case of Miss Hutchinson, the former wife of Robert Bell, of this city and New York, and formerly active in the productions of the Ram's Head Players, sponsored by Mr. Bell here. Miss Hutchinson was burned while attempting to extinguish the flames enveloping Miss La Gallienne. Both suffered severe searing of face, arms and hands.

Another old-timer, whose works are familiar to theatergoers of an earlier generation, passed with the death a week ago of Sydney Rosenfeld, librettist and author of a score of plays, at the age of 75.

Mr. Rosenfeld was a native of Richmond, Va., and during his active years was prolific in his contributions to both the dramatic and light operatic stages. He was at one time president of the American Dramatists' Society and of the National Federation of Theater Clubs.

"Mlle. Mischief" and "The Mocking Bird" are perhaps the most pleasantly remembered of the operettas for which Mr. Rosenfeld wrote the books.

When Fred Waring comes to the Palace on Saturday he will bring a troupe of 25 with him—20 boys comprising the playing personnel of his Pennsylvanians and five charming—so I am told by Barney McDevitt, the organization's handsome outrider—young women.

These latter are the Three Girl Friends, vocal harmonists, who were here with the band on its last visit, Evalyn Nair, dancer, and Tonito, a Spanish firebrand who looks strikingly like Lupe Valez—unless that off eye is still doing me tricks.

Speaking of bands and the Palace stage, for the first time in many visits Wesley Eddy is playing Washington solo—if you know what I mean.

At Saturday's first performance, by long custom I craned an eager neck toward the left stage box expecting to see Mrs. Eddy checking up on friend husband's first show, but no "Babe" Eddy was there. Come to find out, her mother is in ill health and she has remained with her at the Eddy summer home at Red Bank, N. J., pending Wesley's vacation which he is to spend there soon.

Well, they've got Mary Pickford busy denying them again. This time she and Douglas Fairbanks are to be immediately divorced so that Doug may marry Lady Mountbatten, one of the world's richest women, whose husband is a cousin of the Prince of Wales, and America's Sweetheart as promptly become the bride of Charles "Buddy" Rogers, of all things!

This irresponsible gossip Mary characterizes as typical of what might be expected from Miss Lotta Bologney, who evidently started it!

And what do you think! It is flashed from Atlantic City, N. J., and at this season most anything can be flashed from there, that Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, acquitted by a court in Nice, France, of having murdered her husband, Fred Nixon-Nirdlinger, theater magnate, is contemplating an effort to break her late husband's will because she is dissatisfied with its terms.

Under the provisions of the document, the widow is entitled to the income from one-third of the estate—valued at $750,000—for life, or until she remarries. Upon her death or remarriage, her share goes to charity. Each of her two children, Fred, 3, and Charlotte, 18 months, receives 10 per cent of the estate, to be held in trust until they reach their respective majorities.

Reverting momentarily to Waring's Pennsylvanians, one familiar face will be missing when the band takes its place on the Palace stage Saturday. Fred Buck, banjoist, violinist and arranger, and one of the original quartet from which the present organization grew, has been at Saranac since before the Pennsylvanians went into "The New Yorkers," convalescing from a lung affection. His place was taken by Paul Sterrett, son of Cliff Sterrett, noted comic strip artist, who now himself has been ordered to take a rest by his physician. When the band reaches here, Bill Priestly will be plunking the African harp.

Helen Gahagan, star of "Tonight or Never," which had its premiere in the Belasco Theater in this city and was recently closed in New York following the death of its producer, David Belasco, has been engaged as one of the soprano soloists to sing during the week of outdoor opera in Cleveland, Ohio, from July 28 to August 2.

Miss Gahagan, it will be recalled, was studying for an operatic career when persuaded by Belasco to assume the role of the opera singer in "Tonight or Never."

The dropping of William Fox from the board of directors, and the separation of his kin from the company's pay roll, will save Fox Films $605,000 per year, it is reported.

Girl, Struck by Auto, Injured.

Miss Margaret Smith, 20 years old, of 508 G street northeast, was slightly injured yesterday when struck by an automobile near Fifth and H streets northeast. The automobile was owned by Sam Israil, of H street northeast near Seventh street. She was treated at Casualty Hospital for injuries to the left leg.

'Ukulele Ike' Wins Contested Divorce

Edwards Fails, However, in His Effort to Have Property Pact Voided.

Los Angeles, June 22 (A.P.).—Clifton A. Edwards, known on the stage and screen as "Ukulele Ike," won his contested suit for divorce against Irene L. Edwards, former Follies girl, in a Superior Court decision today, but failed in his efforts to set aside a property settlement. He charged extreme cruelty.

The settlement constituted about $100,000 worth of property given his wife and an agreement to pay her one-third of his income for the remainder of her life. The court held that the agreements were valid.

The Edwards were married in Portland, Oreg., May 14, 1923, and separated November 10, 1929. Edwards sought to abrogate the agreement on grounds that she had violated a "morals clause."

Wilkes-Barre Host To Disabled Group

Veterans Open Eleventh Annual Session With Mass Meeting.

A mass meeting of delegates formally opened the convention. Herman H. Welmer, of Chicago, national commander of the Disabled War Veterans, presided.

There was a one minute's pause during the ceremonies, when, according to a prearranged plan, memorial wreaths were placed by representatives of the United States Government on the Tombs of the Unknown Soldiers at Arlington, in London, Paris, Brussels and Roma. National officers went to Scranton for a banquet tonight.

CHEVROLET

Things have been happening in the motor car industry during recent years. Progress has made rapid strides. Standards of quality have advanced. As a result the buyer of a low-priced car has a right to expect a great deal more for his money than ever. He is intitled to:

A full size car—Chevrolet gives him the travel-ease of a long 109-inch wheelbase—the comfort of roomy Fisher bodies with wide, form-fitting seats and ample leg room.

Modern multi-cylinder performance—Chevrolet's 50-horsepower 6-cylinder engine delivers that smooth, quiet power which nothing less than six cylinders can give.

Utmost economy—20 miles to the gallon of gasoline is a common experience with Chevrolet owners. And the records of many large business firms prove that the Chevrolet Six is less expensive to operate and maintain than any other car they have ever used.

Smart, stylish appearance—In the lines of the Chevrolet Six, Chevrolet has struck an attractive new note in motor car style that is winning nationwide popularity.

Modern safety gasoline tank—Chevrolet offers the modern "pump" method of fuel supply, which makes it possible to mount the tank in the rear, away from engine and chassis—a vital safeguard for passengers.

A liberal service policy—Every Chevrolet buyer receives, upon delivery of his car, a printed and signed document—the Chevrolet Owner's Service Policy. The provisions set forth in this service agreement are unquestionably the most liberal ever offered in connection with a low-priced automobile.

In deciding what car to choose in today's low-price field, insist on all the advantages which progress has made it possible for you to enjoy. Choose a Chevrolet Six. Its cost, delivered at your door ready to use, is one of the lowest in the motor car market.

The CAPITOL LIMITED to Chicago

The NATIONAL LIMITED to Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis

PEOPLE have written us enthusiastic letters about the fine, comfortable cars, the smooth ride, the good meals, the beautiful scenery along the way, their restful night's sleep on these two trains. They seem to appreciate the attentive, courteous service shown them by stewards, conductors, porters, barber-valet, maid-manicure, train-secretary, and others. If you are planning a trip to California this summer, or to other Western points, won't you try our road and judge us for yourself?

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Many Washingtonians Plan to Attend Season at Arlington.

WESTWARD swings the course of track fans as an interesting "slice" of Washington's social register makes plans to journey out to Chicago where on June 29 will be staged the first events in the Arlington Jockey Club annual meet. Several horse lovers, familiar to Washington horse shows and Virginia meets, have entries for the famous mid-Western run.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. R. Hitt have their hopes centered on Sun Meadow, which will be run at Arlington. The former Katharine Elkins' stables are famous in this part of the world where the betting odds are pretty frequently placed on her horses, as devotees of Virginia horse shows know well the pure strain of the Hitt Stables and will view with interest Sun Meadow's record at Arlington. Mr. and Mrs. Hitt will go West in July and will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Armour at their Lake Forest estate.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney has entered some horses. Mrs. Payne Whitney will run one or two and Mrs. John D. Hertz, whose Reigh Count made racing history on two continents, is counted among the women who will have formidable entries.

Mr. Joseph Leiter also has, literally speaking, gone home on horseback as, with Mrs. Leiter and their children, he is spending the summer in Lake Forest and has entries for the meet. Arrived there only a fortnight ago the Leiters have opened their country house and doubtless will have guests during the sporting event. As Miss Juliette Williams, daughter of Col. Williams, U. S. A., Mrs. Leiter early experienced the thrill of racing, as her father, who was senior officer for more than one man now stationed at Fort Sheridan, trained his daughter "in the way she should go" regarding the events of the track. Fort Sheridan is only a short distance from Arlington.

Mr. Armour, who is president of the Post and Paddock Club, and Mrs. Armour, have sent out invitations for the annual president's luncheon held in honor of the directors of the Arlington Park Jockey Club and of the Post and Paddock Club and their wives, which always takes place on opening day. Among the guests will be Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz, Mr. and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Mr. Edward N. Hurley, head of the United States Shipping Board and chairman of the Emergency Fleet Corporation during the war, and Mrs. Hurley.

Mr. Charles Curtis, Vice President, is a member of the Post and Paddock Club, as is his son, Mr. Warren Curtis, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Mr. "Jock" Whitney, Mr. William du Pont, jr., of Wilmington, and other widely known horsemen who spend much time in the Capital are club members.

Always a fine course, through the recent generosity of Mrs. Charles W. Hubbard, famous landscape artist and society leader, the terrain adjacent to the grand stand has been transformed into a spot of real beauty. The infield has been embellished with a large lake and another artificial lake has been built near the entrance driveway; gigantic cedars and honeysuckle hedges flank the terraces near the clubhouse and in all the setting is one quite befitting the aristocracy of horseflesh which will be entered on the tracks.

Mrs. Hoover Returns To the White House.

Mrs. Hoover returned to the White House yesterday after passing the week-end at the presidential camp at the Rapidan. Mrs. Hoover took no guests with her to the camp on the trip.

The United States Minister to Bolivia and Mrs. Edward F. Feeley sailed Saturday from New York on board the Santa Clara for La Paz. Mr. Feeley, who spent several weeks in Washington, will resume his duties as minister.

Representative and Mrs. Maurice H. Thatcher are expected to return from Kentucky for a short stay in Washington in July. They have returned to their home in Louisville, after a trip by airplane to Memphis.

Miss Louise Frantz, of Lafayette, Ind., is passing a few days at the Dodge Hotel and is accompanied by Miss Dorothy Deer, of Franklin, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. William Guthrie Take Cottage There for Season.

A little Washington colony has developed in the charming beach resort, Bay Head, N. J., and has been welcomed by the older colonies of people from Philadelphia, New York and New Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Guthrie left yesterday for Bay Head, where they have taken a cottage for the season. Later in the week they will be joined by Mrs. Frederick Jones, sister of Mrs. Guthrie, who will come from Youngstown, Ohio. She will remain with them until August, when she plans to go abroad with her mother, Mrs. John C. Letts, of Washington, for a few weeks of travel. Mrs. Letts and Mrs. Jones have just returned from a six-month visit in California.

Mr. and Mrs. William Pearson and their children have already opened their cottage at Bay Head for the summer and will have with them for part of the season Mrs. Pearson's sister, Mrs. Andrew Duvall, of Washington. Mr. Duvall will join them for occasional week-ends, and their son, Andrew Duvall, jr., will go to camp until the end of August, when he will join his parents at Bay Head. Gertrude and Edith Pearson will go to camp also and will join the family at the end of the summer. Miss Katherine Pearson and her young brother, William, jr., will be at the resort with their parents for the entire season.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dunlop also have taken a cottage at Bay Head, where Mrs. Dunlop and their children will spend the summer. Mr. Dunlop will join them for frequent visits.

Representative Andrew Returns From Europe.

Representative A. Piatt Andrew arrived in New York yesterday on the Ile de France after passing several weeks in Europe. While there he made a five-week tour of the Soviet Union. Col. Andrew, during the World War, organized the American Field Service with the French army before the United States entered the war, and subsequently served with the A. E. F.

Former Representative Walter M. Chandler, after spending several weeks in Belgium, Holland and Germany, has gone to Paris for a few days before leaving for Russia on a business trip. Mr. Chandler will go to Norway to spend August around the North Cape and Spitzbergen.

Two Birthdays Are Observed By Lindberghs

"Slipping one over" on the famous Lindbergh family, which yesterday celebrated two birthday anniversaries at once, Senator Dwight W. Morrow marched into the limelight of the news two days previously when he received the tribute of his alma mater, Amherst College, where on Saturday his portrait was hung in the chapter house of Beta Theta Pi with President Coolidge "looking on." The portrait was painted by Edwin B. Child, of the class of '90. The New Jersey senator is an alumnus of the class of '95.

Immediately after the ceremony Senator Morrow left Amherst for his home in New Jersey and yesterday, with Mrs. Morrow, was a guest of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Chrles A. Lindbergh, at Princeton, where the household took on a gala air in celebration of Mrs. Lindbergh's birthday and that of little "Lindy," both falling on the same day.

While in Amherst former President Coolidge and Senator Morrow attended a meeting of the trustees, at which Mr. Joseph Q. Adams was appointed director of research of the Folger Memorial Library in Washington. Dr. Adams resigned on Friday as professor of English at Cornell University, where he has served for 12 years.

M. Rene Adelbert de Chambrun, jr., who recently returned to Europe with his mother, Countess de Chambrun, both having come after the death of the countess' brother, the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth, will sail today for New York on the Paris. M. de Chambrun will be connected with a law firm in New York. With Gen. de Chambrun the countess will return to their home in Tunis and they will not return to Paris before the middle of September, when they will attend the unveiling of the monument at Saint-Gaudens.

Miss Josephine Parks Leaves for Arkansas.

Miss Josephine Parks, daughter of Representative Tillman B. Parks, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Jack Marshall, left yesterday morning by motor for her home in Arkansas. Mrs. Marshall entertained at a breakfast and swimming party Sunday at Carroll Springs Inn at Fort Glen, Md.

Dorothy Clark Becomes Bride At Rockville

A lovely wedding took place at Rockville yesterday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Berry Edward Clark, when their daughter, Miss Dorothy Helen Clark, became the bride of Mr. Charles Wesley Prettyman, also of Rockville, son of Dr. and Mrs. Forrest J. Prettyman, of Baltimore. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Prettyman, father of the bridegroom, in the presence of only the immediate families.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a close-fitting wedding gown of white satin. Her tulle veil was becomingly arranged and caught with orange blossoms. The only ornament worn was a pearl-framed ivory miniature of her great-great-grandfather. She carried a lace handkerchief which was first carried by the grandmother of an intimate friend, Mrs. Judson Welliver. Her shower bridal bouquet was of roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Sarah Welliver, of Evanston, Ill., was maid of honor, and wore a gown of deep pink chiffon with long flowing skirt and cape collar, caught in front with a chiffon rose. She carried pink roses, snapdragons and larkspur. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Leon Jouroimon, jr., of Knoxville, Tenn., sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Catherine Dawson, of Rockville. Their dresses were fashioned like that of the maid of honor, but in pale pink, and they carried bouquets of pink roses.

Mr. E. Barrett Prettyman, of Chevy Chase, was his brother's best man, and the ushers included Mr. William Prettyman, of Rockville, cousin of the bridegroom; Mr. Edson Olds, jr., of Silver Spring, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Walter Armstrong and Mr. Ralph Houser, of Washington.

The ceremony was followed by a reception on the lawn and was attended by about 300 guests.

Mrs. Clark, mother of the bride, wore a gown of black and white chiffon, and orchid corsage, and Mrs. Prettyman, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of orchid lace.

Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Prettyman left for their wedding trip, the latter traveling in a becoming costume of navy blue and white, with accessories to match. Upon their return they will live in Rockville.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Ruth Magruder, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Luther White, of Norfolk, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Jouroimon, jr., of Knoxville, Tenn.; Mrs. Oscar Schmidt, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Boulc Clark, Mr. and Mrs. George Clautic; and Miss Josephine Wellmore, all of Baltimore; Mrs. Judson C. Welliver, of Evanston, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde M. Stout, of Berwick, Pa.

Judge and Mrs. Samuel Jordan Graham sailed yesterday to pass some time in Europe. They will go first to Baden-Baden and then to Bayreuth for the Wagner festival. Later they will go to Vienna and Budapest, returning to Paris in the fall. Next winter they will take motor trips in Morocco, Algiers and Tunis, and will spend some time in Egypt before going to Sicily for the spring months.

Mrs. Julian Wheeler Will Entertain.

Mrs. Julian Wheeler, wife of Lieut. Comdr. Wheeler, U. S. N., will entertain tomorrow at a buffet luncheon at her home in honor of Commander Wheeler's mother, Mrs. Charles J. Wheeler, of Mobile, Ala., who will be here for a month's visit.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hewitt Meyers and their three daughters, Miss Persis Meyers, Miss Mary Hewitt Meyers and Miss Louise Meyers, sailed yesterday from New York on the S. S. Columbus for Europe. They have leased a small chateau in Touraine where they will spend July and August.

Maj. and Mrs. Wolff Smith spent the week-end at Natural Bridge, Va., where they were guests at the Natural Bridge Hotel.

Visiting Canada

MISS CECILE HARRINGTON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Harrington, who left recently to attend the Biennial Convention of the Alpha Delta Pi Sorority at Lake Louise, Alberta. The convention will continue through next Saturday.

Capital Scion Is Engaged to Boston Girl

Philip Rhinelander Will Wed Virginia Roberts, Announcement Says.

Mr. and Mrs. Odin Roberts, of 32 Lime street, Boston, and of Long Hill Farm, Beverly, yesterday in Boston announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Virginia Roberts, to Philip Hamilton Rhinelander, son of the Right Rev. Philip Mercer Rhinelander and Mrs. Rhinelander, of Washington, D. C., and of Eastern Point, Gloucester, on Cape Ann.

Miss Roberts, after attending the Windsor School, Boston, and Miss Schoff's School in Paris, France, came out in the season of 1925-26. She is

Many Parties Please Those At Exposition

Former Senator Goff and Wife Are Paris Hosts at Dinner.

Entertainments for those attending the Colonial Exposition in Paris still continue to be gay and numerous.

Former Senator and Mrs. Guy D. Goff entertained at dinner recently at the George V. and had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hitchcock, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Greer, Miss Anne Madison Washington, Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, Mrs. Karl Klemm, Mrs. Henry Rudy, Mr. C. Bascom Slemp, Mr. Robert T. Francis, Gen. William E. Horton and Mr. Harold Williamson.

One day last week a luncheon was given for the Benjamin Franklin Chapter, D. A. R., by the State regent, Mrs. Albert N. Connett, jr., at her country home in Barbizon. The Comtesse de Chilly, the regent, presided at the meeting, which was held in honor of Flag Day.

Miss Anne Madison Washington, official hostess of the American exhibit at the exposition, was among the guests, as were Mrs. Henry Rudy, Mrs. Swanson and Mrs. Goff, assistant hostesses.

The Marquesa de Santa Maria, of Washington and Paris, recently entertained at a garden party at her home in the Rue de l'Assomption. The marquesa will come to Washington in the late fall to pass the winter.

M. Pierre Denoyer, American correspondent for Le Petit Parisien, has come from New York and is stopping at the Wardman Park Hotel.

At such times Take Care
Beware the doubtful hygiene of nameless substitutes for Kotex

SANITARY protection is closely related to your health. You need absolute assurance of cleanliness, through and through. This assurance you have with Kotex.

But how about the dozens of nameless substitutes? How are they made? Where? By whom? How do you know they're fit for this intimate personal use?

Take no chances! Refuse questionable substitutes, of whose makers you know nothing. You know Kotex is safe. It's the world's standard in sanitary protection. Pure, immaculate, safe. Ten million pads were bought by hospitals last year. Insist on Kotex. Kotex is soft and comfortable. It is treated to deodorize. Shaped to fit. Disposable.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

Please tell me the name of the inclosed flower. H. D. C.

Hepatica.

About six weeks ago I purchased six pansy plants, which I planted in roomy flower pots. As yet they have not taken hold. I keep them in the sun most of the day and keep them fairly damp. What do you suggest?

MRS. RICHARD W. B.

Pansies are sometimes a little slow in becoming accustomed to a new environment. A prolonged sunny spell will likely cause them to start to grow. Be sure to remove the flowers as soon as they show signs of fading, as it is only by so doing that they will continue to bloom. If permitted to develop seed, they will cease producing more flowers.

Please tell me the name of the inclosed leaf. Also tell me something of the necessary care of the plant from which the leaf was taken.

Your plant is a begonia metallica. Keep plant, while in the house, in an eastern window. Out of doors keep it wherever it will have morning sun. In the house water the plant only every other day, but while in the open water it every day. Keep plant growing in a pot and keep the surface soil quite loose. Occasionally you may have to cut the plant back to the roots. Too much or too little water and too little fresh air in winter will cause the plant to drop its leaves.

My Boston fern is covered with scale. The plant is full of runners. I have removed the worst of the infested fronds. What do you suggest?

Better cut the plant back to the roots. Then divide root into three pieces and plant each section in a separate pot. Use a soil composed of good loam, well rotted leafmold and sand in equal portions.

Please tell me the name of the plant from which I am inclosing some leaves. I have never cut the plant back. Now it has only a few leaves on some tall, ungainly stems.

MRS. B. E. B.

Your plant is a coleus. Better take cuttings from the end of the shoots and discard the old plant, which has outlived its usefulness.

Please tell me the formula for Massey dust. JAMES B. P.

Nine parts dusting sulphur and one part lead arsenate. Dust this over your roses about once in ten days. It is the best control we have for blackspot and mildew.

Please tell me the name of a rapid-growing vine which you know will be hardy in this locality.

HELEN D. W.

Polygonum auberti.

Do bell flowers do well in semishade or must they have sun at all times?

MRS. H. T. E.

Campanula (bell flowers) delight in a good rich soil and prefer a semi-shaded place. Stake the taller varieties to prevent them from being injured by sudden showers.

Please tell me how high a plum poppy grows. ELSIE F. W.

Six to eight feet.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Jan Interprets the Mode

New York, June 22.

It started to show itself in the January collections of the haute couture, but not to any alarming extent, but now it has reached the stage where you simply have to acknowledge that it's one of the most important changes that has occurred in the silhouette for five or six seasons. It's the back-to-nature or the unconcealed curve movement. Yes, my dear, not since the Golden Age in Greece, if I remember my history correctly, have the natural lines and curves of a woman's body been featured to such an extent. And not since the beginning of the century have smart women been permitted such a frankly and unmistakably bosomy appearance!

Particularly in the evening mode does the importance of this new and natural line appear, and the flat-chested and hipless are as out of luck as those who suffer from excess poundage. At the very least it demands a natural, normal, rather womanly slenderness and unless that's your description you just must resign yourself to keeping away from this type of silhouette or else fattening up or thinning down so that it will suit you.

Vionnet is the house originally responsible for this frankly curving mode and though you may not have realized it the cowl neck which has become such a conspicuously popular one is one of her ways of accentuating the bust.

All kinds of bias draped bodices are being used in many evening gowns to softly and subtly outline the fact that a woman is a woman. No longer is it by close fitting and molding that curves are revealed, which kind of fitting, you remember, raised for a while the menace of the whalebone corset. No, on the contrary, it's the limpness and softness of the material * * * satins and georgettes, &c. (made with no stiffening or confining foundation), which permit the curves of the body to make their impress. And the effect should be something like the Greek goddess in her draperies—and that, my dear, is the effect which may be the predominating one in the new evening mode.

There is a way to be different in your beach togs, if you're the type! The garconne type, that is—you know, the slim little, girlish little tomboy who is into all the pranks and mischief of her older brother, even if she is old enough to know better herself! To show you how gaily she does prove her originality, I have sketched for you today the pajama suit from Suzanne Talbot, of yellow wash silk To carry out her tomboyishness, she wraps a hand-knitted scarf in two shades of yellow around her throat, a la Apache, and put on a beige and yellow peaked cap. And all this feminine tomboy smartness is worn over a most utterly feminine bathing suit, with a bracelet neck, hand-knitted in two shades of yellow—like the scarf!

* * * *

If you yourself are lovely and dainty and feminine, don't try a suit of this sort. But if you've a strong dash of boyish mischief, why not show it in a way as stunning as this?

* * * *

You may pretend to be as blind as a bat about your own sweet self in a bathing suit or an evening gown, but you just know you would look better with a brassiere than without one! 'N' now that backless brassieres are highly efficient in their own small, quiet way, there's no excuse for going without one at any time! The brassiere that preserves the natural, lovely outlines of the breast has been terrifically expensive in the past—but those days are over! For I have found out just how to make these of a bit of lace and elastic and crocheting—and am just waiting for you to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post to prove to you how easily you can make them yourself! They're comfortable and attractive and, oh, so economical to own!

FRANCES M'DONALD

The Co-Ed Viewpoint

DEAR Frances McDonald: Within a block of my apartment live ten other girls from my own little Western state college. They are all attractive, all between 20 and 30 years of age. They have all had a background similar to mine. We all worked our way through college; we have been working since. We know the value of money. Why should we expect a man to spend more on us than we can afford to spend on ourselves?

Out West in college, where we were all as poor as the proverbial church mice, the boys and girls had a good time together, without money. The boys bought a 10-cent bag of popcorn; we walked down the prettiest street in the world, ate the popcorn, and talked, talked, talked. But when those same boys graduate something happens to them. They no longer meet the girl half way. Most of those girls sit home evenings. Why?

Two years ago one of my college boy friends came here for a year of school. He had only a relatively small sum of money which simply had to see him through his year here. I knew that; I knew that he was an orphan, that he had worked his own way from childhood, and that he had known such want and proverty as I had never dreamed of. I didn't want him to spend a lot of money on me, but this is what he did. Since we both had recently come from a community where the better types of entertainment are conspicuous by their absence, we were avid for plays and music. We could have sat in the second balcony of any legitimate theater in this city for 50 cents apiece. I wanted to do it; he wouldn't consider it. On the two or three occasions when we did go, he bought $2 seats, when we could have had them for 50 cents. I got no enjoyment in sitting in the $2 seat which I knew he could ill afford. We missed many good shows that we might have seen for 50 cents if he had been sensible.

That same man is now in a Middle Western university getting his Ph.D. He still has no more money than is necessary to pay his expenses. During the past winter he was sent on an expense-paid trip. He asked me what show I would like to see during the two or three days he would be here on his way back. I said, "The Applecart," Since he was going on that day, he gave me a $5 bill and told me to get the tickets. He didn't say anything about what to spend for them. I got seats in the fifth row, balcony, and when he came back I gave him his change. He didn't like it.

Now why should I have spent the entire $5 on that show when we could see it perfectly well for $2, and when he could not well afford to spend the money?

Don't misunderstand me. I don't object to a man's spending money on me if he can afford it—in fact, I get a big thrill out of it; but I think he is very foolish to spend it when he can't afford it. I thing it shows lack of man-sense.

For the last few months I have been going around with a man who is financially comfortable. He is better off than most. We go on concerts and plays and always sit in the gallery. Often he comes to my apartment for the evening. We make fudge and have a grand time. Or, I read to him, but not for long. Innumerable times we have started reading a magazine article together, only to get so wrought up over the writer's views on the subject that we forget the magazine and talk about it ourselves for the rest of the evening. Sometimes we go to movies right after work when we can get in for a quarter. Afterward we get a can of salmon, a bottle of milk and some radishes, and make a supper on scalloped salmon, coffee and radishes.

Do I think any less of him because he buys the cheapest seats instead of the most expensive? I do not! I know that with the money he does not spend on me, he is helping the families of several men relatives who are out of work.

I can't feel terribly sorry for these poor men who feel that they can't call on a girl if they don't spend a lot of money. Nine cases out of ten the man who plays martyr and gives up a girl because he is poor, is simply too vain to be frank, and too selfish to care how badly the girl may feel at his defection. I pin no medals on your correspondent Pete. To me he is just a washout—and that's that!

Culbertson on Contract

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

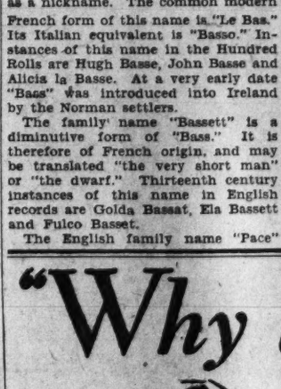
A FAULTY FOUNDATION—A RESOUNDING CRASH.

UNSOUND opening bids are at the root of more disasters at the Contract table than any other cause. The opening bids are the foundation upon which all subsequent partnership bidding—even penalty doubles—is based. If the foundation is faulty, any superstructure built upon it is shaky and liable to crash with the first gust of an adverse wind. In Bridge, when one side has a game on the rubber and a partial score on the second as well, the situation of the defending players is desperate. A policy of boldness is dictated by that fact. The defending players are in the same condition faced by the French armies in the early days of the World War, when Foch gained undying fame by his message: "My right is being driven back, my left is retreating; I shall attack in the center."

But even defending forces, however desperate the situation, should select skillfully the hour for a counterattack. The example below is one where the time was not well chosen, nor was the field on which the defensive battle was waged the best which the defense could have chosen.

North and South vulnerable, with a part score of 60. Also a top-heavy penalty score heightened the psychological tension.

North and South vulnerable and 60. East and West not vulnerable.



The bidding was short, decisive and disastrous:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1NT (1)	Pass (2)	Pass
2♦ (3)	2NT (4)	Dbl. (5)	Pass
Pass	Pass (6)

1—West's Opening bid is badly chosen. It violates the principle that when a hand contains a choice between an Opening suit bid and an Opening notrump bid, the suit should always be preferred.

2—North's pass is conservative, but South, who in this instance was William E. Barrett, one of the holders of the American Bridge League championship for teams of four at Contract, is not a timid person, so North abandons the idea of attack for the moment, awaiting later developments.

3—South's Overcall is aggressive and perhaps not fully justified by the values held, but "Billie," an 18-year-old wizard from Augusta, Georgia, is a man who believes in letting psychology work for him, and he reasoned that West would not permit him to play the hand when 2 diamonds meant game and rubber. The bidding clearly indicates that North and not East holds the undisclosed honor strength.

4—The second bid of notrump is the counsel of desperation. It is too late now to bid the clubs, a declaration which would also be surely defeated, but not nearly so decisively as was the notrump. However, the score overrules the dictates of sound sense and a major disaster resulted.

5—North now doubles the notrump bid for penalties. With three and one-half honor-tricks and a partner strong enough to make a defensive Overcall when vulnerable, the penalty must be well worth while, greater than the making of the rubber game.

In the play North opened the heart Knave. He reasoned that South must hold honor strength in outside suits to justify his diamond bid and that West held the diamond King as a stopper in that suit. There seemed nothing to lose by this course. There might be much to gain. The Queen was played from dummy and South's King and West's Ace were both played. It was a mighty drop of honors. West, as yet unaware of the extent of the disaster, started in to establish Dummy's long suit. It was making the best of a very bad bargain. He led the King of clubs. This was won by North, who took his three heart tricks, then led a small spade and South was in to lead diamonds through West's illy-guarded King. West put it up at once, and North and South took the remaining tricks, a total of twelve in all, for a set of 1,800 points, not vulnerable. The price of an incorrect Opening bid and a rebid, equally unjustified, was rather high.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of The Washington Post, ENCLOSING A 2-CENT STAMPED SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Bass" is found in English documents even before the time of the Hundred Rolls. It is of French and ultimately of Latin origin. Its original meaning is "low" and "short," but it has also taken on the secondary meaning of "fat." It was obviously first given as a nickname. The common modern French form of this name is "Le Bas." Its Italian equivalent is "Basso." Instances of this name in the Hundred Rolls are Hugh Basse, John Basse and Alicia la Basse. At a very early date "Bass" was introduced into Ireland by the Norman settlers.

The family name "Bassett" is a diminutive form of "Bass." It is therefore of French origin, and may be translated "the very short man" or "the dwarf." Thirteenth century instances of this name in English records are Golda Bassat, Ela Bassett and Fulco Basset.

The English family name "Pace" has come down to us from two main sources. It is often a variation of "Paish," which, in turn, is another form of "Pash." "Pash" (also spelled "Pask" and "Paske") was once a common personal name derived from the Hebrew "pesakh" meaning "a passing over." It was frequently given to children who were born during the Passover festival or Eastertide. Some families named "Pace" have received that name because of a former residence in one of the numerous French towns called "Le Pas" or "Pas." This French placename means "the pass" and "the track." "Pace" also occurs as an Italian name of Latin origin. In Italy it was first given as a personal name meaning "peace." Its Italian variations are most numerous. Some of the commonest are "Pacelli," "Pacini," "Paciotti" and "Pase."

What Today Means to You

"CANCER."

IF JUNE 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from noon to 2:15 p. m., from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. and from 10:45 p. m. to midnight. The danger hours are from 10 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. and from 4:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

The astrological signs for June 23 indicate a successful time for those pursuing work of a mental type. Those holding definite ambitions will receive news or indications that their dreams have not been in vain. Fate will seem to favor elderly people more than the young.

The stellar portents under which a child is born on this June 23 are very favorable. The character tendencies should be as follows: A strong will, at times shading into pure stubbornness; an inquisitive nature; a love of pleasure; considerable affection; superiority complex, and a "die hard" spirit.

Born on June 23, you possess a large number of qualities which should bring you both success and happiness. Be you man or a woman, your efficiency is enhanced a hundredfold by the charm of your manner. Your personality and address are factors that count for as much as, or more than, your technical qualifications. You have a distinct pull everywhere because you are agreeable and pleasing to have around. You are neither a joy killer, nor a silly clown. You are efficient without being blatant about it; you are happy without being noisy about it; you are good without being prudish or pious about it. You are intensely "human." Comfort, peace and harmony mean more to you than fame, power or riches. Your tastes are cultured, but simple.

You have a natural aptitude for business pursuits, as you are practical minded, and have so-called "money sense." You can work in harmony with other people, and you are quick to sense ability other than your own. You are liberal with your praise, kindly in your criticisms, and generous in all senses of the word. If you be a woman, you are a natural homemaker, and a born entertainer. Those of both sexes born on June 23 have keen senses of humor, and possess the ability to make their own good times. No matter what your status in life may be—married or single, rich or poor—the stars only picture you as being content with your existence and what life has to offer you.

Successful people born June 23.

"Why doesn't the Heat Bother You?"

"My dear, it's so simple you'll laugh. I just make sure that I don't eat too much for lunch. For example, this noon I had two Shredded Wheat biscuits covered with strawberries and a pitcher of half and half. That's what I call an ideal lunch—main course and dessert all in one. If you don't like strawberries try sliced peaches—the big idea is the Shredded Wheat. It's so light and easy to digest, it keeps me comfortable on a hot afternoon."

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN.

D. M. WRITES for an article on nervous breakdown. Its causes, symptoms, diet and the best way to build oneself up.

It is evident that D. M. thinks of a nervous breakdown as a physical disorder—one that results from physical causes, and that can be repaired by physical remedies. In this he is at least 90 per cent wrong.

The term is a loose one—so very loose that it is not easy to decide just what it means. It follows that there is a great latitude in causation. Using the term, in the customary sense, a nervous breakdown is a personality disorder. It is the mind and the emotions rather than the physical structures that are at fault. Underneath it lies fear, anxiety, worry, unwillingness to face the realities of life, lack of ability to withstand strain, hysteria, lack of courage and poise. Sometimes all of these qualities enter into the personality. In other cases, one or more are missing. In some cases one of them is to the fore. In other cases, another.

The type of personality which is most subject to the disorder is that which goes by the name "nervous personality," though the cyclic personality, in its depressive phases, is liable to run into what is called "nervous breakdown." The breaks which occur in other forms of personality should be called by names other than this one.

If the breakdown is a mild one, the symptoms may be a feeling of inadequacy, unwillingness to try to meet obstacles, to fight back. There may also be dizziness, lack of appetite, fatigue and insomnia. If it is more severe it goes by the name of "symptoms of psychasthenia."

There is no special diet. A good, nutritious, wholesome diet and one that appeals to the appetite, is of service. However, patients with nervous breakdown do not care to have people try to diet them.

The only place of drugs in treatment is in meeting occasional symptoms. It is claimed that radium solution internally has some value. Possibly other remedies help somewhat. The core of treatment is mental, spiritual and social training. There should be a period of relaxation and rest, after which the training should be of another kind.

SPROUTED GRAINS.

J. M. S. writes: I read you recent article on spring tonics. What are sprouted grains; that is, how are the grains to be prepared or where can I procure this food? What about the malted products? Just what shall I call for in purchasing at the stores for vitamin B?

Also, what is phage (for boils)?

REPLY.

Drug stores carry malted products. There are factories that specialize in the making of these products. Most of them sell through drug stores.

Canners put up sprouted grains. They sell through grocery stores.

If you wish to do so, you can sprout corn, oats, wheat, and whatever you like.

Some cereals contain wheat germs, according to the printed label. You can buy wheat in cans in grocery stores. You can also buy whole wheat in grocery stores as well as feed stores, and grind it or have it ground.

Phage is made by several manufacturers of biologics. It is made by some health departments. It is sold in drug stores or given away at health departments. Be sure you get the phage for your coccus.

NEW PACKARD LINE IS DISPLAYED HERE

Marked Improvements and Changes Made; Preserve Characteristics.

Today the Packard Washington Motor Car Co. is displaying a new line of Packard straight eight automobiles which embodies many features entirely new to motor cars and others that give added comfort, beauty and performance. The new cars are more altered in appearance than they have been in several years, but they still retain the characteristic Packard lines.

There are four different chassis lengths, the eights on 129½ and 136½ inch wheelbases and De Luxe models 142½ and 147½ inches long, with wider tread.

The motor, which develops approximately 12 more horsepower than in former models, is "floated" in rubber, thereby giving quieter operation. The frame has been redesigned, being an inch and three-quarters lower than last year, while it also has been made considerably stronger and stiffer with a built-up box section cross piece at the front end and a big, heavy, "X" shaped cross member in the center. Higher compression, droped forge rocker arms, with pressure feed lubrication to the rollers, increased valve-spring tension and steel-backed main bearings with new type piston rings, are some of the new motor features.

Increased riding comfort has been provided not only by the newly designed frame and longer wheelbase, but by an ingenious shock absorber adjustment as well. On the open road when high speed is desired it is well to have the car tied down, as it were, to secure riding comfort. In city work the shock absorbers should be freer. By means of an arrangement within easy reach of the driver the tension of the shock absorbers can be regulated while the car is in motion.

Two new body types, a victoria and a long wheelbase five-passenger sedan, have been added to the Packard eight line and the Victoria to the De Luxe line. In both lines the runabout has been superseded by a new coupe roadster.

Widow of 1812 Veteran Is Dead in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, June 22 (A.P.).—Mrs. Mary Ann Williams, said to be the only widow in Philadelphia of a veteran of the War of 1812, died last night. She was 98.

Mrs. Williams was 18 when she became a bride the first time. Her second husband, Dr. John Williams, of Baltimore, where she was born, fought as a private in Moore's company of the Maryland Militia and was with Andrew Jackson at New Orleans. One of her sons fought in the Civil War, and one of her great-grandsons was killed in the World War.

Cathedral Rites Will Honor Three

Stones in memory of three Baltimore firemen who were killed while on duty will be placed in the fabric of Washington Cathedral at ceremonies to be held on Mount St. Alban at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon.

The Rev. John W. Gummere, of the cathedral clergy, will conduct this service. Members of the Baltimore and Washington Fire Departments, Baltimore City and Government officials and members of the firemen's families will witness the exercises.

The stones, blocks of white Indiana limestone, will be set in the south transept—one of the arms of the cross-shaped fane—in memory of Capt. Harry Jones, William H. Hundertmark and John King. After the stones have been placed the names of the three fire department heroes will be written in the Book of Remembrance of the cathedral.

Placing of the stones is made possible through voluntary offerings for the work of the cathedral collected by members of the Baltimore Fire Department.

COMFORT IS FOUND AT WOODLAND BEACH

When the thermometer begins to register in the upper 90s and even over 100 mark, it is high time that something be done to secure relief. There is no better place to go than to Woodland Beach, The Washington Post's summer home development site on South River in Maryland.

Out there in a country marked by cooling breezes off the water, by heavy foliage protecting everyone and everything from the hot rays of the sun, scores of Washingtonians are either building or planning summer homes which they expect to prove the best bargains they have ever had.

Out there in the country, but only 32 miles from Washington over perfect roads, Woodland Beach has opened up for the families of the Capital a place where the children may romp in comfort and safety, where the mothers may rest in peace and quiet and where the fathers may swim, row or fish to their hearts' content.

A Real Bargain and Why.

And why do these people who have purchased lots at Woodland Beach believe they have secured a real bargain? Because the price of all lots at this garden spot is $93, of which only $9 and the cost of a subscription to The Washington Post are necessary before entering your name on the list of owners. The remainder of the cost may be paid in monthly installments of $3.50.

Many fine locations on which you may erect a summer cottage are still available. If you have not visited Woodland Beach and made a selection, at least in your mind, drop in at The Post today and look over the layout. You may find just what you've been looking for for years.

A Popular Summer Community.

Woodland Beach has started to develop into a popular summer community and you will find that your cottage will be among those of friends and neighbors. Happy hours are ahead of those who have gotten in on the development and pleasant summers are ahead of you if you take advantage of this offer within a short time.

Don't delay because that delay may mean that somebody else will get just the lot you had in mind.

Michigan Bank Closes.

Belding, Mich., June 22 (A.P.).—The Reading Savings Bank, capitalized at $100,000, failed to open today. A notice on the doors stated that the bank was closed at the order of the directors, "for the protection of the interest of its depositors." It was the only bank in Belding. Deposits were said to be approximately $1,000,000.

The marriage of Miss Helen E. Shaw, daughter of Mrs. A. L. Shaw, of Darby, Pa., to Mr. Louis Holmes yesterday at noon at the Takoma Park Baptist Church, was followed by a family luncheon party at the Shoreham, the bridegroom's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Holmes, being the hosts.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Holmes, the bride's mother, Mrs. A. L. Shaw, and Miss Dorothy Roberts Shaw.

Mr. R. O. Johnson, of Roanoke, Va., is spending some time in Washington and is stopping at the Potomac Park Apartments. Mr. Johnson is appearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission in connection with the recapture case of the Norfolk & Western Railway.

At the home of Mrs. E. F. Ladd, widow of former Senator Ladd, of South Dakota, on Saturday, Miss Grace Helen Aasen, daughter of Mrs. T. J. Aasen, of Oakes, N. Dak., became the bride of Mr. Marvin Lamar Parler, jr., of Washington. Mr. Parler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lamar Parler, of Wedgefield, S. C.

The ceremony was performed at noon by the Rev. M. Shearer, pastor of the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church, and was followed by a wedding breakfast.

The bride was dressed in a long gown of white net made with a plain bodice and a scalloped ruffled skirt. The neck was pointed in back and round in front and had no sleeves. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas.

Her only attendant was Miss Virginia Ladd, another sorority sister, who was gowned in blue organdy of a pastel shade and carried pink roses and sweet peas. The best man was Mr. Sim McDaniel, of Washington. The bride is a graduate of George Washington University and is a member of the Delta Zeta Sorority. The bridegroom graduated at Clemson College in South Carolina. As her going-away dress the bride wore an ensemble of blue crepe with black and white accessories.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Parler will be at home at 2915 Connecticut avenue northwest.

Mrs. C. J. Holbrook will entertain a party at luncheon today at the Shoreham, the company afterward playing bridge in the hotel's card rooms.

The wedding of Miss Emilie E. Siddall, of 404 Sixth street northwest, to Mr. Clifford E. Grey, of New York, was solemnized yesterday with the Rev. H. M. Hennig, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, officiating.

Like the Weave in a Persian Rug... the Best Gasoline is Blended

IN an ancient Persian village the rug-maker sits, tying the countless knots which bind together the richly dyed threads composing his almost priceless handiwork. Generations before him have handed down the secret of the dyes, the traditional patterns, the color-harmony which distinguishes the sought-after Ispahans, Kashans and Namazliks. The skill of this blender of color means everything. Because he KNOWS HOW, the rug he weaves will become the treasured possession of some wealthy connoisseur.

The art of blending is equally important in the making of good gasoline. Just as the rug-maker uses his several rich colors to create the finished rug, so must the several types of gasoline be blended and balanced to create a fuel of the desired qualities. No one type of gasoline can be satisfactory, for no one type possesses all the required attributes.

So CONOCO uses: Natural Gasoline, for flashing performance . . . Straight Run Gasoline, for power and mileage . . . Cracked Gasoline, for its anti-knock qualities.

Anyone with fairly deft fingers can take dyed yarn and make a rug. Anyone can mix the three types of gasoline, but only the expert can obtain the proper blend in perfect balance . . . and CONOCO men are experts. Their skill produces the triple-test motor fuel, CONOCO Balanced-Blend Gasoline. Assert yourself as a connoisseur of gasoline. Drive to the nearest Red Triangle service station and fill the tank with this blended motor fuel.

to make men more conscious of their "Personal Appearance"

How many times have you and your associates said, "If we could only make men appreciate the value of their 'Personal Appearance' we could double our business over night?" And how often have you complained to newspaper representatives, that, "With all the pages of publicity you give to Women's Fashions, Automobiles, Foods, Sports Events and Interior Decorating, why don't you do something for the Men's Apparel Industry?"

In twenty-five years no paper has offered a satisfactory answer or a constructive suggestion.

WE INTRODUCE A NEW AND POWERFUL CO-OPERATIVE PROGRAM

The Washington Post has proven to those who have used it consistently and conscientiously, that it is a powerful factor in the distribution of men's, as well as women's apparel.

With the inauguration of this campaign of 100,000 lines of space, its value will be vastly increased.

Leading local and national advertisers have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in attempting to "Sell" the idea of "Dress Well and Succeed," an investment in Good Appearance, and others, but each has lacked the vital spark that makes an advertising campaign "click."

P. A. HAS THAT SPARK

Advertisers are invited to tie-up with this campaign not only with their copy in the paper, but with Window Cards, Bill Enclosures, Mailing Pieces, Match Covers, etc.

Concentrate your appropriations with the newspaper that is co-operating in the promotion of YOUR business.

BANKING INSTITUTE NEEDS MORE SPACE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Larger quarters are needed for the classes of Washington Chapter, American Intsitute of Banking. Reporting to the District of Columbia Bankers Association on this matter, Frank M. Perley, latest past president of the chapter, said that while the additional class room provided last year has been helpful, the classrooms are still very congested. The additional classroom was arranged by remodeling the present chapter quarters on the third floor of the Becker Building, 1318 F street northwest.

Discusing these quarters, Past President Perley states, "The interior walls are not sufficiently soundproof, frequently resulting in one class disturbing another, to say nothing of the objectionable traffic and other noises reaching the classrooms from the street."

Concluding his report, Past President Perley says, "We believe that the matter of quarters should be given serious consideration at the expiration of the present lease, with a view to determining whether or not more suitable space could be secured at approximately the same rental as now being paid."

Suggestions for School.

Association officials believe that some vacant residence not too far removed from the central part of the city can be secured as a suitable school for the chapter. Headquarters of the bankers association, also on the third floor of the Becker Building, will remain in that location.

In spite of the general tuition charges inaugurated by the chapter last year, it has had a successful administrative year, according to Mr. Perley. On June 1, 1930, the chapter's balance was but $81.86, and it was obliged to secure a loan of $1,000 from the association. This loan and all other chapter debts have been paid in full, and on June [illegible]31, the chapter had a cash balance to [illegible] $1,567.37.

Exchange Seat Higher.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—The value of New York Stock Exchange memberships followed the pace set by share prices today and advanced $25,000. Arrangements were made for the sale of a seat at $225,000, compared with the previous sale of $200,000.

U. S. Lines Omit Dividend.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—Directors of United States Lines, Inc., have omitted the semiannual dividend of 50 cents a share on the preferred stock, due at this time.

New York's Savings Banks Cut Interest

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—The Bowery Savings Bank, the Dry Dock Savings Institution, the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank and the Union Dime Savings Bank, four of the largest institutions of their kind in this city, announced in a joint statement today that interest paid on deposits, beginning July 1 would be credited at the rate of 3½ per cent a year. The rate for the quarter ended June 30 will be 4 per cent. The aggregate of this interest will exceed $11,000,000.

The reduction was made because of the steadily decreasing yield on high-grade investments, the statement said, and it mentioned the 3½ per cent interest paid on the recently floated bonds of the United States Government as an example.

Sale of Lackawanna Common Is Reported

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—Dow, Jones & Co. says it is learned that the New York Central Railroad has acquired 54,100 additional shares of Delaware, Lackawanna & Western common stock, bringing its holdings to 131,325 shares.

Stock purchased last year cost $5,337,297, or an average price of $98.66 a share. The aggregate holdings of the New York Central cost $16,131,447, or an average of $122.23. Under the four-system Eastern Trunk Line plan outlined by Eastern railroad executives to the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Lackawanna is allocated to the New York Central.

Berlin Ships America $14,600,000 in Gold

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—The German Reichsbank is shipping $14,600,000 in gold on the liner New York to retsore depleted gold stocks in New York. The metal is scheduled to arrive Friday.

The consignment is coming to the Federal Reserve Bank either direct or through the channels of one of the three principal commercial banks, Chase National, Guaranty Trust and National City, with which the Reichsbank has correspondent relations. The $14,600,000 left Hamburg before news of President Hoover's debt proposal had become public.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—An active, general demand stimulated by the proposal for a war debt holiday resulted in an advance of approximately $3.50 per bale in cotton today.

October contracts sold up to 10.03 on a final spurt of covering and rebuying in the late trading and closed at 9.98, with the general market closing firm at net advances of 67 to 71 points.

The opening was firm, 48 to 53 points higher on the Washington news, reports of an excited advance in markets abroad and heavy general buying. The initial bulge attracted a good deal of realizing by recent buyers and there seemed to be considerable Southern selling, while the demand tapered off somewhat after the first rush of buying orders had been supplied. Reactions of about 20 to 27 points followed during the middle of the morning, but they brought in increased trade and commission house buying.

This checked the decline and turned the market upward again during the afternoon when the continued strength of the stock market seemed to be impressing cotton traders, with the importance in the proposed move in the matter of international finances, and the buying became particularly active in the late trading when it was said to be coming from local, Western and Southern sources. Houses with foreign connections were among the buyers here today, and some of the early sellers seemed to be covering or rebuying in the late trading. July sold up to 9.62 and December to 10.25, making net advances of about 70 to 73 points on the active months and the close was within a few points of the best.

Liverpool cables attributed the advance in that market to extensive covering and world-wide buying on the proposed moratorium in reparation payments. Egyptian cotton futures in Alexandria were 66 to 169 points net higher and the continental markets also showed sharp advances, which naturally contributed to the strength locally.

The increased activity and strength in the stock market encouraged the bullish view of the Washington news, and while the weather reported over the week-end was considered favorable for the most part, there was talk of need of rains in some sections. Exports today, 6,665, making 6,562,794 so far this season. Port receipts, 3,209. United States port stocks, 3,087,801.

YEARS OF GRACE - - - -

By Margaret Ayer Barnes

SYNOPSIS.

Jane talks with Cicily, but finds her unmoved in her determination to divorce Jack and marry Albert. Divorce is like an operation that must be performed and you can't take either, she says. Belle does not really love Albert, she merely wants to hold him because there is no one else. Jack has moved to the club, and Cicily is sailing for Paris. Jenny accepts the situation calmly, and urges her parents to do likewise. There is nothing else to be done about it. Three months later Jane and Stephen find themselves on the way to Paris to attend Cicily's wedding to Albert Lancaster.

CICILY, JENNY AND STEVE.

CHAPTER XII.

PARIS, thought Jane—the city of joy! She glanced across the railway carriage at Stephen's face. It looked rather grim. Stephen was rested, however. The six days at sea had been good for him. Stephen was a sailor and, in spite of parental anxieties, he had responded immediately to the tang of the briny breeze and the roll of the deep-sea swell.

The train was pulling slowly into the Gare Saint-Lazare. A group of porters were assailing the door of the carriage. The air rang with their staccato utterance. Jane caught a whiff of garlic and was suddenly exalted with a feeling of adventure.

Ten days in Paris! She was smiling a little excitedly, when she first caught sight of Cicily—Cicily standing with the three children and Molly at the gate of the train.

"Look at Robin Redbreast!" she cried gaily to Stephen. "Isn't he huge?"

Shocked at Seeing Albert.

It was then that she saw Albert. She suffered a quick sense of shock. Why hadn't she expected to see him? Of course he would be there. Nevertheless, his presence seemed vaguely indecent in that little family gathering. The pleasant, snub-nosed, twinkle-eyed ghost of Jack loomed at his side. He lifted Robin Redbreast to his shoulder. They were all laughing and waving. Cicily looked radiant. The twins dashed into Jane's arms.

"Mumsy!" cried Cicily. She kissed Jane warmly. Then turned to greet her father. Albert thrust Robin Redbreast into Jane's embrace. Over the child's yellow head, surprisingly, he kissed her.

"Aunt Jane," he was saying affectionately, "it was great of you to come!"

Cicily's arm was thrust through Stephen's. She was talking excitedly as she led him through the crowded concourse.

"I reserved your rooms at the Chatham. Why do you go there? Aunt Muriel's at the Ritz. I wish I had a room for you in my flat, but it's perfectly tiny. Molly hates it. Just one bathroom and we froze all winter. But it's sweet now. You can sit on the balcony and see the Arc de Triomphe."

Albert was hailing two taxis.

"I suppose you want to go straight to the hotel, sir, and rest," he was saying. "Did you have a smooth passage? We're going to have a gay week."

"Cousin Flora's simply wild to see you, Mumsy," interrupted Cicily. "She's been awfully nice to me. She knows the smartest people—real frogs, you know—and she asked me to all her parties. I've simply got so much to say to you, darlings, that I don't know where to begin. We're going to be married in Cousin Flora's apartment. Just the families, you know. I know you'll like my dress, Mumsy. I won't let Albert see it——"

This was another conspiracy, thought Jane, as she climbed into the waiting taxi. A conspiracy, this time, not of silence, but of chatter. A friendly conspiracy to keep two foolish old people from worrying over something that they could not control. A conspiracy to prove that this was a very usual situation, a very gay situation, a very happy situation—a situation that called for frivolity and celebration. A party, in fact. A purely social occasion.

But did not Cicily, Jane wondered, as their taxi dodged and tooted through chaotic traffic of the old gray streets, did not Cicily, beneath the gay garrulity of her light and laughing chatter, feel at all disturbed by her equivocal position as Albert's fiancee and Jack wife? Jane, herself, felt profoundly disturbed by it. Belle's divorce had been granted in Reno the end of March. Albert had been—could you call him a bachelor?—for three months. Yet Jane could not really consider the engagement as a fait accompli until next Wednesday morning, when Cicily's decree would be made final and Cicily, herself, would be—hateful word—free. She would be married three days later in Flora's apartment. But not until Wednesday noon, Jane told herself, firmly, would she recognize the engagement. If she did not recognize it, however, what was Albert's status in the crowded little taxi? It was terribly complicated. It was terribly sordid. Glancing from Cicily's bright, smiling countenance to Stephen's grim, constrained one, Jane could not agree with Albert's initial statement. They would not have a gay week.

Jane "Incredibly the Same."

Jane and Flora were sitting side by side on the empire sofa of Jane's little green sitting room in the Chatham Hotel. The sitting room was rather small and rather over upholstered. It was extremely empire and extremely green.

It was 10 o'clock in the morning and Flora had just come in. She had brought a big box of roses and she was terribly glad to see Jane. Stephen was downstairs in the dining room eating what he termed "a Christian breakfast." Jane's tray of coffee and rolls and honey was still on the sitting room table.

"Jane," said Flora, "you're incredibly the same."

"Am I?" said Jane a little wistfully. She had not seen Flora for nine years. Flora, she thought, looked subtly subdued and sophisticated. Silver-haired and slender in her gray French frock, she no longer suggested anything as bright and gay and concrete as a Dresden china shepherdess.

"Of course, I don't mean you look the same, Jane," she continued honestly. "But you look as if you were the same! And that's even nicer."

Must Be Proud of Cicily.

"We're all the same," said Jane stoutly. "That's one of the things you learn by growing old. Nobody ever changes."

"Children do," smiled Flora. "I was surprised at Cicily. She was a pretty child, but she's grown up into much more than that. You must be very proud of her."

"Well, Flora," said Jane slowly, "I can't say that I am."

"Jane," she said gently, "the war changed everything. Even over here, it's all quite different. People don't act as they used to do—they don't think as they used to do. Cicily's a sweet child. It was a pleasure to have her here in Paris. She has lived so discreetly and charmingly in that little flat up near the Etoile—every one likes her—her children are adorable and Albert's a delightful young man. I think they'll be very happy."

"They don't deserve to be very happy," said Jane.

"But you want them to be," said Flora brightly. Flora seemed almost a member of the friendly conspiracy. "And speaking of happiness," she went on gaily, "isn't Muriel funny with Ed Brown? She's a perfect wife."

Jane No Gossip, Flora Complains.

"Well, Jane!" laughed Flora. "I think that statement's a trifle exaggerated. He's really awful—pretty awful, I mean. He's been in Paris three weeks and he hasn't talked of anything but prohibition. With disfavour, my dear—don't misunderstand me!—with distinct disfavour! But he makes Muriel sublimely happy!" She paused to twinkle, brightly, for a moment at Jane's noncommittal countenance. "Jane," she said, "you're no gossip. You never were. You're holding out on me. I wish Isabel were here."

"Well, I don't," said Jane, with emphasis.

Flora stopped in confusion. "No I suppose you don't," she said. "It—it must have been terrible, Jane. All in the family, I mean."

"It was terrible," said Jane.

"Muriel's very happy about it. She loves Cicily."

"Muriel," said Jane deliberately, "has no moral sense. She never did. She's always been frivolous about falling in love. About any one's falling in love——"

"Jane," said Flora suddenly, "Andre Duroy's not in Paris."

The simple statement fell in a little pool of silence.

"Oh," said Jane, after a moment. "Well, I thought perhaps he wouldn't be." She tried to make her voice sound very casual. "People aren't in cities much, you know, in the month of July. I thought he'd be off with his wife in the country."

"He's not with his wife," said Flora meaningly. "His wife's at Cowes. She has a lot of English friends, you know." Flora's voice had lost nothing of its meaning.

"Yes, I know," said Jane hastily. Letters were one thing, she thought, and talk was another. Jane did not want to sit gossiping with Flora about Andre's wife. It seemed vaguely indecent. But it did not take two to make a gossip.

"She has their boy with her. She's very discreet. He's a nice child. 13 years old and he looks just like Andre. Andre's in the French Alps, I think. He has a studio up there somewhere. I sent him a letter."

"You sent him a letter?" said Jane.

"Yes. To say you were coming. I asked him to the wedding."

"Oh—he won't come down for it," said Jane defensively.

Andre Quite Fell for Cicily.

She was conscious of wishing, rather wildly, that Flora had not written. He would not come, of course. And yet—and yet—Jane felt curiously hurt, in advance, to know he was not coming. It would have been much nicer if Andre had never known that she was in Paris. If Andre had not had forced on him that faintly ungracious gesture of declining to cross France to see the girl who—ridiculously, Jane was thinking of that letter he had written her when he had received the Prix de Rome. Of how she had read it in her little room on Pine street, at the window that overlooked the willow tree. If Andre had not written that letter, she might not have married Stephen. What nonsense! Of course she would have married Stephen. On what other basis than that of marriage with Stephen were the last thirty years imaginable?

"I think he will," said Flora. "He quite fell for Cicily——"

NEW PACKARD CARS

New in design · New in performance · New in luxury

The new Continental models of the Packard Eight are now on display at our showrooms. You are cordially invited to examine them.

Old only in distinguished name, in adherence to the simplest principles of motor design, and in refusal to give up the characteristic beauty of line that has long spelled "Packard", the new Packards are new in everything else. Longer in wheelbase, wider in tread and with new frames! Such foundation changes make newness a necessity throughout.

Bodies have been redesigned for greater beauty, strength and luxury. They are now most thoroughly insulated against heat, cold and noise. Freshly upholstered and trimmed, with new pillow-top cushions, their interior loveliness will appeal to all.

The new Vee radiator provides an identifying mark of smartness. The new bonnet houses a more powerful motor, floated in rubber, and one that only purrs in its quietness. Out of the richest experience in the industry, Packard continues to present the simplicity and economy of eight-in-line design and in doing this challenges any other type on any score.

Outstanding among the many new features is Ride Control—shock absorbers adjustable from the dash to meet any road, speed, load or temperature condition. Now, instantly, you can have just the kind of ride you like best. At last, true luxury in motoring! Ride Control, the newest and most appreciated thing in motoring, is to be had only in Packard cars.

You will appreciate the four-speed synchro-mesh transmission as Packard builds it. You will marvel at the action of the Stabilizers built into the bumpers of the larger cars. You will enjoy, and we mean this most literally, the exploration of the new Packard for its many new features.

Again, come and see the new cars. Ride in them and drive them yourself and then compare them with all other cars. In spending your motoring dollar when dollars mean more, why not have the car of tomorrow instead of any car of yesterday?

Next Monday night, June 29th, Packard will present for the first time on the air GERALDINE FARRAR, famous Metropolitan soprano, beginning a series of Monday evening radio recitals in honor of its new cars.

The Packard Eight is offered in thirteen beautiful body styles — the Packard Eight DeLuxe in twelve. Prices at the factory range from $2485 for the Packard Eight Five-Passenger Sedan to $4550 for the Packard Eight DeLuxe Convertible Sedan for five.

STOCK PRICES CLIMB ON WORLD OUTLOOK

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—The world's financial markets lost no time today in expressing approval of President Hoover's plan for relieving an admittedly tense situation in Germany through a moratorium on reparations and war debts.

Security and commodity prices rallied strenuously, not only in this country, but also on the leading exchanges of Europe, which evidently felt that a heavy burden would be removed by international acceptance of Mr. Hoover's proposal. On the stock exchange here the upturn was not so large on the average as last Saturday's—4.7 points against 6.3 points—but the 4,600,000-share volume clearly defined Wall street's appraisal of the situation.

Cotton was the strongest staple, closing $3.35 to $3.55 a bale higher. Wheat, with the exception of June, gained 2 cents a bushel, and corn about half as much. Rumors of a bullish Farm Board statement helped the former grain, but there also was a large decrease in the visible supply.

Stock Market Engrossed.

The stock market, however, was so engrossed with its own affairs that it had little time to give to matters in other speculative fields. President Hoover's announcement late Saturday, although foreshadowed by his earlier statements, came as a surprise and shorts who had thought the market would be a good sale this morning were badly fooled. The opening was very strong, for the gains ran up to 15 points and the blocks up to 20,000 shares. During the first half hour 1,000,000 shares changed hands. There had been similar turnovers in recent months, but all on the downside, so the emphatic demonstration of strength was something of an innovation.

Inevitable profit-taking appeared after the first flush of the rise had dimmed, and spells of realizing were scattered throughout the day, especially at the close. But the market was not to be denied a robust rise and the range of net gains was 1 to 9 points.

Group strength was pronounced in the nonferrous metals. Although copper prices were unchanged, foreign buying was aggressive and the prospect that business from abroad might improve sent these stocks sharply upward, with advances of 1 to 8 points. Another stock affected by the harried outlook was International Telephone. However, the utilities generally were buoyant, American Telephone rising 6⅝ points and finishing only a point off the top.

Steel Climbs Higher.

U. S. Steel was the star of the industrial division. It forged ahead to 99½, where it, too, was up 6⅜, closing at 98¼ for a gain of 5¾. American Can, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, General Motors and Radio rose 2 to 3 points. General Electric was something of a laggard.

Rails were strong, with the exception of New Haven. Union Pacific's net advance of 7⅞ was the largest of the group. Auburn's extreme rise of 15 was cut to 9. Du Pont and Case jumped 6.

Strength in German bonds and the mark was a natural development, but all foreign currencies and the investment market generally participated in the revolt from gloomy influences. The mark was up 2 points, almost reaching par, while sterling cables touched a new high for the year. A large gold shipment is now on the way to New York from Germany, but further exportation will be unnecessary if the exchange maintains its present level.

Income Losses Ignored.

Wall street ignored the prospect of the losses accruing to this country's income through a moratorium on foreign debt payments, apparently believing that better export markets would compensate. It was emphasized in banking circles that the important point, at this stage of the negotiations, at least, was the restoration of confidence.

Coming so closely after the railroad's move for higher freight rates, the events of the past week-end turned the tables abruptly against the bears, who, nevertheless, still take comfort in the heavy trend of trade and the poor earnings to be shown by corporations for the second quarter.

A 2-cent rise in bar silver here was an outstanding change among the commodities. There is a growing belief that the basic staples have seen the worst, and silver would be among the first to profit by an improvement in trade.

BOND PRICES STAGE GENERAL ADVANCES

Trading Is Most Active Since June 2; Foreign Issues Show Wide Gains.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—The bond market staged a general advance today in the most active trading since June 2. Sales totaled $12,368,000, compared with $14,103,000 twenty days ago, when selling pressure was severe and a large number of issues reached their lowest prices this year.

The advance, which was regarded as part of the response to the plan of President Hoover for a one-year moratorium on intergovernmental debts, appeared first in German obligations, but it soon spread to other groups. The plan does not involve foreign government debts owed to private investors.

Foreign issues scored the widest gains and the advance in them was almost universal. Some of the most conspicuous advances were made by German 5½s of 1965 and 7s of 1949 and the several issues of the German Central Agricultural Bank, Argentina, Chile, Berlin City Electric, Republic of Chile, Chile Mortgage Bank and the State of Sao Paulo. Net gains of 1 to 5 points were common in this group. Hansa Steamship 6s and Harpen Mining 6s advanced much more. French issues held steady.

United States Government obligations receded generally, although trading in them was of moderate proportions. About a month ago many of these issues sold at the highest prices on record for all time. The decline today was regarded as an anticipation of furthern Government financing to offset the postponement of receipts under the several debt settlement agreements with the various foreign countries.

The advance in domestic corporate loans was general, but, of course, not so spectacular as in the foreign group. Stock privilege obligations made the largest gains in sympathy with the strength in the corresponding stocks. American Telephone 4½s of 1939, International Telephone 4½s of 1939, Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s and Allegheny 5s of 1949 each jumped 1 point or more.

IDLE NATS GAIN HALF GAME AS MACKS LOSE TO CHISOX; COCHET BOWS TO OBSCURE BRITON IN WIMBLEDON UPSET

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 22.—The Nats spent a profitable day here today, not moving a muscle while picking up a half game on the Athletics, who were handed one of their rare defeats by the White Sox of Chicago. The final game of the current series scheduled by the Indians was postponed with alacrity by the Cleveland Club following an intimation of rain.

The Indians had as their only available pitcher Clint Brown, whom the Nats have pounded everlastingly this season, and Manager Peckinpaugh was anxious to conserve his staff for the double-header here against the Red Sox tomorrow. Thus the day's developments reduced the lead of the Mackmen to 3½ games.

Like some of the postponements which have been made in Philadelphia and Boston, the excuse for not playing today is not known. There was a slight drizzle early this morning and another one about 2 o'clock, but the sun was shining when the Nats, dressed for the game, were told that there would not be any, and as they left the park to return to their hotel the Indians were on the field taking a practice, which was not interrupted by weather or anything else until dark.

Trick Postponement Irks Nats.

Manager Walter Johnson and his charges were disappointed at not being able to play, seeing a sure victory lost by the Cleveland officials' decision. Calling off games on imaginary excuses of this kind should not be tolerated by the American League head. It is getting to be a habit all around the circuit except in Washington, and if President Harridge wants to do a good thing for baseball he will take the authority for making decisions of this kind out of the hands of the magnates and let the umpires decide. As the rule is now written, the arbiters have nothing to say until after play starts.

Johnson and his charges entrained for Detroit early this evening and will arrive there in time to get a good night's sleep for their double-header tomorrow, which opens a three-day stand in the Ford city. Bobby Burke, who was to have pitched this afternoon, will draw the assignment in one of tomorrow's contests, with Fred Marberry getting the call in the other.

Much interest will be attached to Marberry's assignment, as he has not started a game since May 23, when he was injured in a fracas with the Yankees in New York. He has filled several relief roles with good success, though, and declares that he is now ready to go the route. There is no telling whom Pilot Bucky Harris will use on the hill.

Defeats at Cleveland Set Back Nats.

All series are important to the Nationals these days. Their two losses here set them back just about all that they gained on the league leaders during the last brilliant home stand, but they see a chance of making up some lost ground if they go well in Detroit, because the Mackmen will be playing five games in three days in St. Louis, with double-headers listed tomorrow and Thursday.

Much has been written about the Athletics' "three-man" staff. Except for three games, none of Mack's pitchers, except Grove, Walberg and Earnshaw, have gone the route and it is a certainty that this "big three" can not do the double duty for which the set with the St. Louis series calls.

The Nationals have done as well as could be expected of any team in winning 18 of their last 23 starts and Held to Six Hits by Frazier as Sox Triumph, 8-2.

CHICAGO, June 22 (A.P.).—Vic Frasier, Chicago recruit right-hander, held the Athletics to six hits today, and his double in the fourth with the bases full, accounted for the winning runs in an 8-to-2 White Sox victory. It was the Sox' second victory in eleven starts against the world champions this season.

Bill Shores, trying for his first victory of the year, was blasted for five runs in the fourth, and Lee Roy Mahaffey gave up three more in the seventh. Eddie Rommel finished for the A's.

Detroit, June 22 (A.P.).—Boston defeated Detroit, 7-2, today in the series final and regained its position at the head of the second division as a result.

MacFayden was found for twelve hits. The Tigers could not puncture them to a scoring advantage except in the seventh inning when they combined two singles and a walk for a run and in the ninth when three singles brought another run.

Bridges, who started for Detroit, was found for eleven hits. Sullivan finished the game on the hill for Detroit and allowed two hits, which in the ninth went for two runs.

Slattery Accepts Terms For Rosenbloom Bout

The bout is scheduled for Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, August 12.

By EDWARD J. NEIL

GEUGA LAKE, Ohio, June 22 (A.P.).—Resting from his labors, needing only enough ring work to put the final edge to almost perfect condition, Bill Stribling golfed today, betook himself to the horse park at Bainbridge, and finished the day $2 richer through acquaintance with a fairly good galloper in the fourth race.

Although the pride of Georgia still has a lengthy wait before the opening gong gives him a chance to win the world's heavyweight championship from Max Schmeling in the new Cleveland municipal stadium the night of July 3, his chief problem now is to avoid overtraining. His weight is down to 188 pounds, the fighting notch for the knockout conqueror of Otto von Porat and Phil Scott, and his chief worry is fear of going stale.

Keynote of Strib's Golfing Is "Hurry."

Stribling golfs as he whipped Von Porat and Scott—in a hurry—and he shoots consistently in the low nineties. He rates the game second to flying among his diversions, but in another day or two, so close is the Georgian to peak condition, that his golf clubs will be locked up in the Stribling barn with a new motorcycle he hasn't yet been permitted to ride. A ban was placed on his airplanes as soon as he signed for the fifteen-round title go with the Teuton champion.

There are no restrictions on his attendance at Bainbridge Park, a tiny race track only a few hundred yards from the miniature Coney Island, 27 miles from Cleveland, where the Stribling training quarters have been set up. He has a private box there, the best "information" available at the track, and the winners keep popping down for him.

Bill Has 3 More Camp Bouts.

Stribling has only three more boxing drills scheduled before moving into Cleveland for the big battle. He will box Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday nights of this week and then hang up the 18-ounce training mittens. In his workout last night Stribling scored his first knockout of camp campaign, finishing Frank Kitts, an Akron heavyweight, with a single left hook to the stomach.

Newark, N. J., June 22 (U.P.).—Jack (Kid) Berg, of England, scored an eight-round technical knockout over Tony Lambert, of Newark, in the scheduled ten-round feature bout here tonight.

Clever, These Anzacs; Hole in One Is Halved

London, June 22 (A.P.).—In the deluge of debt discussions, politics and what not, the following golf story found its way through via Reuters, from Brokenhill, Australia.

It seems there were two Australians playing over the Brokenhill course.

At the short seventeenth, the first golfer holed his tee shot. He was jubilant.

"Here's one for a half," said golfer number two as he teed up and swung. His ball landed on the green and trickled in.

Browns Slug Ruffing To Beat Yanks, 14-10

St. Louis, June 22 (A.P.).—Jumping on Charlie Ruffing in the seventh inning for five hits and as many runs, the Browns came from behind today to hand the New York Yankees their third straight defeat, 14 to 10, in a three-hour struggle. The victory gave the Browns the edge on the five-game series.

Ruffing was only one of five Yankee hurlers who passed in review during the afternoon, and four worked for the winners. Kimsey, who held the Yanks runless for the last three innings, received credit for the victory.

By CHARLES DUNKLEY.

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., June 22 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, world's heavyweight champion, lean, brown and in perfect condition, spent today away from the boxing gloves and on the golf links while resting up preparatory to starting his final training drive tomorrow for his fight with Young Stribling at Cleveland a week from Friday night.

The champion played 36 holes of golf, 18 in the morning and 18 in the late afternoon, with Trainer Max Machon. His scores were good and he was in a merry mood as he whacked at the golf balls on this cool, breezy day. If he has any worries about the outcome of the contest in which he defends his title it was evident at no time. He is one champion with supreme confidence in himself and is not a worrier, which is a wonderful asset.

Scheduled to Box Today, Tomorrow.

Schmeling is scheduled to box tomorrow with his sparring partners and again on Wednesday. He will take to the golf course on Thursday and spar again Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Just what he will do in the way of boxing after Sunday Manager Joe Jacobs has not announced. With next Saturday and Sunday his last week-end in camp before the battle all training camp attendance records may be broken.

Schmeling, who weighs close to 190 right now and expects to fight at 189, is being carefully trained to guard against overwork and the resultant staleness. Critics at this camp say they never have seen a better-conditioned heavyweight champion, and realize that he will be still better the night of the fight because he will not reach the razor edge of fight shape until it is time to fight.

Champion Perfecting Right Uppercut.

While answering a barrage of questions today as to what sort of punches Schmeling expected to use with the best effect on Stribling, Manager Jacobs admitted the champion had been perfecting an inside right uppercut to use at close quarters or when Stribling elects to carry the fight to Max.

"Schmeling's straight right hand already has won praise," said Jacobs. "Wait until he displays his right uppercut, and his left hook will be dynamite, too. Schmeling will take plenty of fight goods into that battle with him and a heart just as courageous as Jack Dempsey."

Schmeling does not golf in the morning of any day he boxes. He will rest tomorrow morning, box in the afternoon and then play some golf later on.

Wladek Zybszko Freed On Charge of Assault

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—Wladek Zbyszko, a wrestler, who saved a pedestrian from a beating by a taxi driver, was freed of a charge of assault today. The driver, Samuel Kleinberg, narrowly missed Simon Ottinger as he was walking along the street with his wife Sunday. The driver said Ottinger threw a cigar at his face when he berated him for his carelessness. The driver left his machine and, Ottinger said, started beating him.

Zbyszko, driving by at the time, narrowly missed colliding with Kleinberg's unattended taxicab. He got out and hurled the taximan to the street.

Two G. U. Netmen Survive 1st Day of College Tourney

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 22 (A.P.). Although rain halted play in the forty-sixth annual national intercollegiate tennis championships, which started today, all of the first round and 25 second-round matches were completed.

Eighty-five youths, gathered from Pacific Coast, Southwest, South and East, began play in the competition that saw no startling upsets.

Rain prevented Wilbur F. (Junior) Coen, Kansas University, seeded No. 4; Keith Gledhill, Stanford, seeded No. 3, and Teddy Burwell, of the University of the South, seeded No. 7, from playing. Their matches were scheduled for late in the day.

Bryan Grant, jr., of the University of North Carolina, top seeded player in the tournament, won two matches to enter the third round. Wilmer Hines, of the University of North Carolina, seeded No. 8, and R. W. Ryan, of Yale, Eastern indoor intercollegiate champion, seeded tenth, breezed through two matches to land in the third round.

Edward Jacobs, of Pittsburgh, second choice in the seeding, easily defeated Joseph Case, of the University of Pennsylvania, in a second-round match, 6—2, 6—1, to gain his third-round bracket.

Lucien Lacoste, of the University of Texas, displayed considerable courage when he defeated Alexander "Sandy" Weiner, the Yale half back, 3—6, 6—0, 9—7, after his opponent had arrived at match point on two occasions.

Huttick Beats Denning in Fort Bout

Special to The Washington Post.

FORT WASHINGTON, Md., June 22.—Old Jupiter Pluvius, conscience stricken by his work of last Monday night, when he put a quietus on Frankie Mann's proposed fight night here, favored the vicinity with an absence of his presence tonight as 3,000 fans gathered around the ring to watch a card of four stiff fight exhibitions, in which gore was the predominatng motf.

The cleanest bout of the evenng, and the one out of which both principals came the most fitted to resume their everyday life, was the main event, in which Art Huttick, New York heavy, won a ten-round decision over Jack Denning, All-Navy lightweight champion.

Huttick, outweighing his man 181 to 175, gained the edge in the last five rounds of the bout, after permitting Denning to spend his strength in the opening five through his whirlwind glove attack. At the start of the sixth there existed no doubt in the minds of the ringworms as to the eventual winner.

Huttick Lacks Punch.

Huttick set out after his badly tiring opponent, and while he lacked even the semblance of a k. o. punch, won handily. The fans were not too receptive to the affair. Huttick appeared far heavier than his announced weight, or Denning far lighter.

Eddie Buell, of Washington, was the victim of what the judges termed a technical knockout at the hands of Sailor Landers, Norfolk bantamweight, when Maj. W. H. Lloyd, post surgeon, advised that the bout be stopped after examining Buell's shoulder at the conclusion of the fifth round. Landers was the best man in the ring from the start. He opened a cut over Buell's eye in the second and carried the fight throughout.

The main preliminary saw George Goldsby, Third Corps Area welterweight, score a technical knockout over Harry Green, Fort Washington. Goldsby jumped from his corner at the bell and began a pummeling which found Green an easy terminal for his blows. Green's face was badly cut in the first and the vulnerable spots reopened in the second.

Loretta Turbull Tells Of Speedboat Accident

Auburn, N. Y., June 22 (A.P.).—Loretta Turnbull, young California outboard motorboat racer, told from a hospital bed today just how close she came to her death in the Skaneateles Lake races Friday when she tried to take a turn "wide open" while trying to hold a slender lead.

Observers who saw her boat somersault realized that several of the boats flashing in her wake just missed her as she bobbed to the surface. They did not know she had weighed her life preserver with extra spark plugs and would have drowned if a motor boat had not reached her almost immediately.

Will she be more careful the next time? Well, "one can't win races by being careful." Oh yes, she will race again.

France's Ace Routed by Smith

By FRANK H. KING.

LONDON, June 22 (A.P.).—Great Britain's lawn tennis classic, the Wimbledon championships, began today with young Frank Shields, of New York, looming as a likely follower in the path of Big Bill Tilden and other famous American players.

In a day of play which shaw Henri Cochet lose to Nigel Sharpe, a little known Englishman, and Jean Borotra winning from another little known Britisher, A. J. Smith, only after a bitter four-set struggle, Shields stood out with his whirlwind victory over Dr. P. D. B. Spence, veteran South African campaigner.

Less than an hour after hitting his first shot on the famous center court, where the great names of tennis have paraded for so many years, Shields disposed of Spence, 6—1, 6—1, 6—2, and established himself firmly as a recognized star of Wimbledon.

Cochet Is Listless and Inaccurate.

The New York youngster headed a parade of the American Davis Cup team through the first round, Sidney B. Wood, jr., John Van Ryn and George Lott, jr., following their No. 1 star into the second day of play.

Cochet, listless and inaccurate with only two days of practice on turf and still suffering from his recent illness, fell before the uninspiring but steady backhand of Sharpe, whose errors were as few as the hairs on his head, and he hasn't many. Sharpe won, 6—1, 6—3, 6—2.

Only a little less surprising than Cochet's defeat was that suffered by Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., who fell before the smashing game of George Tyttleton Rogers, the giant Irishman. After winning nine straight games to start the match, Mangin wilted and surrendered, 0—6, 8—6, 6—3, 6—3. Rogers' game has brought down many famous players in years gone by and although his brilliancy is rarely sustained through a tournament, it was sufficient today to ruin the hopes of the young American free lance who came over with the avowed purpose of showing the American Davis Cup team selectors they erred in passing him up for the American team.

Wood, Lott, Van Ryn in Easy Victories.

The only other American casualty was Watson Washburn, former assistant attorney general of New York State and an internationalist of several years ago, who was defeated by the Austrian, F. W. Mateejka, 6—3, 6—2, 6—4.

Wood, Lott and Van Ryn had comparatively easy victories over minor opponents. Although the former University of Chicago player dropped one set to the Frenchman, B. Berthet, before he could get started, Wood and Van Ryn won in straight sets, the former defeating the Indian, R. Singh, 6—4, 6—3, 6—4, and Van Ryn winning from F. Schaeffer, of Czechoslovakia, 6—0, 6—2, 6—1. The scores of the Lott-Berthet match were 3—6, 6—3, 6—0, 6—2.

Borotra won from Smith only with difficulty, being carried to 8—6 in the first and third sets, but coming back after the intermission to run out the match at 6—1. Smith won the second set, 6—4.

Cochet was the only one of the seeded stars to fall, Christian Boussus, of France; Fred Perry and Bunny Austin, of Great Britain, and Jiro Satoh, of Japan, advancing with Borotra, Shields and Wood. Boussus, Perry, Austin and Satoh emulated the example of the two American youngsters and won in straight sets against minor opposition.

The pairings tomorrow send Austin against H. Satoh, of Japan; Perry against I. Aoki, of Japan; Boussus against H. S. L. Barclay, a Briton; Wood against A. C. Crossley, of Great Britain; Lott against Pierre Landry, France's seventh ranking star; Van Ryn against one of the younger French players, A. Merlin, and Shields against H. F. David, of Great Britain.

Play also begins tomorrow in the women's singles with Mrs. L. A. Harper, the national champion, and Miss Helen Jacobs upholding American honors and aspiring to the throne of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, who is not defending her Wimbledon title.

G. U. Golf Team Near Top As College Qualifying Opens

OLYMPIA FIELDS COUNTRY CLUB, Chicago, Ill., June 22 (A.P.).—Jack Reese, a slender son of Old Yale, and Randall Ahearn, a husky lad from Detroit City College, paced the best college golfers in the country through the first qualifying round of their thirty-fifth annual tournament today, each scoring 37—36—73, three strokes over par.

The field of 119 starters followed their sizzling example so well that the finalists of last year were in danger of not qualifying at the close of tomorrow's second round. George T. Duniap, jr., of Princeton, the defending champion, took 40—38—78, while Lawrence Moller, of Notre Dame, runner-up last year, had 38—42—80. Better golf probably will be required to reach match play Wednesday, for tonight there were 44 scores under 80.

Reese and Ahern were followed by Robert A. Moffett, of Princeton, a New York City youth, whose 74 was matched by Phillips Finlay, a lanky Californian representing Harvard, and James Reston, of Dayton, Ohio, public links champion of his State and captain-elect of the University of Illinois team.

Tied for sixth were Gail Stockton, of Southern California, and Milton Klein, of Chicago. They, Reston and Ahearn took a bit of the "big three" complexion off the meet, which has seldom been won by any one not from Harvard, Princeton or Yale, and which has never before been held west of the Alleghanies.

The big Eastern schools showed their all-around power, however, by leading half way through the race for the team championship. Yale's four lowest men had a total of 309 strokes, Princeton 310, Harvard 311, Tulane 312, Georgetown and Michigan 314, Notre Dame and Southern California 315, Ohio State 317, Northwestern 318 and Chicago and Illinois 319.

A host of good golfers were tied at 76, including Bill Nacios, of Penn State; Johnny Fiorio, of Ohio State; John D. St. Clair, of Williams; J. H. Gordon 3d, of Princeton; T. J. Aycock, jr., of Yale; Louis Fisher, of Georgetown, and John Falconer, of Southern Methodist.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE ballyhoo emanating from Cleveland anent the Schmeling-Stribling fight July 3 has been strangely devoid of the copyrighted sensations that Tex Rickard always was able to provide for his heavyweight extravaganzas.

Outside of a feeble effort of one indignant citizen to stop the fight by invoking the antiprize fighting code in Ohio, there has not been any of Rickard's pet litigation at law that threw the spotlight on the fact that a fight was ultimately going to result. Not a single drowning or capsized canoe rescue has interrupted the calm of the training camps. Even the ranks of the sparring partners are not suffering undue casualties. The "killer" instinct has been far underplayed in the reports of the correspondents. As yet not one "open letter" has passed between the principals. Golf has been the keynote of the training siege and golf is not calculated to arouse the paying public to the pitch where it will gobble up the $25 seats so necessary to the success of the affair.

Subject Matter Weak

The ballyhoo artists may be pardoned for their laxity in the light of their subject matter. Neither Schmeling nor Stribling is the answer to a press agent's prayer. There is much to live down in both cases.

Schmeling enjoys the distinction of defending the world's championship, but it is as dull a coronet as ever was pulled from the fistic grabbag, bearing the undeniable taint of a foul. The German was the recipient last summer of the only world heavyweight title passed on a foul when Jack Sharkey struck him low in the fourth round.

Sharkey's foul blow was a blessing to Schmeling from more than one angle. It not only served to crown the German with a dubious championship, but it served also to becloud the dull performance of Schmeling while he was in the ring with Sharkey.

Because the critics, the fight commission and the public were on the watch for a foul from the notoriously-low hitting Sharkey, the outcome of the fight occasioned rabid denunciation of the Boston sailor and in the investigations against Sharkey for fouling, the poor performance of Schmeling was overlqoked generally.

Pasted for 4 Rounds

But the fact remains that for four rounds, until he was fouled, Schmeling took as artistic and complete a pasting as any challenger of modern ring history ever received, with the exception of Firpo against Dempsey. Schmeling, hailed as the prototype of Jack Dempsey in the ring, resembled Dempsey in action in the same degree that a hot dog resembles the Graf Zeppelin. The facial resemblance was there, but that was all.

Schmeling was Sharkey's target from the outset, showing little if any offense of his own and with the ability only to lessen the force of Sharkey's punches by taking them in a crouching position that he adopted from the start. After the first few seconds of the battle he showed no inclination to mix it with the sailor. Carefully built up for this fight, Schmeling proved a general failure alarm.

Stribling No Bargain

Neither is Stribling any red-letter bargain for the press agents. He has outgrown the Georgia schoolboy soubriquet. His past record is nothing to send a publicity man into ecstacies. It is featured by the fact that in his every important engagement with the exception of his one-round knockout of Von Porat, Stribling has proven a disappointment by his disinclination to fight.

As King of the Canebrakes on his barnstorming tours, Stribling sported a knockout punch. But in the big arenas, with his fistic future at stake, the Georgian has the habit of crawling into his shell. Caution has been the keynote of his important fights and caution is not calculated to prove a magnet for the fans in championship numbers.

Olin Scores Knockout Over Dix Near Start

THIRD CAVALRY POLOISTS TRIUMPH IN TOURNAMENT DEBUT

Lieut. Noble Star of 10-6 Victory

3,000 See Engineers Outclassed by Fort Myer Riders.

War Blues to Battle 6th Field Artillery in Game Today.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

As was expected, Third Cavalry dominated the first day of play in the War Department Polo Association's annual invitation tournament. The Riders faced the more or less inexperienced Engineers from Fort Humphreys and triumphed, 10 to 6. The 3,000 or more spectators who witnessed the contest did not know, or care, that the Engineers were given a four-goal handicap as to the majority it was a stirring, flashing tilt between not only the well-mounted humans but also a contest of well-trained polo ponies.

In polo circles, little credit is given to the man who scores the goals, as it is considered a game of team work, but it can not be denied that Lieut. Noble did more than just convert goals. He was a tower of strength on the original attack. Incidentally, Lieut. Noble was assigned the difficult task of filling the stirrups of Lieut. MacKinney, who is not playing in the present tourney.

Cavalry Scores at Start.

Third Cavalry started with the opening chukker to show their supremacy. Two goals were scored in rapid-fire fashion, Lieut. Noble counted for both. Cavalry squad was displaying an unusual coordinating game that completely disorganized the floundering Humphreys' squad.

Undoubtedly yesterday's match was the best example of the old sport axiom that the best defense is a strong offense, as it was obvious that the entire Cavalry team passed, dribbled, and performed during the entire six chukkers while on the offensive.

Today the War Blues will meet the strong Sixth Field Artillery squad from Fort Hoyle, Md., in the second match of the tournament. Thursday, the second annual tourney for the Argentine Cup, presented by the Argentine Minister, will start. Drawings for the first round have not been made for this series.

Mike Payan Winner In Garden's Feature

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—Mike Payan, Indian welterweight from Arizona, easily outpointed Jackie Purvis, of Indianapolis, in the feature 6-round bout of Madison Square Garden's so-called "new talent" show tonight. Payan weighed 145 pounds; Purvis, 146½.

Payan, an excellent boxer, had Purvis bleeding badly from a deep cut over the right eye in the second round and opened up another cut on the mid-Westerner's right cheek bone in the fifth. There was no question about the decision for Payan led all the way.

Happy Atherton, veteran Indianapolis flyweight, outmauled Eli (Tiger) Smith, of Sheffield, Eng., in a listless six-rounder. Atherton was willing enough to make a fight of it but Smith, making his first start in New York, was content to tie his man up in the clinches and hold on grimly at every opportunity. Atherton opened up a deep cut on the bridge of Smith's nose in the final round. Atherton scaled 114½ pounds; Smith 115½.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Washington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

WASHINGTON PARK, Chicago, June 22.—Following the climax of the Washington Park meeting with the running of the $50,000 American Derby last Saturday, and which, incidentally, resulted in a battle of the East and West, the session opens up its final week of the current 30-day allotment.

Tomorrow's program features the Hubbard Woods Handicap, a test over the 6-furlong sprint distance, and brings together six of the leading speedsters quartered at the Homewood track. Despite the small field which will be sent after the $50,000 purse, the event should produce a spirited and thrilling finish.

The Davison entry of NO MORE and MAYA are selected to annex the feature. The former has raced consistently in recent efforts and his brilliant performance at this track, in which he lowered the 6-furlong track record, stamps the colt as a leading sprinter. DON LEON, carrying the R. W. Collins silks, second in his two previous starts, should force the pace. BROWN WISDOM has shown a return to his best form and will battle it out with the top ones.

In the sixth event, named the Cedar Lake, an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward, nine sterling milers will match strides for the $15,000 purse. H. M. Wolf's steady colt DARK SEA turned in a splendid effort in his last winning race and under the same conditions should score here. PIGEON HOLE displayed a high turn of speed in his first start since his Agua Caliente Handicap engagement, and with that as a conditioner the H. P. Headley 6-year-old should furnish the opposition. CON AMORE, in the Martin string, scored in her last at 6 furlongs, but may falter at the added distance. However, the daughter of High Cloud should last to save the show.

FIRST RACE—A limit field of twenty maiden juvenile fillies will face the starter in the 5 furlongs of the opening dash. The Audley Farm entry of FRENCH HONEY and TRIASSIC are favored to show the way to this group of nonwinners. The former displayed exceptional speed in her debut at Belmont Park, in which she raced greenly. With that effort as an educator, the Audley colorbearer figures to annex the purse. SALLY IRENE has raced consistently and rates the place call, with LOHI as the show prospect.

SECOND RACE — Another large group of 3-year-olds and upward platers will contest the six-furlong sprint of the second number. MARDIE, from the C. Stern string, weakened in his Chicago debut after setting the pace to the stretch. With slight improvement, the Stern 3-year-old should sprint to an easy victory. OPIOPIO disappointed in his recent effort and is capable of a better showing. The C. A. Hartwell racer is given the place call. COPPERFIELD showed plenty of speed in his first start to finish second to Panchio over a slow track and may save the show.

THIRD RACE—ANITA ORMONT, promising juvenile filly in the W. F. Axton's stable, appears best of the fourteen 2-year-olds entered in the five and a half furlong dash of the third heat. This speedy Ormont filly scored impressively in her last start and figures to repeat. SIBERIA has trained briskly in morning trials and should contest the purse. OH DAVE has shown speed on occasion and may get into the money.

FOURTH RACE—Seven 3-year-old milers are slated to match strides in the fourth event, under claiming conditions. ILIUM, from the W. J. Zeigler string, has shown improvement in recent efforts and is selected to gain the honors here. Chief opposition should be furnished by TRY IT. This Lowe gelding was weakly ridden recently but with better handling should fight it out with ILIUM. CAMP PRINCE is favored over the others for the short end of the purse.

SEVENTH RACE—In the final race of the day, eleven of the older platers will contest the issue over the mile and an eighth route. ZIDA turned in a sparkling race on Saturday and that effort repeated here would return the A. A. Baroni color-bearer a winner. PORT O'PLAY, from the R. C. Thatcher barn, will favor the route and should finish in the runner-up position. CHUM was beaten by PORT O'PLAY in their last meeting and should go as well here.

PHILS DOWN CARDS BY 7 TO 3

Elliott Holds Champions; Klein Slams 18th Homer.

PHILADELPHIA, June 22 (A.P.).—A six-run attack on Sylvester Johnson in the sixth and seventh innings gave the Phils a 7 to 3 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals today.

Jumbo Elliott, hurling his third game in five days, held the Cards well in hand. Whitney and Chuck Klein hit home runs. It was the latter's eighteenth of the year and came in the seventh inning and scored Brickell ahead of him.

Roettger, appearing in the Cardinal line-up for the first time, led the St. Louis attack with three hits.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—Manager Rogers Hornsby and his Chicago Cubs donned their slugging clothes today and made a wreck of the Giants, 11 to 4, in the opening game of their series at the Polo Grounds.

After piling up a sizable lead on Berly and Chaplin with a long-distance attack, the visitors put on the finishing touches with a six-run assault on young Harold Schumacher in the ninth. Hornsby and Hack Wilson hit their eleventh and ninth home runs, respectively, and Hensley capped the big ninth with a blow into the bleachers.

John McGraw, the Giants' veteran pilot, and his big catcher, Frank Hogan, were banished by Umpire Stark for arguing a called ball on Cuyler in the ninth.

Robins Beat Pirates, 3-2; Clark Bests Wood

Brooklyn, June 22 (A.P.).—Charley Wood, young Pittsburgh southpaw, made his first start in nearly two months today and went down to defeat only after a sterling ten-inning mound duel with Watson Clark, of the Robins. The score was 3 to 2.

Wood went into the last of the eighth leading, 2 to 1, but Grantham's fumble of Babe Herman's grounder, with two out, paved the way for the tying run. Herman stole second and scored on Bissonette's single.

Clark helped win his own game when he led off the tenth with a single. Fresco Thompson, who ran for him, stole third and raced in with the winning run on Herman's grounder to Grantham.

NATS FACE TIGERS IN DOUBLE-HEADER

it has been quite discouraging to them to see the Mackmen practically match them victory for victory. The dope indicates, though, that the leaders may be biting off more than they can chew in their coming assignment and may lose two, at least. This would be very nice, providing the Johnsons sweep the series or lose only one, but should the Tigers treat the Nats worse than this, it would be "just too bad."

Pitcher Sad Sam Jones, called home by the critical illness of his mother, did not rejoin the Nats here tonight as scheduled. He telephoned Manager Johnson this morning that his mother is near death and was given permission to remain at her bedside at Woodsfield, Ohio.

Comedians Aitrock and Schacht this morning signed to stage their comedy boxing act at the Stribling-Schmeling fight here on July 3, an open date on the Nats' schedule. They will leave St. Louis after the final game there on July 2, do their stuff here the following night, and then board a train which will get them to New York in time for the Independence Day double-header with the Yankees in the "Big Town."

HITZ' 76 TOPS FIELD IN CHEVY CHASE CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP

Fuller, Title Defender, Far Down List With 85 Card.

Mrs. Hoover Wins in Miniature Tourney at Indian Spring.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

FRED HITZ, son of Justice Hitz, yesterday led a field of twelve players in the annual club championship of the Chevy Chase Club, the largest field which has participated in this event for many years. Hitz, with a card of 38—38—76, was the only player to break 80 and is five strokes ahead of his nearest competitor, John Britton.

Hitz had a consistently good score, the only 6 on his card being his failure to reach the sixth green with his second shot, with six 5s, seven 4s and four 3s. He played the eighteen holes of the first round in the championship with few errors and with no especially lucky breaks.

Out..... 4 4 3 4 4 6 5 5 3—38
In ..... 3 4 5 3 4 5 4 5 5—38—76

C. Ashmead Fuller, who has won the club championship during the past two years in succession, was far down the line with a total of 85, with 46 for the first nine and 39 for the second.

Curiously enough, the short par 3 holes, which are easily negotiated by him, were his undoing, for he took a 6 on the fourth hole and another 6 on the tenth. With a 6 on the sixth and a 7 on the eighth, his score mounted beyond all reasonable bounds.

The cards with which the players finished were as follows, with three rounds of eighteen holes each yet to be played:

76, Fred Hitz; 81, John Britton; 82, Emmons S. Smith, jr.; 83, E. K. Less 3d; 84, R. P. Davidson; 85, C. Ashmead Fuller and Reeve Lewis, jr.; 88, G. Brown Miller, jr.; 89, A. A. Jones, jr.; 90, Gregory Prince. No cards, Richard D. Lunn and Frank P. Reeside.

In the miniature tournament of the course of the Indian Spring Club yesterday under the auspices of the Women's District Golf Association Mrs. Perry B. Hoover, of the home club, was the winner of the silver cup presented by Mrs. J. F. Gross, chairman of the Indian Spring women's golf committee. Mrs. Hoover defeated Mrs. H. A. Knox, Congressional, in the final round, 3 and 2.

In the qualification round which preceded the tournament four players, each with 31, led the field and were paired for match play in the first flight. The players and the results in each flight were as follows:

First flight—Mrs. W. E. Hall, Mrs. H. A. Knox, Mrs. P. B. Hoover, Mrs. Tom Moore. Winner, Mrs. Hoover; runner-up, Mrs. Knox; consolation, Mrs. Hall.

Second flight—Mrs. Frank Tomlinson, Miss Dorothy Hunter, Mrs. Robert Jones, Mrs. J. William Harvey, jr. Winner, Miss Hunter; runner-up, Mrs. Harvey; consolation, Mrs. Tomlinson.

Third flight—Mrs. Alleene Heap, Mrs. E. B. Wagner, Mrs. Sidney Straus, Mrs. J. R. DeFarges. Winner, Mrs. Wagner; runner-up, Mrs. DeFarges; consolation, Mrs. Heap.

Fourth flight—Mrs. J. F. Gross, Mrs. William S. Corby, Mrs. Jerome Meyer, Mrs. T. N. Beavers. Winner, Mrs. Meyer; runner-up, Mrs. Gross; consolation, Mrs. Beavers.

Sixth flight—Mrs. L. Hedrick, Mrs. R. A. Lacey, Mrs. R. C. Mitchell, Mrs. J. T. Powell. Winner, Mrs. Hedrick; runner-up, Mrs. Mitchell; consolation, Mrs. Powell.

Seventh flight—Mrs. F. J. Godfrey, Mrs. J. F. Dowdall, Mrs. A. M. Milton, Mrs. A. S. Gardiner. Winner, Mrs. Dowdall; runner-up, Mrs. Gardiner; consolation, Mrs. Milton.

Eighth flight—Miss Wilda Martin, Mrs. J. M. Shock, Mrs. Lewis Coxe, Mrs. J. M. Jester. Winner, Mrs. Shock; runner-up, Mrs. Coxe; consolation, Miss Martin.

Ninth flight—Mrs. N. B. Hird, Mrs. Leslie Prince, Mrs. B. D. Gamble, Mrs. F. J. Kennedy. Winner, Mrs. Hird; runner-up, Mrs. Gamble; consolation, Mrs. Kennedy.

Dr. John Dudley aced the boys at the Argyle Club last Sunday. Playing in a foursome with Jack Biggs, Jack Lynch and W. B. Robinson, Dr. Dudley piloted one of the new balls from tee to cup in a single swing and follow-through. The foursome was in rare form, accounting for five birdies and having a best ball of 65.

A quartet of Department of Justice officials played last week on the course of the Congressional Club. In the party were G. Aron Youngquist, Charles B. Rugg and Charles P. Sisson, all Assistant Attorneys General, and Sanford Bates, superintendent of prisons. Youngquist, who had driven into the trap guarding the green, played an explosion shot and the ball hit and killed a bird on the green. All the players walked over, tenderly picked up the body of the dead songster and carried it to the adjoining rough. They were about to hold funeral services when golfers on the ninth tee shouted "Fore!" in a most impatient manner and the ceremony was postponed.

At the Indian Spring Club last week Mrs. J. William Harvey, jr., with a card of 100—14—86, won the cup presented by Mrs. Alleene Heap. Mrs. J. F. Cross was runner-up with 102—12—90, and Mrs. Heap was third with 106—10—96.

Edgewood Far Ahead In Capital City Tennis

Edgewood drew a full eight matches away from the field in the race for the championship of the Capital City Tennis League yesterday when it turned in a 6—2 victory over Washington Grove, the losers being able to win but one match in singles and one in doubles.

The feature match of the day, between Bob Elliott and Barney Welsh, was interrupted when Welsh twisted an ankle when Elliott, of Edgewood, was leading, 6—2 and 7—7. The match will be finished upon Welsh's recovery.

In one of the best-played matches of the day, Gilbert Hunt, of Washington Grove, defeated Kay Blanchard, 3—6, 7—5, 6—4.

Singles—Elliott (E.) vs. Welsh, 6—2, 7—7 (unfinished); Deck (E.) defeated Perkins, 6—2, 6—2; Hunt (W. G.) defeated Blanchard, 3—6, 7—5, 6—4; Heiskell (E.) defeated DeLand, 6—0, 6—0; Grant (E.) defeated Mason, 2—6, 6—3, 6—0; Krause (E.) defeated Davies, 6—0, 6—.

Doubles—Elliott and Hermann (E.) defeated DeLand and Perkins, 6—4, 6—2; Haske and Hunt (W. G.) defeated Blanchard and Heiskell, 6—3, 6—0; Grant and Krause (E.) defeated Mason and Walker, 6—0, 6—1.

TREASURY'S TEAM NEAR NET TITLE

War Beaten in Thrilling Departmental League Match.

BY the split-hair margin of 15-13 in the third set of the fifth and deciding match, Treasury Department yesterday all but assured itself of the Department Tennis League championship when it turned back the challenge of War Department, defending champion, three matches to two.

Standing two matches all, after the sensational downfall of Clarence Charest and Jack Purinton, at the hands of Maj. J. H. Hills and Maj. Leland Hobbs, the decision hinged on the match in which Madison Coe and Walter Gardner, of Treasury, met Lieuts. Christenberry and Lowe. The first two sets were divided, Treasury winning the first at 6—4 and dropping the second, 7—5, after three match points.

Battle of Serves Waged.

The last set was a battle of serves, and was not completed until a quarter of 8. Coe and Gardner were never seriously behind in the set; on the other hand, holding an advantage because the rotation of service victories always placed them one game ahead, while the two officers only tied the score upon holding their own services. Lowe's finally was broken through, in the twenty-eighth game.

Majs. Hills and Hobbs won over Charest and Purinton, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3, in one of the best played matches of the day, while Lieuts. Newgarden and Morrell displayed a smashing net attack to dispose of Colin Stam and Bill Seidel, of Treasury, in another good match.

Past its most serious rival for Departmental League honors throughout the history of the league, Treasury now has only to meet Postoffice-Agriculture and Navy, two of the also rans of the circuit.

Hills and Hobbs (W.) defeated Charest and Purinton, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3; Newgarden and Morrell (W.) defeated Stam and Seidel, 6—4, 6—4; Clark and Polk (T.) defeated Crane and Moran, 6—3, 6—4; Thompson and Tracy (T.) defeated Coe and Gardner (T.), 6—3; Coe and Gardner (T.) defeated Christenberry and Lowe, 6—4, 5—7, 15—13.

Carnera Fails to Appear For Boston Fight Show

Primo Carnera failed to make his scheduled exhibition appearance against three towering Boston heavyweights and the Argonne A. A. management announced it would ask the boxing commission to put the Italian under suspension.

Sam Langford and Joe Walcott, Negro boxing stars of yesteryear, put on a slam-bang three-round exhibition.

Paddy Creedon, New York, had the better of Spec Friend, Ponca City, Okla., in a six rounder. In a four-round contest Eddie Fister, New Rochelle, N. W., outpointed Haywood Storey, Chicago.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 22.—Manager Ted Miller, of the Del Ray Athletic Club, announced today his nine would meet the Jefferson District Fire Department tossers next Sunday on Edward Duncan Field.

Art Ludlow, St. Mary's Celtics coach, is out of the game with a bruised foot. An X-ray of Ludlow's injury will be taken this week.

Sam De Vaughan's Cardinals will trek to Washington next Sunday to meet the Anacostia Eagles. The Breenmen will be after their sixth win.

W. A. Simms is captain of the Columbia Outcasts, a newly organized team here. They will play Saturday afternoon baseball.

U. S. GOLFERS FACE TEST AT SCIOTO

British Have Formidable Ryder Cup Team This Year.

By LOREN DISNEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, June 22 (A.P.).—There is going to be an international golf affair on the Scioto Country Club course at Columbus, Ohio, June 26-27, and merely because half of the contestants are Americans is no assurance that they're going to win.

There seems to be a common impression that when one speaks of the best in golf, American golfers and methods are meant. This impression doubtless has been created largely through the success representatives of Uncle Sam have had in the British open during the last decade.

Ten times in the last eleven years they have won the most important title of the country in which golf was full grown when here it was a game largely played by retired old men with a lot of leisure time.

But in this coming international series between the best pros of America and England for the Ryder Cup, the Americans have had no such success.

In fact, since the matches were informally started in 1921 in England, due to the presence of a large number of American pros there for the open tournament, the Americans have won just one of the four series that have been played. In two, America's best pros were literally overwhelmed.

All of which would indicate that the illusion of the superiority of American golf over that played in England was brought about through the individual brilliance of one or two strong fellows rather than through a nation-wide superexcellence.

Charles Whitcombe, captain of this year's British team, said shortly after this year's British open, which again fell to an American—Tommy Armour, the "Black Scot"—that the chief problem facing the British was that of losing a "feeling of inferiority" in regard to American golfers.

Just why his team should feel "inferior" is something of a mystery. It is made up largely of the players who trounced the Americans in the 1929 matches at Moortown, England. And, indeed, the personnel of the American team is formed in the main by the pros who dropped that last series of matches, 7 to 5.

Whitcombe, who defeated Johnny Farrell; George Duncan, who trounced Walter Hagen by the astounding count, 10 and 8, and Archie Compston, who licked Gene Sarazen, all will be back.

In fact, the only participants in that winning effort who won't appear this year are Henry Cotton, brilliant young pro who ran afoul of the rules governing the English team, and Aubrey Boomer, ruled ineligible due to a permanent residence in France.

It would seem that if the Americans want to return the cup put up by Samuel Ryder, British sportsman, to this country they had better depend more on getting off straight drives down those narrow fairways on the Scioto course than on any inherent "superiority" of their golf.

D. C. WOMEN IN STATE TENNIS

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 22.—A number of Washingtonians are participating in the Women's Maryland State tennis tournament which opened today at the Baltimore Country Club.

Three of the seeded tournament's players—Eleanor Cottman, Cecelia Reigel and Mrs. De Lloyd Thompson—breezed through their first round engagements.

Mrs. Thompson, the defending champion, won from Frances Walker, of Washington, 6—2, 6—1. Mrs. Margaret Graham, Washington, was the victim of Miss Reigel, the scores being 6—3, 6—1.

Betty Cochran, of Washington, who was the best tennis player at the Warrenton (Va.) Country School, a year ago, defeated Anne Austin McLanahan, 6—2, 6—3.

Mrs. Ruth Martinez, of the Capital, triumphed over Ethel Martien in straight sets, 6—0, 6—0. Mrs. A. Rudolph Stewart, formerly of Washington, lost to Margaret Anderson, 6—2, 6—4.

In a gruelling three set match, Mary Martlett Gibbs downed a District entrant, Sara Moore, 6—8, 6—2, 6—2.

After defeating Irma Jacobs, 6—1, 6—1, in the first round, Mary Ryan, of Washington, lost to Elizabeth Warren, of Richmond, in the second round. The last score was 6—4, 6—2.

JOHNNY O'BRIEN TO WED.

Los Angeles, June 22 (A.P.).—Johnny O'Brien, Los Angeles, who played end for Notre Dame last fall, today filed notice of intention to wed Miss Leona M. Martin, Los Angeles. O'Brien gave his age as 26 and Miss Martin's as 20.

Diamond Dust

THE Victory Post Baseball Team will be reorganized at a meeting to be held tonight at 8 o'clock at 4308 Thirteenth street northwest. Manager "Pop" Klinedinst earnestly requests all members of the team to attend this meeting.

The Washington Red Sox are still talking about their double defeat of the Martinsburg (W. Va.) Team in that town Sunday. The Sox won by scores of 14-9 and 9-8. Curtis connected for eight hits in ten trips to the plate, counting among his efforts two doubles and a triple, while Lefty Jewett was close behind with five safe bingles in nine attempts. Two of the blows were doubles. Bob Snyder, who caught for Eastern in the last high school series, had a perfect day at shortstop, handling ten chances without an error.

The Majestic Radios will practice tomorrow at 5 p. m. on diamond No. 3 of the Monument Grounds, in preparation for Saturday's game with the Chevy Chase Grays. Sunday the Majestics meet the league-leading Capitol Heights nine in the Capitol City LLeague, and Manager Wyche's charges hope to hang a defeat on the Marylanders.

"Wee Willie" Glascoe's Griffith-Blue Coals will drill tomorrow at 5 p. m. on the Phoenix diamond. Willie was well pleased with his revamped team's showing Sunday and he is aiming to hand the Dixie Pigs their first defeat when these teams clash in their final Capital City League meeting Sunday.

Odd Fellows Meet Tomorrow.

The Line Offficers Association of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows will meet in Kidder's Hall tomorrow at 8:20 p. m. to lay plans for a picnic in August at Seaside Beach and for the participation of Odd Fellows in the bicentennial in 1932.

JUNIOR, BOYS TENNIS THIS WEEK-END

THE annual Middle Atlantic junior and boys tennis tournament will be held Friday and Saturday of this week on the courts of Wardman Park Hotel with an entry list composed of the winners and runners-up of junior and boys tournaments held within the last several weeks in Baltimore, Richmond, Norfolk and White Sulphur Springs.

Ten juniors and ten boys make up the tournament, which will whittle down to the final round on the first day's play, the final to be played Saturday. The winner in each division will be sent to the national junior and boys championships at Culver, Ind., August 10 to 15, all expenses to be taken care of by the Middle Atlantic Association.

Just as Washington had a strong entry in the boys' championship last year—Jock McLean, who won over Henry Barclay, of Baltimore, 6—0, 6—2 in the final round, and then made such a showing at Culver that he was ranked fourth in the country—this year sees another local youth an odds-on favorite to make a name for himself in the tournament.

Hunt Ranks Among Favorites.

Gilbert Hunt, winner of the District boys title, is the threat. Big and strong for his age of 15, Hunt has a mixture of strokes which might be emulated by every senior player in the District.

Charles Daly, junior champion of the District, and Ricky Willis, his runner-up, are being counted upon to give good accounts of themselves in the junior singles. Washington's other entry in the meet is Nathan Ritzenberg, who battled Hunt unsuccessfully in the final of the District event.

A committee of the Washington Tennis Association, composed of Winfree Johnson, Herbert Shepard and William O. Shreve, will handle the tournament. The boys will make their headquarters at Wardman and sightseeing and other diversions are being planned for the moments when they are not on the courts.

As usual no doubles will be played.

FORMER GRID STAR AND BRIDE

Old Colony Hopes to Upset Takoma Tiger Nine Sunday

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

THE long debated question as to whether the champion Takoma Tigers are really superior to the Old Colony tossers this season will be definitely settled when these teams meet in a double-header at 1:30 p. m. Sunday on the Garrett Park Diamond. At the same time, on the Cabin John Field, the Bethesda Firemen will be striving to score a double victory in their two games with the German's Bakery team. The last time these two men the Bakers won by a 6-to-2 score.

Manager Sarl Burdine, of the Old Colony nine, has rounded up a collection of players whom he believes will defeat the champions. The most notable of the new talent signed by the Old Colony chiefton is Chick Dorsey, a pitcher who recently performed with the Handerson club in the Piedmont League. Burdine plans to start Dorsey in the first game and to follow up with Johnny Pope in the nightcap.

"Holley" Gass at First Base.

In the infield "Hooley" Gass will show at first, Al Wellens at second, Charley Miller at third and Charley McVean at shortstop. The outfield has not been definitely settled on, although Dick Wingate and George Skinner are certain to start. George Delaney will do the receiving. Burdine is intent upon stopping the champs in both games, an ambitious feat considering that the latter have escaped unscathed in their six league games.

The first time they met Takoma won after a hectic game by a 15-9 score. Old Colony was leading, 8-1, in the fourth inning, when Charley Carter, shortstop, regarded as the keyman of the team's defense, was injured and forced to leave the game. According to Burdine, his team would not have been defeated but for this accident. There will be no alibis for Sunday's games, however, at least not from the Old Colony delegation. The players are in tip-top shape, and if they lose it will be to a better team.

Manager Simpson, of the Tigers, is standing pat on the same line-up that has carried the team through thus far. Simpson's chief pride is the mound staff he has assembled this year. Davidson, Milburn, Horace Duffy, Ed Morosey and Dick Hughes form a staff that should rank with the best of them. Morosey has done especially well this season.

Simpson Has Strong Infield.

For his infield, Simpson has Baker at first, Tribby, a dangerous slugger, at second; Wilson at third and Henley at shortstop. Hessler, Fitzgerald and James take care of what outfielding work there is.

Simpson is content to let his gang's performance Sunday suffice for a reply to the Old Colony threats. He is confident that the champions will live up to their title and justify their right to the leadership of the circuit.

The Bakery nine's fight with the Firemen should produce some good baseball as both teams are evenly matched and will be fighting for third place in the league standings. Against the Tigers Sunday the Bakers were completely outclassed, especially in the second game, and the Firemen did not prove especially bothersome for the Grays, although they lost by a more respectable score.

Dixie Trials At 36 Holes Next Year

Many Leading Players Have Been Eliminated in Past.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 22 (A.P.).—Much of the "qualifying round scare" will be missing at the Southern amateur golf championship next year as Dixie's golfers shoot for eligibility positions over the 36-hole route instead of the 18-hole distance of past seasons.

Lowry Arnold, Atlanta, president of the Southern Association, said today the new 36-hole plan would make for a better tournament, and there are many excellent golfers who will agree with him.

"The new qualifying test will eliminate some of the freak upsets and make for a better and harder competition all the way," Arnold said.

Included among those who "blew" a couple of holes and found themselves outside the select circle as match play started in the 1931 tournament were Dave Black, Atlanta, Georgia champion; Reuben Bush, New Orleans, a former Dixie ruler; Files Crenshaw, of Montgomery, one of Alabama's best performers; Charles Black, Atlanta champion; Jake Lebourgeois, New Orleans, runner-up to Sam Perry, Birmingham, in the 1929 Southern, and George Bush, also of New Orleans, a former Louisiana champion. All failed to qualify.

Any of these players would have been a credit to the top flight and probably would have qualified over the longer distance where a seven or an eight on a couple of holes wouldn't have counted so heavily in the final rating.

For the past two years, the champions barely have qualified. At Sedgefield in 1929, Emmett Spicer just slipped under the wire and this year Chasteen Harriss, who won the tournament by downing Jack Toomer, Jacksonville, joined a group of six or seven who squeezed in with 78's.

The new ball, which has been the subject of much discussion throughout the golfing world since it was adopted some months ago, seemed to behave well enough for the Southern players.

Some were canning putts all over the green with it, but there were others who blamed many a short roller which stopped at the cup on the larger ball.

Arnold and J. M. Scott, Charlotte, N. C., the vice president, who were reelected, will supervise the running of next year's tournament. The site of this event will be selected next March. The Birmingham Country Club and the Metairie Club in New Orleans are the high bidders.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ROAD PLAN IS URGED BY FAIRFAX CITIZENS

Letter to Chairman Shirley Approves Lee Boulevard, Highway Link.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Led by Mayor L. P. Daniel and members of the town council, several prominent citizens of the town of Falls Church have sent a letter to Chairman H. G. Shirley, of the State Highway Commission, approving the proposed plans for construction of a connecting link between the Lee Boulevard and the Lee Highway. The proposed road would extend from the present terminus of the Lee Boulevard, at Port Buffalo, to the Henderson property on the Lee Highway near the present junction of the Falls Church-Annandale road.

The State Highway Commission originally planned such a connecting link as a temporary outlet for the Lee Boulevard traffic, later changing the plans to divert the traffic from Fort Buffalo along the Alexandria-Leesburg pike to the junction of the Lee highway. The State engineers also surveyed a route along Fairfax street in Falls Church, past the Episcopal Church, but later abandoned the idea.

Approximately two months ago a special committee from the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce made a survey of all State Highways in the county, and issued recommendations for their improvement for a more efficient handling of traffic expected in 1932, during the George Washington Bicentennial celebration. Among these recommendations was one that the Lee Highway be widened through the town of Falls Church. This recommendation was indorsed by the Falls Church Town Council and many of the civic organizations of the county.

It has been stated that a blueprint showing the proposed 40-foot connecting link is now in the possession of State Engineer T. W. Ross, who has charge of the work being done on the Lee highway, from Halls Hill to Board street in Falls Church, and he has been interviewing property owners along the proposed routes and signing them up for the necessary right of way.

A rumor prevails among citizens of Fairfax County that the State is planning to build the connecting link from Fort Buffalo to Falls Church, and making the Lee highway beyond Falls Church serve temporarily as the Lee boulevard, and constructing a cut-off around the town of Fairfax from Swayzes Hill through the Fairfax County Fair Grounds to the junction of the Lee highway and Little River turnpike, at the Black Lantern Inn.

It is stated that the right of way for the construction of the cut-off around Fairfax has been turned over to the State by Attorneys Frederick D. Richardson and John W. Rust, of Fairfax. The right of way has been accepted by the State, but the deeds have not been recorded. During the past week surveyors from the State have been working along this route, causing many to believe that the State is planning to construct this cut-off immediately.

The citizens of Falls Church stated that they had sent this letter to Chairman Shirley because they believed the plan to be "practical, economical and efficient," and it had been brought to their attention that such action on the part of the State Highway Commission would be protested by those who were interested and working for the immediate extension of the Lee boulevard right of way through Fairfax County, paralleling the present Lee highway to Centerville and thence on to Shenandoah Park. Citizens stated that they were not opposed to the eventual construction of such a highway, but they believed that if the Lee highway were widened to 40 feet, it would meet amply the needs of the motoring public for several years.

The Eastern Potomac Federation of Baptist Young People's Unions will meet this evening in the Baptist Church at Woodlawn. A special program has been arranged for the young people of the Woodlawn Church.

The annual election of officers of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Volunteer Fire Department at Falls Church will take place at the meeting this evening at the home of Mrs. Nellie Ward. Plans will be made for furnishing refreshments at the coming firemen's carnival, which will be conducted by the local firemen.

A lawn party will be given this evening by the Epworth League of the Southern Methodist Church at Chesterbrook. The party will be held on the church lawn beginning at 7 o'clock.

The Light Branch Auxiliary of Falls Church will hold a meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Huber in Falls Church.

The Fairfax Camp of Modern Woodmen of America will meet this evening in Robey Hall at Fairfax. J. Cowan Caylor, of Wycomico Church, Va., district manager of the order, will outline plans for a large class initiation to be held in Fairfax on July 7.

The annual electon of officers of the Garden Club, of Fairfax, will be held this morning at the meeting of the club at the home of its president, Mrs. Amos H. Chilcott, on Main street, in Fairfax. An amendment to the club's constitution will also be voted upon at this time.

The annual firemen's carnival of the Volunteer Fire Department of Fairfax will open this evening on Mathey Lot, just west of the County Jail, in Fairfax. The carnival will continue each evening, closing at midnight on Saturday.

Several new attractions have been planned for this year. The proceeds of the carnival will be used to make the payment on the note which is due to fall on the fire apparatus. George B. Robey is chairman in charge of all general arrangements. He will be assisted by the members of the departments, who will have charge of the various stands. Saturday evening firemen from the four other volunteer departments in Fairfax County will attend the carnival in a group to assist the local department. The Fairfax Women's Auxiliary of the department will have charge of the refreshment booths.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Brown's Chapel will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Theodore Utterback, near Colvin Run. The Rev. Richard Scholl, who was recently appointed pastor of the church by the Baltimore Conference, has been invited to attend today's meeting.

According to the records of the county clerk, F. W. Richardson, at Fairfax, 41 divorces were granted in the Fairfax County circuit court during 1930, as against 21 in 1929, while the number of marriage licenses increased from 144 in 1929 to 178 in 1930.

Alexandria Water Hearing Resumed

Richmond, Va., June 22 (A.P.).—Hearing on the petition of the Alexandria Water Co. for a 40 per cent increase in rates was resumed today before the State corporation commission, with the cross-examination of T. R. Hughes, witness for the company.

During the afternoon, counsel for the company put C. E. Towbridge, filtration expert, on the stand. His testimony was designed to rebut statements made by Lee Williamson, Richmond engineer, regarding the condition of filters in the Alexandria plant.

The Alexandria company is asking the corporation commission for permission to raise rates on the ground that their investment represents an outlay of $2,050,000, while the annual income is only $64,000. The city is fighting the proposal, asserting that the valuation of the company's holdings is slightly above $1,000,000, and that the service needs improvement. The hearing was expected to be closed Wednesday.

KEEZELL DIES AT 77; SHENANDOAH LEADER

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., June 22.—George Bernard Keezell, one of the outstanding figures of Rockingham County, who served in the Virginia State Senate 29 years and in the House of Delegates 6 years, died this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

His rugged constitution had waged a battle to hurl back three ailments, a compound fracture of the hip and kidney and heart trouble. He was 77 years old. The end came after his fighting spirt had brought three rallies from comas in which his family thought he was dead.

Senator Keezell's illness dates to a fall he received May 31, when he slipped in his cellar and broke his hip in two places.

At the time of his death Senator Keezell was county treasurer, a position to which he was appointed two and a half years ago to succeed J. A. Garber, when the latter was elected to Congress from the Seventh congressional district.

Held First Office at 21.

Few Virginians have had as active a career in politics as Senator Keezell. When 21 years of age he was elected a justice of the peace of Rockingham County. When 29 he was elected to the State Senate, and served in that body consecutively from 1883 to 1911, a period of nearly 30 years. He resigned to take an appointment as county treasurer of Rockingham County, and after serving a year was defeated for election.

Eight years later he was elected to the House of Delegates from Rockingham County and served six years, when he retired again to accept an appointment as county treasurer.

Senator Keezell had been a power in Valley politics for a half century. Six feet and a half tall and weighing nearly 300 pounds, possessing a marvelous memory, a keen intellect and a knack for political leadership, he had been the dominant figure in Rockingham for a generation.

While serving in the State Senate he worked his way to the chairmanship of the important finance committee, and served on other important committees of that body He served for years as a member of the State Board of Fisheries. He was author of legislation for establishment of a State teachers' college in Harrisonburg.

Helped Revise State Government.

When 71 years old he was made a member of the Reed commission, which recommended Virginia's present reorganized governmental plan, under which Virginia ceased to operate by piling up deficits.

Senator Keezell was born July 20, 1854, and was the only child of George and Amanda Fitzzallen Keezell. His grandfather, George Keezell, founded the family in Rockingham, coming here in 1794.

Senator Keezel was a member of the constitutional convention of 1902, which wrote Virginia's present organic law. He served for a period of years as editor of the Harrisonburg Daily Record and was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Senator Keezell was married twice. His first wife was Miss Marry Hannah. Five children were born to this union. They are Walter B. Keezell, Capt. R. P. Keezell, Nathaniel Keezell, Mrs. Claude V. Smith and Mrs. J. F. Sims, all of Rockingham County. Senator Keezell's second wife was Miss Belle C. Hannah, a sister of his first wife. There were no children to this union. She died seven years ago.

Publisher of 2 Papers At Durham, N. C., Dies

Durham, N. C., June 22 (A.P.).—Edward T. Rollins, 67, owner and publisher of the Durham Morning Herald and Durham Sun, died in his sleep here early today. A heart attack was assigned as the direct cause of his death.

For thirty years he published the Morning Herald and in August, 1929, purchased the Durham Sun, the Evening newspaper, from the Page interests, of Columbus, Ga.

ALEXANDRIANS PLAN PROTEST ON CURVES

Delegation Will Urge State Action to Eliminate Danger Spots.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria, 923.

A delegation from the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, headed by Representative Howard W. Smith, will leave here Thursday morning for Richmond to urge upon the State highway commission the necessity for the widening of the Richmond-Washington highway from Alexandria to Fredericksburg, and also for eliminating some of the many curves on the road, which in some cases are dangerous. Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the chamber of commerce, states he has invited 55 Alexandrians to make the trip.

The highway commission is already engaged in widening the road on two stretches south of Fredericksburg, and it is contended that the Alexandria-Fredericksburg portion of the road carries a much heavier traffic, and has many more curves and steep grades than the southern portion. The road is designed as U. S. Route No. 1 and is now between 18 and 20 feet in width.

The delegation will leave Alexandria in automobiles at 8 o'clock Thursday morning, from Patrick street, between Prince and Duke streets.

An open meeting of the city council was held last night in the council chamber, for the purpose of hearing complaints against the proposed new zoning ordinance. A number of citizens attended and offered suggestions as to changes, which will be taken under consideration by the council before reaching a vote on the ordinance. Members of the zoning and planning commission were also present.

Alexandria-Washington Lodge, No. 22, A. F. & A. M., will, at its regular communication Thursday night, entertain the grand master of Masons in Virginia, Dr. A. M. Showalter, of Christiansburg, and many of the other officers of the grand lodge of Virginia.

Worshipful Master Skidmore, of Alexandria-Washington Lodge, has extended invitations to the officers and members of all Masonic lodges in this section of the State to attend this meeting, and since there are about fifteen lodges in northern Virginia, it is expected there will be a large attendance. Because of the general interest, this has been designated as Virginia Night.

Walter Gardner, recenily indicted by a grand jury on a charge of perjury in connection with a divorce case, has been arrested in New Smyrna, Fla., where he is being held for the Alexandria authorities, according to a telegram received by Police Capt. W. W. Campbell from J. B. White, of New Smyrna.

Capt. Campbell has wired the Smyrna authorities to hold Gardner until requisition papers can be forwarded for his return to this jurisdiction.

The Knights of Columbus Home Association committee will hold its annual garden party on the Xavierian Brothers' School lawn, Queen and Patrick streets, tomorrow, Thursday and Friday nights. Many tables, booths and stands will be in evidence, and the Citizens Band will furnish music.

The committee on arrangements is headed by George W. Kimball, assisted by C. R. Hellmuth, E. E. Downham, T. J. McFarland, Judge William P. Woolls, P. N. Schoeni, Frank T. Quinn, C. M. Rothmund, M. J. McFarland and Francis H. Fannon. The public has been invited to attend.

The Alexandria United Charities has moved into new quarters in the first floor of the City Hall Building, on the Cameron street side adjacent to the city health office, in the room formerly occupied by the Red Cross and Antituberculosis Society. The organization formerly occupied a room on the second floor of the City Hall Building.

More than 1,000 persons sought relief from the intense heat Sunday between the hours of 2 and 6 p. m. by taking a plunge in the municipal swimming pools, according to J. F. Wilson, recreational director. In some instances as many as four persons were compelled to use the same locker, so great was the congestion.

Frank Johnson, Negro, of 629 North Pitt street, is in a serious condition in the Alexandria Hospital as the result of being shot by Thomas Pratt, Negro, of 412 Oronoco street. The shooting took place at Royal and Oronoco streets late Sunday night. Johnson was taken to the Alexandria Hospital by the Rescue Squad of Potomac Engine Company, No. 2. Pratt was arrested half an hour after the shooting by Sergts. Padgett and Sims and is being held pending the outcome of Johnson's injuries.

Faith Banks, 23, of 407 Pendleton street, was painfully cut by Elizabeth Talley, both Negroes, Sunday night and had 21 stitches taken in her wounds by Dr. M. D. Delaney, jr., interne at the Alexandria Hospital. The Talley woman is being held on a charge of felonious cutting.

Funeral services for William Clyde Gillum, 8 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everette Gillum, of 408 Queen street, who was drowned in Hunting Creek Saturday, will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternon from the home of the parents by the Rev. D. L. Snyder, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Maryland Town Votes Down New Water Plant

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., June 22.—By a vote of 66 to 64, citizens of Myersville, in the Middletown Valley, refused to ratify a bond issue of $30,000 authorized by the last Legislature of Maryland for a water supply. Last summer, during the drought, the town experienced a water shortage and supplies were hauled from the mountain. Some months ago, at the request of the town authorities, engineers prepared plans for a reservoir at the foot of South Mountain with a capacity of 100,000 gallons to be piped to homes by gravity. When the Legislature authorized the bond issue, it was stipulated that the improvement must have the sanction of voters of the town. Those opposed to the project claimed that $30,000 is too much to spend for water when springs with an unlimited supply are available in the mountain.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

TAXICAB ADVERTISING.

ADVERTISING has invaded taxicabs. A New York corporation has placed revolving electric signs in a fleet of taxis and believes all cabs will ultimately adopt the idea. How the public will react to the innovation remains to be seen. Watching the meter with one eye and the revolving ads with the other is going to keep passengers fairly busy.

• • • •

It will not be very reassuring, as the cab grazes a fire engine or lamp-post, to see the sign flash, "Have You Made That Will?" Nor will it be very comforting when stalled in a traffic jam to watch the revolving advertisements cry "The Great Outdoors Is Calling You," "Enjoy Six Wonderful Days at Sea," or "Buy a Bicycle."

• • • •

After a passenger has been held up for the fifth time by a red light on a cross-town trip of eight blocks it will be pretty exasperating to be implored to "Watch for Signs of Athletes' Foot."

• • • •

And when you are just taking a ride in the park with some sweet young creature it is going to be fairly embarrassing to see the sign flash that adertisement, "She Will Like You in B. V. D.'s."

• • • •

Just what advertisers will find the taxicabs advantageous is open to wide speculation, but it would seem offhand that advertisements for rest cures, private hospitals, sanitariums and nerve tonics prove highly remunerative.

• • • •

MERELY A FEW SUGGESTIONS.

ADVERTISING slogans to be flashed after the driver has just skidded through a plate glass window:

"Where Will You be at 60?"
"Let Us Show You How to Create an Estate."
"Say It with Flowers!"

"It's Toasted."

To be shown when an irritable middle-aged male passenger is giving vent to his wrath over the taxi rate:

"Keep Kissable."
"Don't Shout! I Can Hear You."

When the cab has gone over an embankment:

"Good to the Last Drop."

"Always a Bridesmaid, Never a Bride."
"He Wondered Why She Turned Away."

• • • •

OBSERVATIONS.

YOU have to say this about Gandhi—he never gets hot under the collar.

• • • •

• • • •

"London Train Colored to Suit Moods of Commuters"—headline. The coal tender must swarm with business men these days. QUE.

• • • •

YOU have to admit that Starr Faithfull, victim in the New York murder mystery, had certain gifts of expression. Frinstance, did you notice her diary description of a certain young man: "He looks exactly like a match before it has been lit?" And that other one: "He is like a fat bird with wondering eyes."

• • • •

A policeman discovered a man under his bed in New York the other night. With conditions such as they are in our big cities you can understand how a citizen might feel the urge to spend his nights that way.

Trial Is Scheduled In Assault Case

Henry Taylor, 55, Faces Jury Tomorrow in Alleged Attack.

Montross, Va., June 22 (A.P.).—Henry Taylor, 55, indicted for an alleged attack upon a white woman near Oak Grove, will be placed on trial in Westmoreland circuit court here Wednesday.

The true bill against Taylor was returned by a grand jury in May, not very long after the alleged attack, and charges criminal attack. The commonwealth made an effort this month to have Taylor committed to an institution for mental observation but this was dismissed by Judge E. Hugh Smith after a hearing here this month.

Taylor is represented by W. W. Butzner, of Montross, and George Mason, of Colonial Beach, while Commonwealth Attorney Watt T. Mayo is the prosecutor. Mr. Mayo was assisted at the recent hearing here by State Senator R. O. Norris, who may also assist in the prosecution at the trial.

Youth Killed by Bullet As He Prepares to Wed

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., June 22.—State troopers and a dozen county officers went to the Lane Community Church neighborhood, 19 miles north of Sutton, today to investigate the slaying of Delbert Knicely, 22, mountaineer farmer, last evening as he was preparing to marry Miss Mary Cooger, 18.

Knicely was shot down by a rifle bullet fired from a ridge across a valley. The missle passed through an open window and pierced his head. Officers are working on a theory that jealousy prompted the murder.

Alma Miller, Victim of Candle Accident, to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Five-year-old Alma Mae Miller, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William C. Miller, of Gaithersburg, Md., died early yesterday at her home as the result of burns. The child was burned Wednesday when her clothing caught fire while she was lighting a Christmas candle.

The little girl was playing in the basement of the Miller home Wednesday when she found some Christmas-tree candles stored there. She procured matches and attempted to light the candles. Her dress caught fire, and she was burned. She ran to her mother, who was in the yard of the home, but the mother was unable to extinguish the flames before the child was badly injured.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Miller home, in Gaithersburg. Burial will be in Beallsville Cemetery, near Barnesville, where the Miller family lived prior to coming to Gaithersburg. The child is survived by her parents and a brother.

Fugitive for 12 Years, Reformed, Surrenders

Richmond, Va., June 22 (A.P.).—Jesse S. Strauderman, of Youngstown, Ohio, wanted as a fugitive from justice because as a minor he escaped from a road camp in 1919, was back in the Virginia Penitentiary today. He arrived at noon.

Strauderman, serving a term on a charge of stealing clothing from a box car, has led an exemplary life since his imprisonment and escape at the age of 18. Gov. Pollard, who was asked to pardon him, said that he would consider his pardon if he would return to Virginia and surrender.

CONSTABLE'S OFFICE THOUGHT ABOLISHED

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The act of the legislature creating the new county court which replaces the office of the police court judge and all of the justices of the peace will also abolish the office of constable, according to opinions expressed by members of the Arlington County Bar Association.

While the act did not mention the office of constable, but did mention that of justice of the peace, it was the opinion that with the new form of county government effective January 1, 1932, which abolishes the three magisterial districts, the office of constable, which is an elective office by districts, will be ended.

Despite the fact that there has not been any public statement on the change in the county form of government, there has been announcement of one candidacy for constable, that of Joseph C. Fought. Indications are that there will be many more. Mr. Fought is a candidate from Washington District.

Leo Lloyd, of Clarendon, announced last night that he will be a candidate for membership on the county board of five which, in the new form of government, replaces the present three-man county board of supervisors.

There are now more than 20 candidates seeking the office, and indications are that 60 days before election, which will be the last opportunity for persons to file their intentions, the total will exceed 30.

Amid the blazing of hundreds of colored electric lights, the Cherrydale Volunteer Fire Department opened its annual carnival last night on the school grounds. The affair will continue the entire week.

The grounds are well filled by attractive booths which are filled with useful articles. Dancing will be a feature each night.

The county school board announces that the contract for additions to the Patrick Henry School, at Arlington, and the Jefferson Colored School, on Johnson's Hill, has been awarded to C. M. Buchanan, of Clarksville.

Work on both projects has been started. There will be an addition of four rooms at Patrick Henry School, while at the Jefferson School eight rooms will be added. Plans and specifications for the work were prepared by the State school architect, Raymond V. Long.

County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp states that with the completion of the addition to the Jefferson School, facilities will be furnished to carry on a high school course for the colored pupils of the county.

The Kiwanis Club of Arlington County will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at Windsor Arms at 12:30 o'clock. Judge Harry B. Caton, of the Washington Club, will speak.

Arlington Lodge, No. 193, I. O. O. F., and Clarendon Rebekah Lodge, No. 28, opened their annual carnival last night on the field at Wilson boulevard in Ballston. The proceeds will be applied to the fund to maintain the Odd Fellows Hall in Clarendon.

Meeting at the home of Mrs. Ethel M. Gregory, Clarendon, officers of the Alexandria-Arlington County Woman's Christian Temperance Union perfected plans for the quarterly meeting of the organization at the First Baptist Church, Alexandria, next Saturday.

The afternoon session will start at 2 o'clock and will be followed by a dinner at 6 o'clock at which there will be a program of addresses and music. Dr. Izora Scott, national director of the legislative department, will be the principal speaker.

The Ballston Citizens Association will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow evening in the auditorium of Firemen's Hall.

The Woman's Club of Ashton Heights announces a card party tonight in the clubhouse to which the public is invited.

Announcement is made that the Arlington Public Library will be open Tuesday and Friday mornings from 10 to 12 o'clock during the summer.

Members of the Ladies Aid Society will be hostesses at a reception and social hour in honor of the Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Townsend tonight at the Calvary Methodist Protestant Church in Aurora Hills. Mr. Townsend recently returned from the yearly conference where he received reappointment for another year.

The Clarendon Circle of St. George's Episcopal Church will hold a luncheon meeting today at the home of Mrs. E. A. Pitkin, 205 Marion avenue, Clarendon.

Samuel P. Hatcher died at his home, 140 Bryant avenue, Clarendon, Va., last evening. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Eleanor H. Hatcher. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Wytheville, Va., June 22 (A.P.).—A writ of error was refused by the State Supreme Court of Appeals today in the case of Garland Smith, 23-year-old North Carolinian, convicted last year of slaying Chief of Police Mac Tuck, of Clarksville.

Smith, who was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment, received a like sentence Saturday upon being convicted of the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Bernard Puryear, another victim of the ambush shoting. It was the third time Smith had been convicted in connection with the death of the two officers. The defense sought to establish an alibi, contending that the defendant was in Catawaba County, N. C., preparing to elope with his 16-year-old sweetheart.

Heat Kills Smelter Worker.

VETERANS AND SONS GATHER FOR REUNION

Mere Remnant of Survivors of Confederate Cause Will Be Present.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 22.—A mere remnant of Confederacy's few remaining veterans in Virginia began assembling here tonight to attend the forty-fourth annual reunion of Confederate Veterans of Virginia and the thirty-sixth annual reunion of the Virginia Division, Sons of Veterans, to be held jointly, with headquarters at the Monticello Hotel.

Just what number of Virginia survivors of the battles fought from 1861 to 1865 will attend the three-day exercises is problematical. There are hardly more than 50 Grand Camp chapters in existence in the State today. Reports received by Gen. C. B. Linney, of this city, from organizations of veterans in 36 of the 100 counties reveals that just about 100 will come from those counties.

No more than 50 will come from the cities of the State. From the Soldiers Home, Richmond, there will be 25, some, however, only for one day, so feeble is their condition. As the counties heard from represent only a little more than one-third of the entire State, it would seem that, in all, not many more than 400 of the followers of Lee and Jackson will gather here for the reunion.

Death Toll Is Heavy.

The reports received by Gen. Linney reveal some interesting facts. In many instances camps have gone out of existence, so rapidly has been the death toll. For example, the county of Rockbridge and the town of Lexington will be represented by only four veterans, if Gen. Linney's information is correct.

Alexandria, in the northern end of the State, will send only one veteran. The city of Norfolk will have but four representatives. From Harrisonburg will come but two, from Farmville three, from Winchester four, from Danville, 9. The largest delegations will come from Richmond, Lynchburg, Roanoke and Danville. Here in Charlottesville the John Bowie Strange Camp has only a dozen survivors. The Washington (D. C.) Camp will be represented by two veterans.

Elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment of the veterans and other visitors. Besides the business session planned, there will be automobile drives to historic points, a ball and a grand parade the last day of the reunion.

To Hold Business Meetings.

All business meetings of the veterans will be held at the Monticello Hotel, and the joint meting of the Grand Camp and Sons of Veterans will take place at the city armory. The chief speaker at the reunion will be R. Gray Williams, of Winchester. This address will be delivered at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning at the armory.

The first business meeting of the Grand Camp, C. V., will be called to order by Carter H. Bishop, of Petersburg, who became grand commander upon the death, last December of Carey R. Warren, of Portsmouth, elected to head the Grand Camp at the reunion held last September in Orange and presided over by Col. Edgar Warfield.

The Virginia division, United Confederate Veterans, will hold their first meeting at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and will be presided over by Maj. Gen. William McK Evans, of Richmond. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at this session.

At 8 o'clock tomorrow evening the formal welcome and presentation of official ladies will take place in the armory, the program to be under the auspices of the Sons of Confederate Veterans.

PLAN FOR JUVENILE COURTS EXPLAINED

Prince Georges Women Told How County May Open New System.

Maryland's new plan for the establishment of juvenile courts in each county which desires them was explained to the Prince Georges County Federation of Women's Clubs meeting yesterday by Miss Lavinia Engle, member of the House of Delegates from Montgomery County.

After Miss Engle spoke it was decided to have the committee on social service draw up a resolution favoring a juvenile court. This resolution will be presented to the federation at its next meeting in September for action. In the meantime those club representatives who were at the executive board meeting yesterday will explain the working of the plan to their clubs.

Miss Engle explained that a board of public welfare, similar to the school board, will be appointed in each county by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie. This board, which will consist of five members, will recommend the appointment of a juvenile court judge, who must be a lawyer and at least 25 years old. Appointments for Prince Georges County have not been made, but will be announced shortly, she said.

Asked about the estimated cost of a separate juvenile court, Miss Engle said that it would probably not run more than a few hundred dollars per year. She added that it would be cheaper than trials of criminal types, which might develop in the absence of a juvenile court. Before explaining the steps taken toward removing juvenile delinquency, she showed the present system in Maryland and went briefly into its history.

Miss Engle was followed by a speaker from the Maryland Children's Aid Society, who also spoke in favor of a juvenile judge, and pointed out the necessity for care in the selection of such a one. Mrs. C. O. Appleman, chairman of the social welfare committee of the Federation, presided over the meeting while Miss Engle spoke.

The executive board also approved an amendment to the constitution changing the method of paying the bills of the Federation. Under the new regulation bills will be paid by the treasurer on the recommendation of the ways and means committee. The change had already been approved by the clubs, and goes into effect immediately.

Mrs. J. Enos Ray explained the universal membership system to the meeting, by which clubs may become members of the State Federation directly. This means that they may have a direct voice in the State Federation affairs as well as through their county delegates.

The rest of yesterday's meeting, which was held in Hyattsville, was taken up with the reports of department chairmen and delegates to the State Federation meeting and the Community Council meeting.

The new schedule of gas rates for Hyattsville and vicinity has been approved by the Public Service Commission and will go into effect on July 1, it has been officially announced.

This means a victory for those organizations, notably the chamber of commerce, which have been working for lower rates since before the Washington
